FOREIGN TRADE DIRECTOR HAILS TRIBUNE'S DRIVE

'Value Inestimable,' Says W. L. Thorp.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S campaign for wider markets for American products was hailed today by Willard L. Thorp, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the commerce department, as a service of inestimable value to the country.

He found particularly illuminating the report of THE TRIBUNE'S correspondents on trade opportunities already existing abroad and those that can be created through negotiation of reciprocal reduction of trade barriers. And he cited as particularly encouraging the interest manifested by manufacturers and other producers in the trade opportunities brought to their attention by THE TRIBUNE'S reports.

"It would be most helpful," said Dr. Thorp, "if we could determine exactly the importance of foreign trade to the American economic system. The various estimates which have been made in the past—that about 10 per cent of our total production is normally exported—leave much to be desired.

Costs a Million Jobs.

"Some industries depend upon the foreign markets for their very existence, while others can view fluctuations in foreign exchange with absolute unconcern. A recent study prepared in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce shows that more than one million men are unemployed as the result of the decline in foreign trade since 1929.

"It is impossible to measure the losses due to idleness of capital, equipment, shipping facilities, and the like. This one fact—that one million men are unemployed—seems to me sufficient to answer the question which I posed at the very outset. It gives international trade an important place in our economic system, deserving our very best thinking and vigorous effort."

The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce maintains a service to acquaint American business men with foreign trade opportunities. It issues a weekly publication entitled "Commerce Report," subscription $1.50 a year, containing reports on business conditions in all important countries and informing exporters of specific sales opportunities. SENATE JAILER ESCAPES FROM MR. MacCRACKEN

Now Federal Aid Is Hiding from Him.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A jailer escaped from his prisoner today is the latest episode of that amazing comedy which has arisen out of the efforts of the United States senate to punish Attorney William P. MacCracken Jr.

The fugitive jailer, who is in hiding as this dispatch is being written, is the sergeant at arms of the senate Chesley W. Jurney.

Though he has been ordered by the senate to arrest Mr. MacCracken, and Mr. MacCracken for some 48 hours has been trying very diligently to be arrested, even to the point of insisting upon boarding over night at his jailer's own apartment, Mr. Jurney is determined not to arrest the lawyer.

Jurney Makes Escape.

So today Sergeant at Arms Jurney escaped from the lawyer, who dogged the Jurney footsteps all over town, and tonight Mr. MacCracken, to his utmost woe and discomfiture, is not a prisoner.

And tomorrow Mr. Jurney will go before the District Supreme court, probably slipping in via a side door so that Mr. MacCracken won't be able to surrender himself again, and Mr. Jurney will tell the justice of the Supreme court that he can't produce Mr. MacCracken on a writ of habeas corpus because he hasn't yet arrested Mr. MacCracken, and, what's more, he won't until he gets quite good and ready to do so.

The much vaunted high dignity of the United States senate is suffering great pains as the lurid comedy goes on, and each hour produces fresh twinges of agony to the august senators—protectors of their own dignity.

MacCracken Defies Senate.

So that the play may begin properly, with an explanatory prolog, before the action leads up to the climax of today's scene—the jailer's escape from his prisoner—it may be set down that Lawyer MacCracken had defied the right of the senate to try him, with three of his clients, on charges of contempt.

Mr. MacCracken and his fellow conspirators are accused of destroying documents from the lawyer's files which related to their efforts to obtain air mail contracts. The three accused fellow conspirators appeared on Friday for trial, but Mr. MacCracken stayed away, sending a declaration instead to the senate announcing that the senate had no right to punish a private citizen for any offense.

The lawyer, who is a former Chicagoan and a former assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics under the Hoover administration, is relying upon his claim of constitutional rights, but the senators disagree with him.

Senate Orders Arrest.

The senators were wrathy at the MacCracken audacity, and forthwith ordered Sergeant at Arms Jurney to arrest him and bring him before the bar of the senate.

Mr. MacCracken was not to be found immediately, and Mr. Jurney was about to employ sleuths to track him down when the astute constitutional lawyer, Frank J. Hogan, announced on behalf of MacCracken that his client would surrender to Jurney in the courtroom of Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue. Mr. Hogan had arranged so that the justice would issue a writ of habeas corpus immediately and thus precipitate immediately into the courts the legal question of whether the senate did or did not have any right to try and punish a private citizen for contempt.

But the officer of the senate was not to be caught in that trap. He scurried back to the senate and was told to make no agreements, and that he was not to lay hands upon MacCracken until he could bring him directly before the body of the senate in session.

Senator Warns Jurney.

Mr. Jurney has been very nervous about the matter, because Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the committee which has investigated the letting of the air mail contracts, warned him that he was on his bond to carry out the senate's order to bring MacCracken to the bar of the senate—not to court.

It is conceded on both sides of the controversy that once MacCracken is in the senate chamber he cannot be

A COMPARISON

Russia Builds Ring of Iron to Halt Japs

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The full extent of a Soviet ring of iron and concrete fortifications along the Manchurian border was revealed today with publication of the text of Gen. Vassily Constantinovich Bluecher's address to the communist congress.

Gen. Bluecher is commander in chief of the Russian armies in the far east. He described to the all union congress in an address given last Thursday a red army so strong that it will "administer a blow capable of cracking and in some places destroying the very foundation of capitalism" in event of a Russo-Japanese war.

Cites Three Factors.

Gen. Bluecher challenged what he said was Japan's "feverish preparation" for war. Amid frequent cheers from delegates, the fighting man in blunt language cited three factors to support his accusation that Japan is converting Manchukuo into an armed base:

1. Construction of 1,000 kilometers [approximately 620 miles] of strategic railroads in north Manchukuo in the last two years, only 35 per cent of which, he said, were economically necessary.

2. Construction of 2,200 kilometers [approximately 1,367 miles] of highways in the same region.

3. Construction of 50 airdromes and aviation bases, concentrated north of Mukden.

"It is regrettable," said Gen. Bluecher, who would have the responsibility of directing far eastern military operations in the event of war, "that the present policy of the Japanese imperialists does not guarantee we will not be involved in military complications despite our effort to avoid them.

Big Army in Manchuria.

"The trouble is there is too much spread between words pronounced by the Japanese government regarding the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics and actions. Such actions show Japan is making feverish preparations for a great war and is preparing to leap upon our Soviet far east from Manchuria."

Charging Japan now has 130,000 troops and 500 airplanes in Manchuria, the military leader asserted "to this must be added 110,000 to 115,000 soldiers of the Manchukuo army, and 12,000 white guards, capable of bearing arms. The Sungari river naval fleet has been increased by 24 units.

"Hayashi [Gen. Senjuro Hayashi, Japanese minister of war] complains the Soviet government has concentrated 300 airplanes in the far east. We will not argue with him. We may have more or maybe less, but I can say our government is able to concentrate so many airplanes they will outnumber the Japanese planes."

Admits Mobilization of Troops.

Bluecher did not comment on Hayashi's estimate that Soviet troops concentrated in the far east numbered 100,000 beyond saying:

"It is not necessary to mention the number. Nevertheless the red army is greatly strengthened and we have encircled our frontiers by iron and concrete so they will be sufficiently strong and will break any imperialist head that comes against them."

"We are strong in the technique of tanks and aviation," he continued. "Our tanks and aviation are children of our five year plan and I think they will accomplish their Socialist duty, not only on the frontier, but somewhere deep in the rear lines of our imperialist enemy in the case of hostilities.

"War is not included in our second five year plan and we do not want to fight, but if we are compelled to do it, let our neighbors be ready to receive a bitter lesson."

MAKES HENS WIPE OWN FEET BEFORE LAYING CLEAN EGG

Salinas, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Before they lay their eggs, F. A. Hoddinot's hens must wipe their feet. It's a business and not a trial matter with the Prunedale poultryman.

Clean-shelled eggs bring the best prices. The hens with muddy feet, Hoddinot figured, were mostly responsible for messed-up eggshells.

So he devised a concrete door mat with rollers on it. Now when his hens start strutting to their coop they climb up the mat, the rollers revolve and, as the hens pedal swiftly to keep their balance, they wipe their feet clean despite themselves.

Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr. died suddenly in St. Luke's hospital yesterday morning. Death was due to a blood clot in a lung. She was 36 years old.

Her husband, the son of the fugitive founder of the ill-fated utility empire, was at her bedside. Mrs. Insull was the mother of a 2 year old son, Samuel Insull III. A cablegram telling of her death was sent to Samuel Insull Sr., who is now in Athens, Greece.

Rallies After Operation.

Mrs. Insull was taken to the hospital on Jan. 26 suffering from a kidney ailment. After she had been under observation for two weeks she underwent an operation on Feb. 8, her thirty-sixth birthday. Following the operation her husband kept a vigil at her bedside.

She rallied after the operation, according to attending physicians, and seemed to be making rapid progress toward complete recovery. At 7:30 yesterday morning the pulmonary embolism developed. Death came in 30 minutes. She was attended by Dr. Arthur Elliott, her family physician, and Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, a specialist.

In addition to her husband and son, Mrs. Insull is survived by a sister, Mrs. Robert McCreary of Lake Forest, and a half brother, Charles I. Pierce Jr. of Chicago.

Descendant of Pioneers.

Mrs. Insull was born in Kewanee, Ill. Her maiden name was Adelaide Lyman Pierce. Her father, Charles Ingals Pierce, was president of the Saline County Coal corporation and a descendant of a distinguished family of pioneers who landed in New England in 1628. He died June 13, 1927. Her mother, Louise Lyman Pierce of Kewanee, died many years ago.

Mrs. Insull attended grammar schools in Kewanee and Chicago. After attending the Rosemary Hall Finishing school at Greenwich, Conn., she was graduated from Smith college.

She made her debut here in 1919 and was prominent in the work of the Junior league. On June 15, 1926, she was married to Samuel Insull Jr. Their son was born May 26, 1931. The Insulls lived at 1242 Lake Shore drive.

Funeral Services Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in St. James Episcopal church at Wabash avenue and Huron street. The Rev. Duncan H. Brown, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be private in Graceland cemetery. The body will be taken to the church from the chapel at 200 East Erie street.

The active pallbearers will be Arthur Farwell, John V. Farwell, W. A. P. Pullman, Harold E. Foreman, George Carson Fillis, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Kemp S. Clow, C. B. Goodspeed, Matthew Hickey and E. Ogden Ketting.

Traylor Clings to Life; Amazes His Physicians

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, rallied late last night in his month long fight against pneumonia, but the odds were believed to be against his recovery. For 24 hours he had laid at the point of death as the result of a serious relapse Saturday night.

The attending physicians assembled in the Traylor home at 426 Barry avenue expressed amazement over Mr. Traylor's recuperative powers, which have already thrown off five relapses and made themselves felt against the sixth relapse—Saturday night's.

Collapse a Severe Shock.

"Mr. Traylor is as good as can be expected," said Dr. William R. Cubbins, spokesman for the medical group in attendance. "The Saturday night collapse was a severe shock. Mr. Traylor has been under a terrific strain and we are now dealing with an unusually delicate human machine."

The doctors, though happy over his rally, hesitated to express any optimism over Mr. Traylor's chances for ultimate recovery. The banker's color was good, and his pulse, temperature, and respiration had decreased. The pulse was 96, but irregular; the temperature, 101.4, and the respiration between 34 and 36.

During the latter part of the day Mr. Traylor slept considerably, although irregularly. On such occasions as he awakened his mind was quite clear. No attempt was made to get him to talk. Liquid nourishment, buttermilk and orange juice, was fed him.

"Very Seriously Ill."

At midnight Dr. Cubbins said that Mr. Traylor was "in a very good condition, but on the basis of a comparison to a very serious condition Saturday night." The banker, Dr. Cubbins said, is still very seriously ill. His heart is very tired because of the terrific strain, the physician added. He said the physicians in attendance were not looking for any immediate turn for the worse; that if any thing of that sort happened they would be very much surprised.

At 2 this morning it was announced that Mr. Traylor's temperature had dropped more than one degree to 100.2, but that his pulse and respiration were not appreciably changed. He was sleeping a natural sleep, unaided by sedatives. The household opinion was that he was getting along well.

The danger in the Saturday night setback was that it further weakened an already weakened system, and in this exhaustion lies the big peril to Mr. Traylor's life, according to the doctors. The first effect of the collapse was to cause what was nearly a virtual stoppage of breathing. The second was to render the banker unconscious.

Family, doctors, and friends plainly showed the strain of the week-end development. Mrs. Traylor, the banker's wife, and their children, Nancy and Melvin Jr., were finally persuaded to retire late last night. Dr. Cubbins and Dr. N. Clarke Gilbert also retired, while Dr. Carl Johnson remained on duty.

Loses 30 Pounds.

The ravages of his illness have caused Mr. Traylor to lose 20 pounds during the month, a report from the sickroom said. He formerly weighed 157 pounds. The remarkable fight he

BASIL BANGHART ARRESTED WITH 2,499 $5 BILLS

Basil Hugh Banghart, notorious criminal, who last summer eluded an elaborate police trap when he tried to collect a second ransom from John Factor, was captured yesterday in Baltimore, Md. In his room police found $12,495 in $5 bills.

Isaac Costner, identified with Banghart as a member of the Touhy gang which kidnaped Factor, was seized as he entered an apartment in the same building. Chicago police immediately telephoned Baltimore authorities asking that fugitive warrants be sworn out against both men.

Under Indictment Here.

Banghart is under indictment for the kidnaping of Factor, a wealthy speculator, and efforts will be made for his speedy extradition to Chicago, so he can be placed on trial. Roger Touhy, Gus Schaefer, and Albert Kator are scheduled to go on trial a second time this week for this kidnaping. The first trial of these men ended with a deadlocked jury last month before Judge Michael Feinberg.

When apprised of the Baltimore arrests Factor said he believed the seizure of Banghart would strengthen the case against the Touhys. He thought it probable that Costner was one of the kidnapers, too—the one "who was good to me." If so, Chicago authorities said, the extradition of Costner will be asked.

Baltimore police and federal department of justice agents had no difficulty in making the arrests. Informed that the pair had been making Baltimore their headquarters for the last two months, they were on the lookout. Saturday night the police received information that the men could be found at an apartment building in a residential section of Baltimore.

Two Women Arrested.

Twelve policemen raided the building and arrested two women, whose names were given as Jessie Touhy and Mary Stewart. Jessie Touhy identified herself as the sister-in-law of Roger Touhy and she is believed to be the wife of Tommy Touhy, a fugitive member of the gang. In the apartment were found two submachine guns, seven revolvers, one sawed-off shotgun and one rifle.

Later Banghart entered the building, went to his apartment, and, on finding the women gone started to leave. As he stepped to his automobile he was covered by police guns and had no chance to use his revolver or his reckless daring, which has twice helped him to escape from prison. Police said he was thoroughly frightened and told them he thought rival gangsters had closed in on him.

Later the captured gunman was quoted by police as saying: "I've got enough dough to be sent up for 25 years."

$1,486 Found on Costner.

Continuing an all-night watch over the apartment building, Baltimore police arrested Costner in the morning. The gangster made an effort to enter his seventh floor rooms and was taken when he returned to the elevator. He was not armed, but $1,486 was found in his pockets.

Banghart's money was found in a handbag, neatly done up in bundles. In other suitcases were the guns, and still another contained a complete makeup set, including all types of mustaches and whiskers.

The department of justice in a report last night told how its agents trailed Banghart from Chicago to Charlotte, N. C., to Lexington, Ky., and to Baltimore. It had details of apartment rentings, automobile purchases, and the handwriting on automobile license applications to complete his identification as Banghart, known as "The Owl."

Federal agents were seeking him especially for a mail truck robbery in Charlotte on Nov. 15, when $105,000 was taken.

Trial Starts Tomorrow.

The second trial of the Touhy gangsters for the Factor kidnaping is scheduled to start tomorrow. Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley, who was in charge of the first trial, said the second trial would probably not be delayed if efforts to extradite Banghart fail.

State's Attorney Courtney was in Washington and is said to have started at once for Baltimore when notified of the capture. Crowley said a definite

Judge Feinberg has warned the Touhys that he would tolerate no delay in the retrial of Touhy, Schaefer and Kator.

During the trial Factor pointed out Touhy, Schaefer, and Kator as men he had seen during his captivity. He did not say he had seen Banghart, but Banghart was linked to the Touhy gang of outlaws by one of the gang's former members, W. A. [Buck] Henrichsen, who was a state's witness.

After Factor paid $70,000 for his release demands were made on him for more money. He promised to pay $50,000 more as fast as he could make it in the stock market. After several telephone calls demanding the additional ransom he was in secret communication with federal officials and police and a trap was set for the extortioners.

The money was to be sent by a uniformed messenger in a taxicab to a country road near La Grange. Although 250 police guarded the roads and an airplane filled with police flew overhead, Banghart and his companion, Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors, escaped.

Dummy Package Delivered.

A policeman in the uniform of a messenger delivered the supposed $50,000 in a dummy package containing $500 to Banghart and Connors. Then the policeman gave the signal to the police in the airplane and the message was flashed to all the surrounding police. Banghart, a daredevil automobile driver, spun his car around, narrowly averted a collision with another police car, and managed to get through the guarded lines. A dozen policemen were close enough to make positive identifications of the two as Banghart and Connors.

After that Banghart and Connors were next heard from in Charlotte, N. C., the scene of a mail robbery. Pictures of both were identified as the robbers and police messages were scattered far and wide calling for their arrest.

Banghart was known as a man who would shoot his way out of any arrest if he had an instant's warning. He had escaped from the Atlanta, Ga., federal penitentiary in 1927.

Caught in South Bend.

In 1932 he was captured in South Bend, Ind., and was put in solitary confinement pending his removal to the federal prison. On March 27, 1932, he escaped, stealing the sheriff's machine gun and shooting a turnkey who was in his way. He gained access to the machine gun by throwing pepper in the eyes of one of the guards, beating him into unconsciousness, and then taking his keys. He walked a block down the street with the machine gun, entered a taxicab, was driven a mile or so, and then stole an automobile and was lost to pursuers.

After that Banghart became a member of the Touhy gang and had its protection. Henrichsen testified in the Touhy trial that Banghart took part in all the gang's depredations.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police yesterday recalled that the Touhy gang was involved in the Factor kidnaping through an identification of Costner, the second man arrested in Baltimore. He said Factor remembered that his "good guard" told him that he had once known a broker when they were cellmates in Atlanta penitentiary. Through this broker Costner was identified and the Touhy gang linked with the kidnaping.

Factor never saw the "good guard," who was his constant companion during the twelve days of his captivity, but he recalled that the man had a "southern" accent. Dispatches from Baltimore confirmed that Costner has a "southern" accent.

Boy, 13, Accidentally Shot in Dance Hall, Is Dead

Anthony Faoronino, 13 years old, 1005 Townsend street, died yesterday in the Henrotin Memorial hospital of a bullet wound accidentally suffered a week ago. He was at a dance with his parents at 1500 Sedgwick street. Searching the kitchen of the hall, the boy found a revolver and dropped it. As it hit the floor it was discharged and a bullet struck him in the back.

COMB 2 STATES FOR HIDEOUT OF KIDNAPING GANG

Clews Indicate Bremer Seized by Outsiders.

St. Paul., Minn., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Authorities raked Minnesota and Iowa today for clues to the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy banker, who paid $200,000 for his release last Wednesday night.

Seeking the hideout where the 37 year old president of the Commercial State bank was held captive 22 days, police and federal operatives ran out every lead, no matter how unpromising it appeared.

Maintaining a barrier of silence, police refused to reveal whether they had anything to indicate Bremer had been taken out of the state. It was reported, however, that department of justice agents were devoting attention to southwestern Iowa.

Believed Outside Gang.

Federal operatives, with the cooperation of local police, were combing southern Minnesota for possible traces of the gang, which Chief of Police Thomas Dahill intimated might have come from outside the state to engineer the kidnaping.

It would not "surprise" him, Dahill said, if it was an outside gang working with a local fingerman that carried out the crime. Dahill admitted St. Paul police had asked Tulsa, Okla., authorities for the fingerprint classification and photograph of Harry Campbell, fugitive slayer suspect.

It was in southern Minnesota, at Rochester, that Bremer was freed after payment of the ransom by Walter Magee, wealthy contractor intermediary for the family, in the Faribault, Minn., vicinity.

Hunt for Fingerprints.

Whether investigators obtained any fingerprints from ransom notes delivered Jan. 20 to Dr. H. T. Nippert, family friend and physician, was conjectural. Several bottles, found in an apartment occupied by an unidentified man and woman who skipped the day after Bremer was seized, also were gone over for fingerprints.

It was from an apartment in the vicinity this couple lived, that a telephone call was received by Nippert calling his attention to the three notes in a large envelope under his door.

The small new coupe used by the couple was found to have been purchased the same day an old car was sold by the gang which disappeared last year when Hamm was released upon payment of $100,000.

Three Men Confess Score of Gasoline Alley Holdups

Three men yesterday admitted committing a score of robberies of motorists who were putting their cars in alley garages. One member of the trio was captured Saturday night by David Marks and his father-in-law, Benjamin Goodman, both of 4343 North Sawyer avenue, when the three tried to hold them up. The prisoner identified himself as John Bruhn, 38 years old, 3222 Lawrence avenue. Police later seized his companions, Steven Haykus, 20 years old, 735 North Harding avenue, and Louis Ocenas, 20 years old, 3908 West Huron street.

has made was attributed by his doctors to his indomitable will and the splendid physical condition he was in before being taken ill.

The strange nature of the type of pneumonia with which the banker is stricken has been one reason why his physicians were reluctant to predict recovery at any period during the attack. It is known as Friedlander's bacillus and in most cases is fatal within a few days.

Rare Type of Pneumonia.

The Friedlander type of pneumonia is rare. Yesterday Dr. Gilbert, a specialist, conferred with bacteriologists at Northwestern university medical school concerning the disease. The knowledge thus gleaned is being used to aid Mr. Traylor. It was the Friedlander bacillus that caused Mr. Traylor's collapse Saturday night, the doctors agreed.

According to Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, the type of pneumonia with which Mr. Traylor is stricken is not only rare but virulent. It comprises less than 5 per cent of pneumonia cases, he said.

Pneumonia, Dr. Evans explained, is caused from two types of germs discovered in the 1880s by two bacteriologists, Frankel and Friedlander. Frankel thought the coccus he discovered was the sole cause of the disease, and Friedlander believed his bacillus was the cause. Physicians have since discovered, Dr. Evans said, that pneumonia cases are more than 95 per cent Frankel to less than 5 per cent Friedlander.

The virulence and rarity of the Friedlander type of pneumonia have impeded research. When it strikes, medical men have much less information on which to base diagnosis than in the cases caused by the more common form.

LIMA HAS VERITABLE ARMY TO GUARD 3 DILLINGER GUNMEN

Lima, O., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A machine gun trained menacingly upon their cell doors, three members of the Dillinger gang were in Allen county jail today awaiting their arraignment Tuesday on first degree murder charges in the killing of Sheriff Jess Sarber last October.

The three, Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley, and Russell Clark, were in separate cells on a single corridor at the end of which was mounted a machine gun ready to rake the hallway.

Outside, National guardsmen, keeping a 24 hour vigil, paced up and down, bayonets fixed. Extra city and county police were nearby ready for instant call. Stout eight foot fences have been built to barricade the two entrances to the sheriff's residence, where Sarber met death in a futile attempt to prevent the delivery of John Dillinger.

COLOMBIA VOTES ALFONSO LOPEZ NEW PRESIDENT

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Alfonso Lopez, liberal leader who favors a peaceful solution of the Leticia controversy with Peru, today was conceded to have been elected president of Colombia in nationwide elections. His only opponent was an Indian farmer, Estiquio Timote, the communist candidate.

If the count of ballots confirms his anticipated victory, Lopez will be inaugurated Aug. 7 for a four year term, succeeding his fellow liberal, Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera. The president-elect will enter office with the Leticia question a dominant issue. He has prepared himself by visits to Peru and to Leticia itself, since the dispute arose, to deal with the boundary problem.

Lopez told the Pan-American conference that Colombia had renounced war as a national policy. The Leticia zone, now in the hands of a league of nations commission, was seized in 1932 by civilians from Peru, which had ceded it to Colombia in a 1925 treaty.

Would Rival Nation's Best; Great Factual Source.

Development of a great map library at the University of Chicago for the use of scholars and business men of the middle west was outlined yesterday by Prof. Wellington D. Jones of the geography department. The university hopes eventually to accumulate 400,000 maps, a collection which would rival those of the federal government.

More than 50,000 maps are now on file in the map division of the institution's library. This includes 10,000 items acquired from the John Crerar library, through the interest of its librarian, J. Christian Bay, in the project.

Plan Four Way Expansion.

Expansion of this nucleus will be along four lines, said Prof. Jones. The university hopes to obtain topographic maps covering civilized portions of the world on a scale of one inch to the mile, large scale city maps, various type maps and historical maps.

Among the hundreds of suggested maps are those showing cities, with regard to zoning, community areas, nationalities, land values, rents and economic status, newspaper circulation purchasing power, marketing districts, crime and poverty. Time maps, showing identical subjects at various intervals, such as political trends, standards of living, literacy and cultural traits are also to be collected.

Explains Maps' Worth.

"As a factual record of a real distribution of a wide variety of phenomena, maps are superior to any other device," said Prof. Jones. "Maps of density and composition of poulation; of crops and lifestick, and the products of forest, mines and factories; of railroads, motor roads, steamship lines and airways, of political boundaries now and in the past; of natural vegetation, rainfall, temperature, winds, rivers, lakes, land forms, soils, mineral, deposits, geological formations and ocean currents—to mention but a few—are of fundamental importance to a wide variety of theoretical investigations and practical pursuits.

Six of the major map concentrations of the country are in Washington. These are the 1,000,000 maps of the military intelligence division of the war department, 688,000 in the library of congress, 260,000 in the engineers' office of the war department, 102,000 in the general land office and 87,000 of the the U. S. Geological survey. The other great collection of this country is that of the American Geographical society in New York, consisting of 100,000 maps.

CHINESE FLYERS TURN BOMBS AND GUNS ON REBELS

SHANGHAI, Feb. 12.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's newly acquired air corps today smashed efforts of rebellious war lords to oppose authority of the Nanking Nationalist government.

The flying fighters turned their guns and bombs on Gen. Sun Tien-ying and rebel legions which attempted to capture Ninghsia, in Kansu province.

The Nanking government said it believed the air corps will be able to terminate speedily the Ninghsia disorders. Reports last week told unofficially of the slaying of four thousand defenders in a rebel attack in Ninghsia.

GENERAL STRIKE IS ON IN FRANCE; RIOTING FEARED

One Million Workers Ordered to Stay Idle.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 12 [Monday, 2 a. m.]—France will awaken today with a civil strike on its hands.

The one day general strike called by the Socialists and communists as a protest against the "Fascist menace" of Premier Gaston Doumergue's national safety government went into effect exactly at midnight and will continue until midnight tonight. One million workers will stay idle.

One hour after the strike was called gas, electricity, water and telegraph services in Paris were working normally. Telephones, too, continued to function, but somewhat eratically with frequent cutting off of communications.

Military Technicians Drafted.

Crews on subway trains at the last minute agreed to stay on duty until 1 a. m.

Paris at that hour was calm outwardly. The streets were almost deserted. All the usual night haunts were empty.

Between midnight and 1 a. m. students created a disturbance in the Latin quarter by singing and shouting in the streets, but police did not interfere.

Despite appeals by moderate labor leaders to make the strike entirely pacific, it is generally feared that it will be accompanied by a certain amount of violence, and the capital is nervous.

Trains to Stop One Minute.

It is difficult to foresee how successful the government will be in keeping the strike in quiet channels, but by every indication the walkout will be much more complete than was first anticipated.

While the railroads will endeavor to keep running, as the Socialist unions have ordered trains to stop for one minute only, it is evident that the capital will be almost entirely without means of transportation except private automobiles. Taxi drivers have been on strike for 12 days and tram, bus, and underground workers have announced their determination to make the strike 100 per cent effective.

Only one newspaper will appear in the capital today—the Royalist Action Française. It has its own mechanical crew, its own corps of volunteer newsboys and its own militia to protect the plant against strikebreakers. All other papers have decided not to publish.

Tribune Hit in Paris.

In the face of the decision of Parisian newspaper associations and the impossibility of getting papers to subscribers through the mail, by truck deliveries, or by news stand, the Paris edition of THE TRIBUNE will fail to appear this morning for the first time since it was founded in 1917.

Schools will be kept open, but virtually all the teachers will be on strike.

Most of the shops will be closed but small grocery shops operated by proprietors will be sufficient to prevent the capital from suffering any lack of food.

Virtually all the big cafés, which give Paris the title of the gayest city in the world, will be closed, as will most of the night clubs and all of the theaters. Some movie houses say they will try to keep running, however.

Seek to Alarm Cabinet.

But the strike means something more serious than simply a day of discomfort. Communists and Socialists, usually bitter enemies, have achieved a united front for the first time in years and the strike is to be carried out under the banner of class warfare and with frankly political motives.

To the bitterness of the Socialist chiefs, whose ambitions at dominating France for the next few years were frustrated by last week's events, is added the fierce hate of the workers. Moreover, they have their dead and dying comrades to avenge.

It is the purpose of the united Reds to alarm the government and ruling classes by an imposing demonstration of strength and at the same time to whip up the enthusiasm of the workers for future struggles. The big feature today will be a joint massmeeting of Socialist and communist workers at Vincennes gate, followed by a march to the Place de la Nation. Public meetings remain officially forbidden, but it is not believed the government will make an attempt to prevent the workers from marching, owing to fear of bloodshed.

There remains the danger, however, that some one may lose his head, as in last Tuesday night's rioting. It is feared extreme right wing elements, who want to cow the workers by ruthless oppression, may try to frustrate the government's strict orders against any action which would threaten a clash with the demonstrators.

Troops on Guard.

It is likewise possible that extremist elements among the workers may cause trouble whe the official demonstration is finished. Large forces of infantry and cavalry are still billeted at strategic points throughout the capital and will be called out if serious trouble develops.

The nationalist organizations which led Tuesday's movement against the chamber of deputies have agreed not to intervene, but they are holding their forces in readiness "to defend order" if the Reds resort to violence. The militia and sections of Young Patriots have been ordered to arm themselves with heavy canes and report to party headquarters at daybreak. The militant war veterans' outfit, the Croix de Feu, also is keeping its headquarters open all day, to be ready for emergencies.

Regardless of how today's affair comes off, it is evident now that Premier Doumergue has a tough road ahead of him. The first flush of enthusiasm over the national union cabinet has considerably faded. Many deputies have discovered that the provinces feel very differently about the whole situation than the capital and that their constituents back home are far from being unanimous in supporting Doumergue.

Merely a Breathing Spell.

Likewise the reaction of the Socialists and communists is much more violent than was expected, and for once the rank and file of the workers seem to be paying serious attention to what their chiefs tell them.

On the extreme right it is made perfectly clear that the present political truce will be for short duration. The Croix de Feu, Young Patriots, and other organizations, while they have abandoned agitation for the moment, are using the breathing spell to reinforce their organizations.

Their campaign of the last few weeks and the bloody victory they won on Tuesday have enormously increased their strength.

Then, too, a sort of religious war is threatening over the political activities of the Masons. Extreme right elements are concentrating their fire on the Masons whom they accuse of plotting Tuesday's "massacre," and left wing elements of Masonry have shown a tendency to accept the challenge by publicly emphasizing affiliation with the Socialists.

Calls on Masons to "Strike."

Louis Michel Longe, Paris militant of the left wing of the Masonic body, has appealed to all members of the grand lodge of France and the grand orient to join in today's demonstration.

In the face of all these menaces it is reported that Doumergue is planning to ask the chamber of deputies for a vote of confidence on a global budget and then ask for a free hand to govern by administrative decree and send the parliament on a vacation.

CARDINAL BOURNE HITS BRITISH GOVERNMENT FOR ITS CORRUPTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Cardinal Francis Bourne, head of the Roman Catholic church of England, today attacked increasing corruption in the public life of Great Britain.

In the course of a Lenten pastoral letter the cardinal referred to recent revelations "regarding the untrustworthiness of men holding important confidential positions who have abused their positions to make money for themselves."

"We used to pride ourselves," the cardinal said, "upon the purity and incorruptibility of our public life, and of those entrusted with its guardianship. What we have recently learned gives reason to fear that such pride is no longer justified, and that in addition to the few who have been called to public attention there may be many others who are undermining the confidence we place in them."

Princess Rafia of Iraq Dies; Proclaim 3 Days' Mourning

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Princess Rafia, 24, youngest daughter of the late King Feisal of Iraq, died today, the Iraq legation was advised from the royal palace at Bagdad. A three day period of official mourning has been proclaimed, it was said. Princess Rafia was a sister of King Emir Ghazi, who ascended to the throne upon his father's death in Switzerland last September.

FIVE STORY FALL KILLS MOTHER OF EX-HEALTH CHIEF

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. John T. Hooper Wynne, 90, mother of Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, former health commissioner, was found dead today in the rear courtyard of a West 29th street apartment house where she had occupied a fifth floor apartment.

Exactly how Mrs. Wynne came to her death could not be determined. She was alone in the rear room, saying her prayers, preparatory to leaving for church, when last seen alive by her son, George, and her niece, Miss Alice Mangin of Waterbury, Conn.

They stepped from the room to leave her alone at her devotions. When George Wynne came back five minutes later he saw no sign of his mother and noticed that the window facing onto the rear courtyard was open. He looked out and saw her body 50 feet below.

She had been feeble the last year or so because of her advanced age and because of a heart condition. Dr. Wynne, who was summoned to the apartment by her brother, advanced the theory that his mother had opened the window for a breath of air and had accidentally toppled over the low sill.

CONVICT WOMAN FOR MURDER OF CURIO EXHIBITOR

Upper Sandusky, O., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Timmer, 42, of Ferndale, Mich., was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury of 11 men and one woman early today in her trial on the charge of first degree murder of Robert Brown, Powhatan Point, O., Indian curio exhibitor.

The case was given to the jury at 4:20 p. m. yesterday with a warning from the court that unless a verdict was reached by midnight the jury would be locked up until Monday morning. Just as the clock struck 12 the foreman advised the bailif the verdict was ready. The courtroom was packed. Mrs. Timmer was calm, but her sister screamed "liars" as the finding was announced.

Brown was shot and killed Oct. 13. Mrs. Timmer, his assistant, testified that she shot in self-defense when he tried to attack her on the road near Marietta. The state contended she shot the former Powhatan Point marshal to gain possession of his curios.

RAINS THREATEN ACROPOLIS; ROCK WEARING AWAY

Greece Acts to Preserve Art Treasure.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Feb. 11.—Official reports issued today express the gravest fears that the ravages of time eventually will destroy the Acropolis as it is now known unless restorative measures are taken immediately.

Weatherbeaten for ages, one of the world's greatest treasures of art and antiquity is slowly succumbing to erosion from countless rains. This conclusion was reached after an examination of the plateau by an archeological committee appointed by the ministry of education which has charge of ancient monuments. After the survey was completed the committee urgently recommended that $30,000 be set aside at once to finance prelliminary work of preservation.

Rock Wearing Away.

The danger is more serious because it is not the masonry which is wearing away, but the rock [crystalline limestone] beneath the walls on the north side of the hill. The walls were completed by Pericles to provide, after filling in, a level surface atop the Acropolis. On this plateau he afterward built the Parthenon. The Parthenon was completed in 438 B. C. after 10 years work.

The temple itself stands on the south side of the hill, but at the same end of a rectangular surface which to the ancient Greeks was holy ground. The erosion, however, does not threaten the Erechtheion erected in 407 B. C.

The man made part of the hill strangely is secure, although it is due to this construction [of porous stone] that the solid rock beneath is giving away. There is no mortar between the stones of the wall and the rain has seeped through into the rock for 2,500 years.

Rain Dislodges Rock.

That the danger is serious was demonstrated recently after a torrential winter rain. A large piece of rock was dislodged. It tumbled within a short distance of the dwellings which are built up to the sheer sides of the Acropolis. The top of the hill is about 510 feet above sea level after a rise of about 200 feet from the plain.

The government at present is working to counteract the seepage through the loose foundation stones on which the beautiful Ionic temple to wingless victory stands. The structure originally stood on the southern slope of the Acropolis. When it was restored it was moved higher to the brink of the Acropolis.

SEEK TO RETAIN CWA WORKERS ON SCHOOL PROJECTS

Acting to assure completion of the program of rehabilitating 183 of the city's public school buildings being carried on with the aid of 4,000 CWA workers, the board of education will petition relief officials for an extension to May 1 of the time allotted for the service of CWA workers to the school projects.

John C. Christensen, school board architect, declared yesterday that with the present deadline of Feb. 15 only about seventy-five per cent of the cleaning, painting, and repairing of the buildings could be accomplished.

IRISH TROOPS GAS BLUE SHIRT FOES BATTLING POLICE

Infantry from Dublin Answers 'S O S.'

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 11.—Riots broke out at Drogheda and Dundalk today in which members of the Blue Shirt organization of the United Ireland party clashed fiercely with police, necessitating military intervention. The situation became so serious that calls were sent to Dublin to rush troops to the scene.

About 200 soldiers dashed to both towns in motor lorries and succeeded in quelling the uprisings of the foes of the Eamon De Valera government. At Drogheda the troops were forced to use tear gas bombs and to fire several volleys over the heads of the crowd, which fought back with stones. The town was seething with unrest tonight.

Wild scenes occurred at the United Ireland party meeting in Dundalk, where William T. Cosgrave, the leader, was the principal speaker. Civic guards made repeated baton charges and many people were injured in stampedes.

Bomb House; Two Hurt.

The town was terrified tonight by the explosion of a bomb in the home of Mrs. Macroy, 65 years old, whose son recently gave evidence before a military tribunal in connection with the holdup and robbery of a United Ireland party collector. Mrs. Macroy's two grandchildren were seriously injured.

Trees were felled into the roads, telegraph wires were cut and railway ties were removed in an effort to prevent the Blue Shirts from gathering at Kanturk, County Cork, where Gen. Owen O'Duffy, Blue Shirt leader, spoke. His supporters assembled, however, and the meeting passed off quietly.

The Lenten pastoral letters of Catholic bishops, read in churches throughout Ireland today, touched on political matters as well as public morality.

Deplores Political Attacks.

The letters included warnings against communism and direct references to uncharitableness in political affairs. They deplored attacks made at political party meetings.

This reference was taken to point especially to attacks on the meetings of the Blue Shirt organization. Several bishops asserted the right of all parties to put their views to the public without interference, while the bishop of Waterford declared that scenes of intimidation are disgracing public life.

The bishop of Galway referred to a communist meeting which organizers in New York announced would take place in Galway. He challenged the Reds to attempt to hold this conference.

EMMA GOLDMAN FOR REVOLUTION TO ANSWER WAR

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Reaffirming her hatred of war, Emma Goldman declared today in her first public appearance since she returned from exile recently on a 90 day permit that the workers' only safe answer to armed conflict is "social revolution."

The gray haired anarchist credited Peter Kropotkin with converting her to anarchism. Prince Kropotkin gave up wealth, position and a scientific career, she said, to devote himself to the "revolutionary ideal."

"In revolutions of the past," she quoted her idol, "the thought has been for the 'great day.' But we must learn to concern ourselves with the day after the revolution—to feed and clothe the people—this will maintain the revolutionary spirit and offset counter-revolutionaries.

LUTHERANS BALK AT DESIGNATION OF 'PROTESTANTS'

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Lutherans now object to being designated as Protestants. They object to the two fold classification of Christian as Protestant and Catholic. They insist that the inclusion of Lutheran in the Protestant category is false and misleading. They demand a triple reclassification of faiths as Catholic, Protestant and Lutheran.

These demands were made yesterday in a resolution unanimously adopted by the Northern Illinois district convention of the Walther league of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod held id Immanuel church in Des Plaines. The action was indorsed by the Lutheran Pastoral conference made up of 182 local Lutheran pastors.

Questionnaire Cause of Action.

For some time pastors and laity of the Missouri synod have irked under the designation of Protestants, but the immediate cause for the resolution was the publication of Prof. George Herbert Betts' analysis of a questionnaire which had been sent to all pastors on the Chicago Church federation mailing list.

The questionnaire, which had been prepared in the graduate research department of the Northwestern university school of education, indicated a definite modernist swing in Protestant churches. Lutheran replies, however, were by far the most conservative. The existence of "heaven as a place," a "hell with burning" and "angels," together with many other traditional beliefs were denied by a majority of Protestant pastors.

Opposed Modernist Trend.

In view of modernistic defections of Protestant groups, Lutheran pastors and leaders unanimously agreed that "the time has come when we no longer wish to be named in the group which sponsors such forms of faith."

To this modernist trend the resolution directly refers as it points to the "so-called Protestant clergymen, the vast majority of whom have forsaken the divinely inspired sacred scriptures in the doctrines of the divinity of Christ, the creation of the world, the final judgement day, the existence of hell and kindred doctrines."

The resolution deplored the "abuse of the time honored designation 'Protestant' as grossly misleading," and asserted that such a "broad and sweeping designation of Protestantism ignores the faith and practice of millions of faithful Lutherans." Because of these facts the resolution asks that "the press and all agencies associated with publicity for the church" observe "the three fold, true division —Roman Catholics, Protestants, and Lutherans."

Congregations Growing.

The Missouri synod, according to Chicago Church federation reports, is perhaps the strongest church heretofore designated as Protestant in Chicago. Its leaders assert that the 182 congregations are the most rapidly growing of any in the city. They attribute vitality to a rigorous fundamentalist position and strict demands for communicants' conformity to the synod's confession.

This is the first formal demand made since the 30 years war that the term "Protestant" be removed from a major ecclesiastical body other than Catholic. From time to time Episcopal groups express resentment against the title "Protestant Episcopal," which is the legal name of the Anglican communion in the United States. This resentment arises from theological leanings which would place Episcopalians in the group with other historic Catholic branches rather than with Lutheran or Reformed churches.

Derivation of Name.

The word "Protestant" was first used by enemies of the Evangelical reformers following the diet of Speyer in 1529 and was derived from the Latin "protestatio sunt," which the Rev. Adelbert R. Kretzmann, pastor of St. Luke's church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, declared to be a reference to positive Evangelical witness and not to negative protest. The protest of the occasion was against the adjournment of the diet before permission to continue Evangelical propaganda had been granted.

The Rev. Mr. Kretzmann explained that the word spread throughout Europe with the reformation, making no distinction between the Lutheran and Reformed movements.

The difference between the Lutheran and Reformed groups, often obscured by the term Protestant, became clean cut following the 30 years war. Presbyterians and German, Dutch and other Reformed churches are related on the one hand, and the various Evangelical bodies and Lutheran conferences on the other.

The Missouri synod was founded in St. Louis in 1847. It is the leading constituent of the Synodical conference composed of four synods. The Lutheran church in America is divided into three general groups of approximately equal strength; the United Lutheran church, the American Lutheran conference, and the Synodical conference. Movements are under way which eventually will merge the United Lutheran church with the Lutheran conference.

18 Held Up in Cafe

Three armed bandits held up Ricketts' restaurant, 2727 North Clark street, yesterday and got $1,300. They menaced Miss Nancy Dobbs, 2344 Geneva terrace, the cashier; Miss Babe Perry, 712 Diversey avenue, a waitress, and fifteen patrons and forced John Ricketts Jr., the owner, to open the safe.

The three bandits, who appeared to be between 25 and 30 years old, entered the restaurant about 8 o'clock and in leisurely fashion consumed orange juice, toast, and coffee. They sat there talking until 11 o'clock, when Ricketts arrived.

Then the three men produced revolvers, ordered Miss Dobbs to open the safe, and threatened to shoot her when she said she didn't have the combination. After a brief parley one of the bandits called on Ricketts to open it. He obeyed and the robbers took $1,000 from the safe and $300 from the cash register.

In his address Dr. Gable will describe what may be expected from the "death ray" in the next war.

COLDER WEATHER FORECAST AFTER SPRINGLIKE DAY

The mild weather forecast by the bureau arrived on schedule yesterday, but not the snow. The result was a balmy, springlike day, with gentle southwest breezes. Strollers filled the parks and boulevards and the Polar Bears splashed at Edgewater beach.

The mercury reached a maximum of 41 degrees at 4 p. m., rising 20 degrees from 3:30 a. m., the minimum recorded by the weather bureau.

Cloudy weather, probably followed by snow and colder by night, is the forecast for today.

Cold Wanes in New York.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The mercury here rose above freezing today for the first time since Feb. 1. As it remained there less than an hour, the ice caked streets of the city were without the benefit of a thaw, but not the sprinkler systems in numerous office buildings.

Scores of these, in which the water had frozen during the sub-zero weather last week, thawed out under the influence of milder temperature. And as the thawing out process invariably was accompanied by leakage that automatically touched off fire alarms, apparatus was kept on the go throughout the day.

66 Degrees in Seattle.

FIRST COUNTY TAX BILLS FOR 1932 MAILED

The first of the 1932 personal property and real estate tax bills were placed in the mail last night. A force of 400 clerks in the tax extension division of the office of County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer and the billing department of Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough worked through the day to send out the bills.

The bills are to be sent out daily until the eight city and thirty county townships have been billed. Under a schedule agreed upon by the collecting officials it is expected that the last bills will be mailed about March 15. Under the law the penalty date for 1932 is March 1, but courts have ruled that because of the delay brought about by the reassessment in 1928 valuations, the penalty date is 30 days after the mailing of the last bill. This means the penalty date for 1932 taxes will be about April 15.

CITY WILL UNITE IN TRIBUTES TO LINCOLN TODAY

Many Ceremonies Planned for Birth Date.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Chicago, in all its varied walks of life, will unite today in honoring the memory of Abraham Lincoln, who was born 125 years ago today. The city's tributes to the revered Civil War President and one-time fledgling Illinois lawyer will take form in wide attendance at civic meetings, showing of motion pictures depicting his life as a statesman, and in the exhibition and viewing of relics associated with the Emancipator's life.

Public schools will be closed. Postmen, employés in the city hall, county building, and Criminal courts building, and employés of some business firms will be given a half or whole holiday.

Two Outstanding Meetings.

The two outstanding meetings will be the program at 11 a. m. at the Chicago Woman's club and the assembly at 2 p. m. of the Civil War veterans in Memorial hall of the Chicago Public librar. At the woman's club, Lewis Bernays, British consul general, Dr. Louis L. Mann of Sinai temple, the Rev. Father William J. Plunkett, William J. Bogan, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Dr. Albert W. Palmer will be the principal speakers. The meeting is held on Lincoln's birthday with the especial idea of promoting good will among racial and national groups.

The old soldiers, who fought in the ranks of Lincoln's army and some who heard his Gettysburg address, will pay tribute to their former chief in addresses and in the singing of civil war songs in the public library meeting. Allied patriotic organizations also will attend.

Although today will be a holiday at the University of Chicago, the motion pictures, "Abraham Lincoln," and "Primitive America," will be shown at 4:30 and 8:30 p. m. at the International house theater by the International House and Renaissance society.

Chicago Boy Scouts will lay a wreath at the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park this morning. They will assemble at Clark street and North avenue and march to the statue. Drum and bugle corps selections, the pledge of allegiance, Scout oath, and benediction will complete the program.

A Lincoln exhibit will be on display today in the show window of the Canadian National railway in the Willoughby tower, Madison street and Michigan avenue. The exhibit was furnished by the Lincoln National Life Foundation, Fort Wayne, Ind., and includes a full bronze bust of Lincoln made by the American sculptor, Leonard W. Volk.

Children to Participate.

The school children during their holiday will visit the Chicago Historical society and the Field museum to see showings of motion pictures on the life of Lincoln. At the Historical society they also will view the extensive collection of mementoes associated with Lincoln's life.

A number of Chicagoans lay claim to having met Lincoln. Among them are Capt. John Cummings, 707 Hinman avenue, Evanston, who served as his orderly for three months. Capt. Cummings is now confined to his bed with paralysis. Mrs. Pam L. Ricks of the Sovereign hotel said she was kissed by Lincoln when she was 6 years old. She is now 80. John A. Hood of Wilmette, a civil war veteran, heard the Gettysburg address. Frank J. Loesch met Lincoln in a Buffalo railway station.

Worries Over Corn-Hog Contract, Slashes Throat

WOMEN OF FIVE STATES TO JOIN IN CLUB SESSION

Problems Conference Gains Wide Support.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

For the first time in several years women's clubs of the central states will gather in Chicago on Thursday as the first annual Conference on Major Problems, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, is opened at the Palmer house. The assembly has been likened of late among the membership of the various groups to the Mississippi Valley organization that functioned actively in this region until the last few years, providing a closer contact than has existed since.

Although completely detached from any official connection with the clubs, the program of the conference has made a strong appeal to all, regardless of the nature of the individual societies or associations.

Five State Leaders to Attend.

How definite this appeal has been is demonstrated by the acceptance of the presidents of all the five state federations included of the invitation to be present. Mrs. Robert Hicks of Indiana, a patient in an Indianapolis hospital, is the only one who will not appear in person. She will be represented by a past president of the state clubs, Mrs. Edwin N. Canine of Terre Haute.

In addition to a distinguished roster of speakers for the event, arrangements have been made for two social evenings to assure the opportunity among the club members and officers of informal exchange of opinions and experiences in their organization work. The first will take place Thursday evening in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house in the form of a reception for the federation dignitaries, preceded by a concert that wil bring before the assembly some of the finest musical talent in Chicago.

Radio Program in Hotel.

Under the baton of Alphonse Dumont the W-G-N Concert orchestra will be heard at 8 o'clock in the ballroom in its regular weekly program, with Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, as the soloist. Pierre Andre will be at the microphone announcing.

At the close of the broadcast five other artists will be heard from the same platform. Olga Kargau, lyric coloratura, formerly with the Chicago Civic and the San Carlo Opera companies, will sing two numbers, as will Lawrence Salerno, Neapolitan baritone and one of the premier attractions of station W-G-N.

Allan Grant, for years an outstanding artist in the radio world, who is soloist, composer and accompanist with equal facility, will be at the piano to accompany the singers, and will contribute two solos as well. Wadeeha Atiyeh, young Syrian soprano and concert artist, whose voice has been highly commended, will sing a trio of songs.

On Friday evening parties of the club women will be escorted on a tour of THE TRIBUNE plant to see the process of assembling and printing the early editions of this newspaper.

The conference will open Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Mrs. William Franklin Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, presiding.

SINGERS ON WOMEN'S PROGRAM

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, whose voice will be broadcast from the Palmer House Thursday evening when the W-G-N Concert orchestra gives its weekly concert from there as part of the program of the Conference on Major Problems, sponsored by The Tribune, and Miss Olga Kargau, operatic coloratura, who will be heard later in the evening.

FIND OLD HULL, BELIEVED BOAT LA SALLE BUILT

Legends Lead Hunters; Wait for Spring.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Old Indian legends, handed down at the council fire from father to son, apparently were borne out here this afternoon. After a three-day search, in which many holes were cut through the 24 inch ice of Lake Huron, the hull of an ancient vessel was found on the bottom off Birch island, where aboriginal tales long had maintained Le Griffon, first sailing boat on the great lakes, would be found.

The little ship was constructed in the winter of 1678-'79 by René Robert Cavelier, Sieur de la Salle, who set sail in it in May of 1679 on the first leg of his famous journey of exploration to the country of the Illinois.

Leaves Boat at Green Bay.

La Salle himself, however, left the boat, which was built at the mouth of Cayuga creek on the Niagara river, at Green Bay, Wis. There, goaded by the thought of his debt to his countrymen at Fort Frontenac, he determined to load the vessel with furs and send them back in payment.

Twelve thousand pounds of skins were put aboard the little ship and she started back with a crew of five sailors, the captain and a supercargo. La Salle ordered the boat to stop on the way at Michilimackinac. It never reached there nor was heard from again.

Indian legends, however, said the vessel sank in a storm off Birch island in Les Cheneaux group, near what is now Hessel, Mich.

Indian Wins Backing.

This winter Mike Onogwin, Chippewa Indian, succeeded in interesting the chamber of commerce of Hessel in a search for the boat despite the fact that a Canadian commission in 1930 declared a wreck at Manitoulin island to be the long missing Le Griffon.

At first it was planned to hire a diver, but because of the expense and difficulty of diving through the heavy ice, it was decided to make the search without one. Oliver Birge, a lifelong resident of Les Cheneaux islands, and the Indian today succeeded in locating an ancient hull at the approximate legendary spot.

The hull, which may be seen from the surface through holes cut in the ice over her stem and stern, is built of hand-hewn timbers, extremely massive in comparison with her size. The keel is constructed of a timber at least a foot and a half thick and the stern post is almost as heavy.

Carried "Castle" Poop.

In addition to the strain of the rudder the old "castle" style of poop put a heavy load on the stern timbers, and it is believed this is the reason for the size of the timbers in the old hull found today. The distance between the two holes in the ice is 75 feet, establishing the length of the wreck at about that, which is the approximate length of the old "Griffon."

After the discovery today it was decided to wait for warmer weather so that a diver may search the hull for further identifying marks. It is hoped a name plate may be found or that a brass cannon may be discovered of the type "Le Griffon" was known to have carried.

PREPARE THRONE OF EBONY, STREWN WITH ORCHIDS, FOR PU-YI

HSINKING [Changchun], Manchukuo, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A throne, built of carved ebony, has been installed in the palace here for the enthronement of Henry Pu-Yi March 1 as emperor of Manchukuo. Embellished by imperial dragons and orchids, the throne rests on a dias of three steps, surmounted by a guilded stucco canopy.

For the secular part of the ceremonies, Pu-yi, former Manchu "boy emperor" of China, will wear a blue double breasted field marshal's uniform. Since oriental monarchs are enthroned, not crowned, Pu-yi will wear instead of a crown a Napoleonic black helmet with a huge yellow plume.

While making sacrificial obligations to heaven, the emperor will be dressed in a yellow robe fashioned after a Ching dynasty model. No correspondents will be allowed to witness the 26 year old ruler and "son of heaven" communing with divinity, but they may see a dress rehearsal a few days before the enthronement with a stuffed manikin representing the emperor.

PHYSICIANS OPEN DISCUSSION OF PROBLEMS TODAY

Problems of the physicians in their relation to the public will be discussed at the 30th annual Congress of Medical, Education, Licensure, and Hospitals, which will open a two day session at the Palmer house today.

Justin Miller, dean of the Duke university law school, will speak this afternoon on "The Philosophy of Professional Licensure." There also is to be a symposium on the licensing of the various professions and a discussion of ways to curb illegal medical practice.

"The Size and Scope of a University Clinic," a topic on which physicians have disagreed violently, will be discussed by leading medical educators. Dr. Henry Houghton, director of the University of Chicago clinics, and Dean John J. Upham of Ohio State university college of medicine will be two of the speakers.

Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, will speak on "Medical Education and Its Relationship to Society as a Whole." "Restoration of the General Practitioner" will be the subject of Dr. Dean Lewis, president of the American Medical association, in another program this afternoon.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university, will open the conference this morning with a review of accomplishments of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical association, sponsor of the meeting. Howard S. Cullman, president of the Beekman street hospital in Nek York city, will discuss the responsibility of a hospital trustee. Dr. William W. Bauer of Chicago is to speak on benefits to the profession in the public's increased interest in health.

Traffic in narcotics by licensed physicians will be discussed tomorrow by H. J. Anslinger, United States commissioner of narcotics. President Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa will address a dinner of the Federation of State Medical Boards this evening.

The American Hospital association and the American College of Hospital Administration also are to be in session at the Palmer house.

DIES IN FIRE THAT ROUTS 55.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. George Gibbs of Gridley, Ill., celebrated their 62d wedding anniversary, Mr. Gibbs coming to Bloomington to be with his wife who is a hospital patient, having fractured her hip a week ago. They were married in Devonshire, England, in 1872. Four sons, thirteen grandchildren, and one great grandchild are living. Mrs. Gibbs is 84 and her husband will be 87.

Jack Vanders, 35 years old, 1834 North Halsted street, died yesterday in St. Anne's hospital of a bullet wound in the abdomen suffered Thursday when he was shot by one of two bandits who robbed the grocery of his sister, Mrs. Marie Matson, at 5010 Ferdinand street. The gunmen had emptied the cash register and were on the way out of the store with $75 loot when Vander entered. He tried to seize one of the men.

Wednesday Is New Year's Day for City's Chinese

The 2,484th year of the Chinese era is to begin on Wednesday. Chinatown is to start its celebration of New Year's day with fireworks and ceremonies. Inquiry among Chinese residents of Chicago concerning the tradition that all debts are paid up or canceled on that date brought the information that the story always was a fiction and still is. Also, it was said, many of the Chinese in the city have adopted Jan. 1 as New Year's day.

SHOTS FIRED AT CARDINAL'S HOME SHOCK GERMANS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MUNICH, Feb. 11.—The shots fired in the night at the palace of Cardinal Michael Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich and Freising and Germany's most prominent prince of the Catholic church, have reverberated throughout the reich and the world.

They furnish startling evidence of the bitterness that the struggle between the Nazi state and the Catholic church has assumed—a struggle that in its ramifications may decide the fate of national socialism.

The shots, which merely broke a window without hitting any one, were harmless in themselves, but significant as a symbol. They were preceded by a Nazi campaign against so-called "political Catholicism" during which traditional Catholic organizations were dissolved, suppressed, or so limited in their work as to become paralyzed.

200 Priests Arrested.

In one year of Nazi rule about 200 Catholic priests have been arrested and several thousand Catholic political officials and leaders deposed. Some of the latter were likewise jailed. A few were physically maltreated and several prominent ones, such as former Chancellor Wilhelm Marx, were charged with an ordinary felony.

Because of the particularly intimate ties between the Catholic church and the Catholic populace the latter has been drawn into the struggle and devout followers of the church today find themselves but little better off than the proscribed Jews and "Marxists."

The Nazi campaign against "political Catholicism" has divided itself thus far into three phases. The first was the revolutionary phase, which was attended by considerable violence and found its climax in the clubbing of Catholic delegates at their congress here last June.

Feared Coup by Nazis.

At one time Catholic leaders seriously feared that in their revolutionary fervor the Nazis might attempt to repeat the coup of Henry VIII. of England and issue a decree divorcing the German Catholic church from the Vatican, or even uniting it with the Protestant church into a German national church. A national church is still the ideal of many Nazi radicals.

A conflict was averted by the concordat between Germany and the Vatican signed July 20 and ratified Sept. 10. It gave the German Catholic church assurance of its existence and peace seemed restored.

But because the concordat was drafted in haste some of the most important problems were left for future negotiations. These negotiations are now under way both in Rome and in Berlin. On their result will depend whether the German-Vatican treaty will be a concordat or a "discordat"—whether it is to bring peace or a new kulturkampf in Germany.

Bishops Must Swear Loyalty.

Under the concordat the German bishops must swear loyalty to the German reich. In return the concordat guaranteed "the confessional freedom and public practice of the Catholic religion."

Beyond that, however, it left undefined the boundaries between state and church activities, and that is where the trouble begins. It bars the Catholic clergy from "membership in political parties and from activity in such parties," but does not specify what political activity consists of.

Most important of all, it leaves completely in the air the fate of numerous Catholic societies with which the church has spread its influence among the masses and among which the youth organizations are the most important.

SAVE POLITICS FOR MEN, PUT WOMEN OUT, NAZIS' AIM

"To Restore Honor," Dr. Goebbels Says.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—"We are excluding women from public life, not because we do not want them, but because we want to restore their honor," Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, reich minister of propaganda and enlightenment, told thousands of official Nazi women leaders convened in Berlin today. The women applauded enthusiastically.

Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the labor front, also spoke, claiming that the previous era which gave equal rights to women failed to take care of the children—an astounding statement in view of the elaborate care the German republic and especially women politicians devoted to the health of children weakened by the world war and the inflation years.

Nazi women were given a new chief, Erich Hilgenfeldt, who announced that the campaign for winter relief would be followed by a campaign for the relief of mothers and children of Germany.

Politics Man's Field.

"Man demands absolute and unrestricted control of political life," Dr. Goebbels told the women leaders. "Nature shows that women are more fit for life behind walls than for public life. Man's mission is to frame the outline of life. Woman's mission is to work within this framework.

"We do not want to exclude women from professional life," he continued. "Our leader Chancellor Hitler stated in 1932 that woman is not only the sex companion of man, but also the labor companion. The field for women's activities must be changed. Woman's share of the work must be changed." Women who "dispute the rights of men turn their husbands into tyrants who are infuriated because women try to compete with them," Dr. Goebbels asserted, and the Nazi women thought it was very clever to judge from their approving laughter.

"Man, reserving the vital sections of life for himself, assumed a new responsibility which he will carry with magnanimity. He will protect women. He will never extend a hand to exploit woman's natural weakness."

Would Let Women Smoke.

Dr. Goebbels warned that Nazi women's organizations must not become prudish or small minded. "If a woman smokes it is her affair, though I could imagine that women might resolve among themselves not to smoke any more. It is the duty of our women's organizations to restore high morality, but not to become hypocrites and bigots.

"Our women must draw up organizations which will formulate the fundamental prerogatives of women. Today almost every person admires women as mothers. If woman withdrew into her original realm, she would in the shortest time become the anonymous sovereign of the country. Man would give her protection and fight for the political and economic conditions which are necessary to give meaning to motherhood."

Dr. Goebbels concluded with assurance that much work is still necessary to evolve the new ideal woman. "If a woman wants to create a family, ways and means of doing this will be found. Once this is done, woman again will find happiness in her children who will guarantee the immortality of our people."

Bulgarians Break Down.

The Bulgarian communists, Georgi Dimitroff, Wassil Taneff, and Blagoi Popoff, who were acquitted by the German Supreme court from the charge of helping set the reichstag fire a year ago, are beginning to break down under the strain of their confinement since the acquittal.

Dimitroff has been threatening to go on a hunger strike, but has refrained from doing so in order not to frighten his aged mother. The British committee which is in Berlin in an effort to help the acquitted Bulgarians assert that the prisoners are held in underground cells, receiving ventilation only through a grill connected with an inside corridor.

Taneff, who has suffered a nervous breakdown, and Popoff, whose lungs are diseased, both complain of the food. German authorities declare the question of release of the acquitted prisoners still is being debated by the cabinet.

A. F. OF L. TO JOIN JEWS IN "CASE AGAINST HITLER"

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor announced today it would act as co-sponsor with the American Jewish congress in the presentation of "The Case of Civilization Against Hitlerism" at a meeting in Madison Square Garden March 7.

The presentation, termed a "Factual Review of the Acts and the Policy of the Hitler régime," has been arranged to mark the first aniversary of Hitler's election to power.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., in accepting joint sponsorship with the American Jewish congress, said he felt the meeting was "quite proper and most appropriate."

NAZIS MAKE JOBS FOR MAIMED WAR VETS MANDATORY

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Compulsory employment of maimed veterans of the world war was stressed today by the Nazi newspaper Voel-Kischer Beobachter, which said present ordinances to this effect were often avoided.

Employers with a staff of more than 19 persons must find work for at least one disabled man and one more for every additional 50 hands employed, the newspaper stated.

Counted as "employed" are office boys, cleaning women and temporary hands. Non-observance, it was explained, entails a fine up to 1,000 marks [approximately $391].

VIENNA NERVOUS; FEARS SOCIALIST UPRISING TODAY

Capital's Mayor Refuses to Yield Police Powers.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 11.—Repressive measures against the Socialists carried out in the last two days by Maj. Emil Fey, vice chancellor and public safety director, stirred up Vienna tonight with fears of a Socialist counter movement tomorrow.

Karl Seitz, the capital's Socialist mayor, whose police powers were removed yesterday, said he would not accept Fey's order. He insisted they could be removed only by the municipal council. He posed the question directly at Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss today as to whether the chancellor backed Fey and whether he wanted to violate the constitution.

Socialists Call Strikes.

The battle between the Socialists and the Dollfuss government, now overtly a Fascist régime, is thus nearing a climax. Socialist followers were circularized today with pamphlets bidding them stand firm. Strikes have been called in some of the Redder districts. These events created fears that tomorrow may bring trouble with the police if Fey seeks to carry out the orders.

The Nazis have orders from their leaders to "wait and see" in this duel of Fascists against Socialists and also against Dollfuss' own Christian Social party.

Reports also were circulating today that monarchist elements are watching the situation closely, looking for a favorable moment to attempt to restore the Hapsburgs.

Dollfuss Sees Leaders.

Meanwhile Dollfuss participated in close conferences with Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, Fascist heimwehr leader, and also with his two other chief lieutenants, Richard Steidle, propaganda minister, and Kurt Schuschnigg, minister of commerce. Tomorrow he will meet local leaders of the heimwehr and various patriotic organizations.

It is reported that five of the nine Austrian provinces are ready to oust the elected local governments and supplant them with hand picked Fascist governors. It is openly charged that these provincial uprisings are not spontaneous but were deliberately fomented.

It appears tonight as if all Austria soon will be as Fascist as Italy unless the Socialists kick up a storm as they did seven years ago. At that time the palace of justice was burned down.

400 FISHERMEN RACE TO SAFETY WHEN ICE SNAPS IN LAKE ERIE

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Between 400 and 500 fishermen believed trapped for a time this afternoon on the Lake Erie ice south of here by a sudden break inshore, were warned in time to reach land before the ice broke free.

The men were from a mile and a half to two miles out when a crack five miles long and from 100 to 300 feet wide appeared between them and shore. They were off Sturgeon Point, Athol Springs and Pinehurst.

The break was discovered while they were still on a peninsula of ice. Coast guardsmen starting across to them, pushing their boats until open water was reached, warned them something was wrong and they started back in time to walk around the break before their peninsula became a floating island.

GOERING TAKES DIG AT AUSTRIA AT SKI CONTESTS

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, reich air minister and premier of Prussia, as patron of the national 1934 ski contests here, made of the occasion an opportunity for a subtle dig at Austria. Proclaiming Alfred Stoll of Berchtesgaden the German ski champion of the year, Goering said:

"We are filled with shame and indignation, knowing that the best skiers among our Austrian brethren are absent through being cast in jail and suffering hunger and other privations because they are Nazis.

"But the pigmy Austrian government will not be able to prevent liberty from winning through. Next year our Austrian friends will be with us."

Columbia Survey Assails Practice.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Condemnation of the sales tax was voiced today in a report of a nation wide investigation of the subject, made public through the Columbia university press. Characterizing the sales tax as "an unnecessary and backward step," the report declared that "on the whole, experience with this form of taxation to date offers little support to those who contend that the sales tax should form a permanent element in a state tax system."

The Rockefeller foundation financed the investigation, which was directed by Robert Murray Haig, professor of political economy at Columbia university. It was carried out by a staff of economists under Prof. Carl Shoup, of the school of business. The study, asserted to be the most exhaustive of its kind yet undertaken, included 27 states, in eight of which sales taxes are now in effect. The conclusions were set forth in a summary by Prof. Shoup in which his associates concurred.

Results Are Disappointing.

"In common with most professional students of taxation in this country," said Prof. Shoup, "the writer has had an unfavorable opinion of the sales tax, although he has not believed it to be by any means unworkable or impracticable with respect to raising considerable amounts of revenue. The results of the present study have caused him to favor the tax even less than before, chiefly because of the indications found with respect to the distribution of its burden.

"As an emergency source of revenue the tax has the undeniable advantage of yielding a certain amount of money, quickly; but it is not the only tax possessing this virtue. It should not be difficult for the professional student, though removed from the immediate arena of contest, to sympathize with actions of legislators and others in many states who have been trapped by constitutional limitations on the taxing power and by the threats of articulate and powerful groups who would be injured by resorts to forms of emergency taxation other than the sales tax."

Different Effect.

Prof. Shoup said that, in its actual operation, the sales tax was found to yield results quite different in a number of important respects than those anticipated before adoption.

"Some of the difficulties predicted, such as large expenses to the taxpayer in complying with the law, have failed to develop in practice and the preconceived notions held by some, such as that the merchants can shift the tax completely to the consumers, are revealed as ill founded," the report said.

The material collected in the survey has been sent the federal emergency relief administration, the officials of which asked for it in connection with their work of passing upon requests of states for federal funds to relieve unemployment.

TROOPS GUARD NEGROES NABBED ON GIRL'S CHARGE

Clarksdale, Miss., Feb. 11.—(AP)—National Guardsmen, numbering between 400 and 500, were mobilized in Mississippi tonight for duty tomorrow at Hernando where mob violence has been threatened against three Negroes upon their appearance before the grand jury on charges of raping a 17 year old white girl.

The troops were mustered into service under command of Maj. T. B. Birdsong Jr. of Clarksdale, National Guard officer. They were issued rifles, sidearms, grenades, gas guns, and gas masks and were accompanied by engineers who would be available to construct barricades in case of trouble.

C. W. Collins of Holly Springs, merchant and father of the girl involved, tonight issued a formal plea that there be no mob violence during the trial.

The mobilization order was issued by Gov. Sennett Conner at Jackson after receiving reports of the threatened violence. The prisoners are Isaac Howard, 25, Ernest McGee, 23, and Johnnie Jones, 23, all of Memphis, Tenn.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Three days of Latin America carnival began in the hospital today for 100 persons who ate contaminated ice cream, but the victims were reported out of danger. The food poisoning was said to have been caused by service from contaminated containers.

The festival began last night in more than 10,000 South American hamlets, centering in Lima and Buenos Aires. Mexico and Cuba joined the fun. In most countries masking was permitted.

HUNT TWO MORE IN GANG OF BANK SAFECRACKERS

Police yesterday revealed the names of two men being sought as members of the gang of safecrackers whose plans to rob the vaults of the Germania Safety Deposit and Trust company, 1533 North Clark street, were frustrated by four arrests Saturday. The men hunted are George Rossi, known to police as a handler of "soup" [nitroglycerin] and dynamite, and Harold O'Millire.

Attempts were also being made to link those held with other robberies, among them the looting of the vaults of the Unity Trust and Savings bank, 3909 West North avenue; the blowing of the safe in the postal substation at Robey street and Archer avenue, and the robbery of a bank at Nauvoo, Ill.

Those held are Samuel Mulis, 3131 Leland avenue; Joseph Pizzolato, 828 North Harding avenue; Philip Costa, 441 Siegel street, and his brother, Santo Costa. Mulis confessed that a gang of seven men was ready to go to work at midnight Saturday to drill into the vaults from the store which had been rented next door. Blow torches and acetylene tanks were found where they had been hidden by Mulis at the Plasa hotel, 1553 North Clark street.

STEPHEN DAY AND W. G. EDENS SEEK CONGRESS SEAT

Two more candidates entered the Republican primary contest for congressman at large yesterday. Attorney Stephen A. Day, regarded as a constitutional authority, whose father, the late William R. Day, was secretary of state under President McKinley and later a Supreme court justice, left yesterday for Springfield to file his petition. William G. Edens, for many years a banker, is the other aspirant.

Attorney Day was a primary candidate two years ago as an ardent repealist. Without organization backing he made a creditable showing, his friends recalled. His platform this time calls for strict adherence to the constitution. The present congress, he believes, has taken action that amounts to destruction of the constitution.

Candidate Edens has opened headquarters in the Great Northern hotel. In his biography is listed his years as a railroad man. He has long been a Republican campaigner affiliated with the Hamilton club.

RESIGNATION OF CURRENCY CHIEF SEEN IN OFFING

Morgenthau - O'Connor Breach Widens.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who has been quietly revamping the personnel of the treasury since he took it over from former Secretary William H. Woodin a month ago, may next force the resignation of J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, it is reported here.

O'Connor's retirement as head of the national banking system, it is said, will be due primarily to his desire to run for the governorship of California at the next election and to the fact that his maneuverings in preparation for this political debut have ruffled Secretary Morgenthau and other influential officials.

Open Breach Exists.

For some time what amounts to an open breach has existed between Secretary Morgenthau and Controler O'Connor because of publicity which O'Connor's critics say, he has put out to further his California political ambitions.

Under a treasury ruling issued by Secretary Morgenthau himself all formal statements for the press from the department must be submitted to Herbert E. Gaston, the secretary's press contact man, before being released. O'Connor, through his personal press agent, W. Kenneth Hays, has persisted in sending out press releases without submitting them to Gaston.

Ignores Written Requests.

Written requests from Secretary Morgenthau have not brought compliance from O'Connor, and the breach has widened. Some of the O'Connor publicity, it is charged, was mailed exclusively to west coast papers and was not of national character. Hays, whose official position is with the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, of which O'Connor is a director, denies this charge, however.

In other quarters O'Connor has aroused hostility by his reported efforts to dislodge officials of the Deposit Insurance corporation in behalf of his political satellites. The corporation is not under civil service control.

Secretary Morgenthau's reorganization of the treasury already has produced the resignation of Assistant Secretary Thomas Hewes and E. Barret Prettyman, general counsel of the bureau of internal revenue.

FINDS HEIRESS, LOST 25 YEARS, IN A HOSPITAL

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—How the long lost daughter and sole heir of D'Aubinge Eason was found in a Long Island hospital by a crippled Oklahoma City lawyer to end a search which carried him thousands of miles in his wheelchair, was told today by the attorney, R. E. Wood.

The daughter, Mary Rebecca Eason, 42 years old, now is established in the Oklahoma City home left her by Eason. Eason, a second hand furniture dealer, died four years ago. His will left the estate to the daughter He had not seen or heard of her for 25 years.

Wood searched Georgia, where the will said the daughter was living 25 years ago. Last year he found the trail at La Grange, Ga., and followed it to Woodhaven, L. I., where Miss Eason lay ill in a hospital.

She said she hadn't seen her father since he and her mother separated.

PAY "KICKBACK" IS OPPOSED BY MUSICIANS' AID

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The American Federation of Musicians and the federation's New York local, declaring they have consistently fought against any "kickback" of wages or the employment of musicians at wages below the union scale, tonight invited cooperation in a continued war against the evils.

The senate committee investigating rackets was told in Washington recently of "kickbacks" by some musicians to theater managers in the New York area and of the hiring of thugs "to waylay musicians unless they made a 'kickback.'"

In a statement tonight, Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians and a vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said there was no testimony or claim before the committee that the federation or New York local union officials were in any way involved in these "kickbacks" or in the hiring of thugs to inforce the "kickbacks," and that any dispatches from Washington which left this impression were incorrect.

"The 'kickbacks' mentioned before the senate investigating committee were claimed to have been made by some New York musicians to their employers," he said. "The use of hired thugs to intimidate musicians who refused to make 'kickbacks' also was charged to these employers.

"This claim of 'kickbacks' is made only as to some musicians of the New York local, which is only one of about 800 locals throughout the United States and Canada.

"The American Federation of Musicians and the New York local have consistently fought against any 'kickback' or the employment of musicians below the union scale. They invite any and all cooperation in their fight against the 'kickback' and they welcome any investigation.

"One of the main principles of the American Federation of Musicians has always been the maintenance of the minimum scale of pay of each local."

Woman and 2 Girls Die When Fire Destroys Home

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A woman and two young girls died today in a fire that destroyed a house in North Philadelphia. The dead were Lillian Widdas, 10; Dorothy Felix, 8, and Mrs. Carrie Oldroyd, 58. The girls were children of neighbors who were spending the night at the Oldroyd home after a party.

California District Indorses Senator.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The movement among Democrats of California to make Senator Hiram W. Johnson that party's nominee this fall, was carried forward yesterday by indorsement of Senator Johnson by the Democratic congressional district of the Eighth district, it became known here today.

The Eighth California is the home district of former President Hoover and Representative John J. McGrath, who was the first Democrat to promote the adoption by Democrats of the Independent Republican senator.

The committee, which met at San Mateo, declared that Senator Johnson "has served the state loyally and faithfully for many years and has never failed to place human rights and the good of the people above greed and avarice, and has always championed the cause of honesty in business and government."

After recalling that Senator Johnson broke away from the Republicans and endorsed President Roosevelt in 1932, the resolution called "upon all citizens of California irrespective of party affiliations to work for the reelection of Representative McGrath and Senator Johnson that they may continue to represent this great state in their respective houses of congress and continue to assist in guiding the destinies of the nation."

There appears here to be little doubt about the Democrats of California making Senator Johnson their nominee for the senate. Already Senator McAdoo and eight of the eleven Democratic house members from that state have indorsed him.

Mr. Johnson will not seek the Republican nomination but will revive the Progressive party, and therefore expects to have the nomination of two parties, the Democrats and the Progressives.

ITALY, VATICAN HAIL SIGNING OF LATERAN TREATY

ROME, Feb. 11.—(AP)—New assurance of accord between the Vatican and Italy was manifested today on the fifth anniversary of the signing of the Lateran treaty with the Italian state. King Victor Emmanuel inaugurated an international exhibition of sacred art commemorating the event.

The Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, said the peace now existing between Italy and the church could be achieved by the world at large only through "simplicity, brotherhood, loyalty, and Christianity."

Papal flags mingling with Italian tricolors fluttered from all public buildings. Newspapers cited the peaceful solution of the Roman religious question as an example to the world.

In order to prevent foreign competitors from benefiting from these trade trips, the names of the concerns in the market for the goods described are withheld from publication. But any American manufacturer or producer can obtain the names of the concerns by application to the district office of the bureau in Chicago and other cities. Then he can open negotiations directly with the prospective purchaser.

Dr. Thorp is a member of the commercial policy committee which produced the plan for development at foreign trade now under consideration by the President.

New Angle on Tariff.

"There can be little doubt," he said, "as to the wisdom of a policy directed towards the reduction of the many barriers which restrict the international flow of commodities. American policy in the past has been to consider tariff action almost exclusively from the domestic angle.

"We have thought of it as a means of protecting our own industries. We have never recognized sufficiently that curtailment of imports necessarily leads to curtailment of exports.

"This simple fact has been hidden from view in recent years by the part played by credit in our international balance of payments. From 1921 to 1924 the excess of merchandise exports over imports was balanced, to a substantial degree, by a net inflow of gold to this country. From 1924 to 1929 the deficit in the goods balance was made up primarily by long time capital advances abroad.

"During the depression years our export balance of merchandise was financed, in effect, by short term credit extensions abroad and by the withdrawals on the part of foreign creditors of their short term dollar balances here.

Role of Reciprocal Pacts.

"We can, of course, easily expand our foreign trade once more by further extension of credit abroad. Such a policy would find little support at the present time except under unusual circumstances where long-run considerations justify the use of credit as a means of 'priming the pump'. Export trade must always depend primarily upon the development of imports, and the new policy of reciprocal trade agreements in a definite recognition of this.

"Failure to recognize the necessity for a sound balance of payments in the past has brought us to a situation in which we might as well think of a considerable part of our past exports as being gifts to the foreign countries involved—gifts made not by the exporter himself, but made by the American investor whose money went into foreign securities.

"In many cases, he is no longer receiving his interest payments, and the lack of security of the principal is indicated by the low market values, if any, of these securities at the present time.

"It would rest forever on my conscience if I presented too optimistic a picture of the possibility of great accomplishment by the means of reciprocal trade agreements.

Benefit All Around.

"It is a much simpler problem for countries of small area, where many commodities must of necessity be imported. In this case concessions can be made without serious domestic opposition. But in the United States the obstacles are tremendous. Almost every commodity considered has its particular group with a vested interests. Negotiations must rest upon a clear net gain to the entire nation. While the concessions granted will always be protested by the particular groups interested, reciprocal trade agreements will be satisfactory only when the advantages gained by removal or lowering of foreign barriers to American goods will more than outweigh the disadvantages to our economic structure.

"We can not expect to get something for nothing. But a proper reciprocal trade agreement should result in decided net benefits to both countries involved."

PRINCETON REPORTS SULPHUR IS FOUND IN SUN; USE PHOTOS

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The presence of sulphur in the sun, long a moot point in astronomy, is confirmed with a plenteous supply shown in more than 20 spectroscopic lines of sulphur, it was announced tonight at Princeton university.

This leaves gold, radium and some other elements still undiscovered in the sun, but confirms the general belief that the composition of old sol is very similar to that of earth.

The conclusive evidence of sulphur was obtained photographically with infra-red light, on the new plates with which the heat of a flat-iron, in complete darkness, will act like light and produce an image of the iron or other nearby object. The study was made jointly by Princeton and Mt. Wilson astronomers. At Mt. Wilson Mr. Babcock took most of the infra-red photographs, and at Princeton Miss Charlotte E. Moore identified the sulphur lines.

CHANCES FOR U. S. TRADE IN MEXICO TOLD BY EXPERT

Finds Prospect Favorable for Expansion.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—A land of contrasts—beautiful and sinister, of sunshine and shadow, of ancient handicraft and products of the modern loom, of dictatorship and democracy, peace and revolution—Mexico presents an interesting enigma at the bargain table of nations, with one foot in the promised land of industrial democracy, the other rooted in paganism, superstition, illiteracy, the timeless life of the orient and mists of Indian origin.

Can the governing group pull the nation up into what we identify as realism and truth, new material wants and a scientific outlook? It is a job for many generations.

Copies U. S. Methods.

With service on foreign debts suspended indefinitly, Mexico is headed toward possible self-sufficiency and is reaching toward the orient and Latin-America for new markets while copying American methods of production.

"We want ours," is the attitude of commercial men. The government attitude is to see that they get it at the expense of foreigners.

The report of current conditions in Mexico by A. J. Armstrong, representing the Association of Producers of Petroleum, whose observations are based on 14 years of residence here, has many interesting points for American business men seeking an understanding of this market. He says there is little promise of service on the funded external debt being resumed for a number of years and that settlement of international claims of 1,500,000,000 pesos [nearly $450,000,000] is even more remote.

U. S. Money Builds Roads.

Nearly $10,000,000 of United States currency, borrowed from oil companies and secured by receipts of oil taxes to 1936, is being used for roads to bring tourists—the greatest invisible trade income.

Armstrong says the government recently manifested an intention to meet the internal debt in part by sale of real property which had passed into the hands of the nation. Analyzing the new monetary law he says:

"Four basic laws set the stage for a new era in Mexican finance.

"The Mexican finance and monetary law establishes a managed system of currency based on a theoretical gold standard, with silver pesos and bills issued by the Bank of Mexico, redeemable in silver coin, as circulating media.

Precautions Against Inflation.

"The law reorganizing the Bank of Mexico makes it a central bank of issue and rediscount and places it under restrictions to prevent undue inflation and to insure adequate guarantees behind the currency issues, but with discretionary power to the board to deal with the problem of international exchange.

"The law for credit institutions regulates the functions of all classes of banking houses and brings into relation and some degree of control the Bank of Mexico and the national commission.

"The law for negotiable instruments and credit operations codifies all previous dispositions bearing on commercial credit and defines procedure.

"These measures appear sound and constructive. Their real influence over the economic life of the country can only be determined by further experience under more normal world conditions. Thus far they have had a salutary effect.

"Whether the bank of Mexico will stabilize exchange, which has an important and direct bearing on credit and business in general, is problematical, but intelligent operation of the machinery undoubtedly will bring substantial improvement. No intention is apparent to attempt to maintain the peso at an unreasonably high rate with the United States dollar.

"The inflation in the United States naturally will tend to narrow the spread of the relative value of the two moneys, though economists are inclined to the opinion that the influence of American monetary laws is not sharply felt in Mexico. The established banks have largely recovered their losses of 1931 and are showing an indication of extending better credit facilities.

"The revolution has caused much destruction of agriculture, directed in part against large landholding. More than 14,000,000 acres of land have been expropriated. These, to a large extent, are under cultivation.

Agrarian Policy a Failure.

"Despite the paternalistic attitude of the government by the extension of credit through government banks and the expenditure of large sums to educate the Indian, the agrarian policy thus far is a complete economic failure. While for political purposes the government cannot abandon them, some encouragement is found in administrative action designed to check them and perhaps ultimately put an end to abuses of the system. Agrarians gradually are being disarmed, lands are being proportioned among family heads, and more scientific efforts are being made to bring lands into production.

"In economic and political aspects the problem still is critical and years will be required for complete order. But it is safe to predict that the worst phase has passed and that gradually a greater degree of agricultural activity will follow. Mexico can with the greatest ease produce her own food requirements and a surplus for foreign markets.

"The future export trade in live stock and vegetables will depend largely on the tariff policy of the United States.

Need for Industrialization.

"One of Mexico's greatest needs is to industrialize. With the exception of textiles, woolens, grain, and sugar mills, few plants exist for conversion and preservation of farm products. Packing plants, preserving and prepared food plants, creameries, and refrigeration are required.

"About 4,500,000,000 gold pesos [about $1,350,000,000] is invested in Mexican industries, including government controled or owned railroads, telegraph lines and coastwise navigation. Fully 75 per cent of this is foreign capital. Nearly 500,000 men are employed at salaries and wages aggregating 400,000,000 pesos [about $120,000,000] annually. There are 40,000 small plants and shops.

"The international trade balance in factory products is decidedly unfavorable. Manufactured goods sold abroad are valued at an average of less than 5,000,000 pesos [$1,500,000] a year. They are principally cordage, binder twine, straw hats and shoes. About 200,000,000 pesos [$60,000,000] of factory products are imported annually. The imports consist principally of machinery, tools, accessories, iron and steel implements, lard, chemical products, automobiles and trucks, cotton goods, silk, rubber goods, and drugs.

"The government's policy is to encourage the establishment of factories, with notable preference to local enterprise, but also offering inducements to foreign concerns. A campaign of propaganda has been initiated, sponsored by the government, advertising local products and appealing to the consumer to patronize them.

"Improvement in labor conditions is felt in the manufacturing industry, mining and oil. Taxes are not onerous except in textiles, tobacco, matches and alcohol. Expansion has taken place notably in the manufacture of steel products, furniture, cement, hardware, glassware, drugs, electrical, toilet, and rubber goods.

"There is a growing tendency by foreign concerns to establish branch plants. Lumber, hardware, tools and fabricated steel products are imported which could be made locally. Heavy machinery, automobiles, and other goods requiring large plants will be imported until the country is greatly advanced economically.

"Much depends on the Mexican government's future policies and their application. Evidence of discrimination between foreign and domestic investors is less sharply drawn, but much is yet desired before foreign capital will feel the degree of security necessary to warrant ventures in the industrial field."

GERMAN PARADE MAKES FUN OF LEAGUE, TREATY

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The league of nations and disarmament were treated to popular derision as a feature of a two mile long carnival procession here today.

A jackass and a camel symbolized those nations represented as still believing in the league. Part of the procession was devoted to a funeral cortége for the treaty of Versailles.

The past régime was satirized by a number of "Marxist" figures in red, while Jewish emigrants were shown at work producing atrocity stories in the shape of monster toads, which were slain with "the pen of truth."

SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE OPENS TOMORROW

See Success for Fair Bills; 18 Subjects in Call.

Called into special session for the third time in four months, the legislature will meet in Springfield tomorrow to consider enabling legislation for the reopening of A Century of Progress exposition and other important subjects. Gov. Horner included 18 subjects in the call, and it is expected that the assembly will be in session at least two months, perhaps until after the April 10 primary election.

The governor will not be present when both houses convene at 10 a. m. tomorrow. He is in Phoenix, Ariz., recuperating from a stubborn cold which confined him to the executive mansion during the last three weeks of the second session. This meeting extended ten weeks in passing a state liquor law, a subject which brought as stubborn a fight as has been seen in the state house for years.

Expect No Bitter Fights.

Some debatable legislation will come before the third session, but no such deadlock on a single subject, as attended the liquor session, could be foreseen as the opening hour drew near.

A poll of the 202 members of the assembly [two of the original membership of 204 have died], conducted by THE TRIBUNE, disclosed that two-thirds of each house favored the World's Fair enabling legislation, and while several assented with reservations over the size of an appropriation which will be sought, it appeared that the bills will receive friendly and speedy treatment.

Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago] will handle the legislation in the upper chamber. He plans to introduce the bills tomorrow, and asked immediate advancement to second reading. On Wednesday they would be moved to third reading and on Thursday—at an early morning session or later—a vote on passage could be taken. Constitutional approval will require 34 favorable votes as emergency legislation, and the first test will come on roll call. It is generally difficult to hold 34 of the senate until that late in the week, but the civic nature of the exposition measures is expected to operate in their favor.

Horner Has Data.

The size of the appropriation may not be known tomorrow, for Gov. Horner has all data with him in Arizona and may not have come to a decision by convening time.

Once passed by the senate, the bills could be rushed to the house, read a first time, and sent to second reading on Thursday. They could be advanced to third reading the following Tuesday and passed on Wednesday of next week, thus completing enactment. Only Gov. Horner's signature would be lacking, and once given would allow the Exposition to start work toward reopening June 1.

Equally as pressing as the Fair legislation is the Chicago Board of Education's plan for solving its present financial difficulties. This will embody Mayor Kelly's proposal for the sale of an authorized bond issue of $40,000,000 to the federal government.

The legislation to be sought at Springfield would allow the board to pledge property it owns, but does not use for educational purposes as additional security for the bonds. About 200 pieces of property valued at more than $30,000,000 would be included in the pledge. At present the law allows the board to sell or rent, but not to pledge the properties.

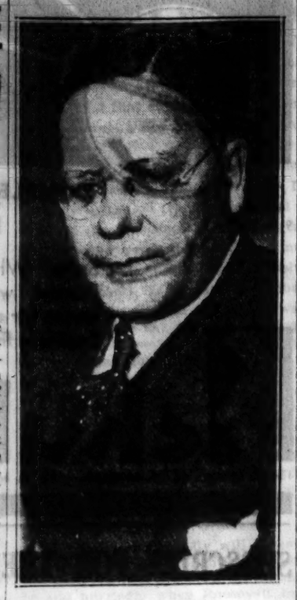
Provides $25,000,000 Pay.

If the loan went through, the board could pay $25,000,000 of back salaries due to teachers and other employés. Other bills in the school legislation program are planned to wipe out the $17,000,000 deficit in the educational fund through the transfer of approximately 12 per cent of the regular tax levy from the building fund [now fixed at $1.65 per $100] to the education or operating fund, and the issuance of refunding bonds to take up outstanding 1928 and 1929 tax warrants issued by a former board of education.

The Chicago sanitary district also has a legislative program, all relating to the $42,000,000 grant of the federal government, allowed to fulfill the provisions of a Supreme court decision. The board seeks authority to charge for treating waste from packing and industrial plants, to pledge to the government judgments rendered in its favor for the sale of electricity, use for construction purposes the unexpended surplus from the sale of bonds issued for a specific purpose and, finally, a law forcing the city to pay judgments in the order of their rendition. The city owes the district about $5,000,000 for electric current.

A fourth subject in the call, which may create considerable stir, allows the introduction of bills for the consolidation of governmental units. While no definite program was in sight yesterday, the Chicago Recovery administration may propose legislation before the session ends. This might include bills to combine the sanitary district with the county board of commissioners, a move which would undoubtedly be fought in the assembly.

FARNOL IN CHICAGO



JEFFERY FARNOL.

He is making a tour of the United States which will include a visit to Hollywood. One of Mr. Farnol's novels, "The Definite Object," a story of New York, has already been filmed under the title "Manhattan," starring Richard Dix.

SUIT HOLDS UP TAX COLLECTION OF $25,000,000

Penalty Date on 1931 Levy Delayed Repeatedly.

Collection of nearly $25,000,000 in 1931 real estate taxes has been delayed because of pending litigation in the effort of the Chicago Real Estate board to win a reduction of 15 per cent in the assessments on homes and small flat buildings in Cook county. This estimate was given yesterday by George Hagenauer, auditor in the office of County Treasurer McDonough.

The real estate board's suit, coordinating the objections of the 438,000 owners of homes and small flat buildings in the county, has been pending before County Judge Jarecki since last Nov. 13. The board charges that Assessor J. L. Jacobs made a fraudulent and inequitable assessment, discriminating against the small property owners.

Resume Hearing Tomorrow.

Because of the pending suit, Treasurer McDonough several times has had to extend the penalty date for the payment of the second installment of 1931 realty taxes for the 438,000 property owners. The hearing will be resumed before Judge Jarecki tomorrow, but it is not expected that evidence in the case will be completed for at least a week.

Under the law Treasurer McDonough cannot set the penalty date for earlier than 30 days after Judge Jarecki's ruling. As a result the deadline for 1931 taxes will be later than the original penalty date for the first installment of 1932 taxes. The latter deadline had been set for March 1, but will be continued to at least April 15 because of the delay in getting out the 1932 tax bills.

Mr. Hagenauer said that approximately half of the property owners coming under the real estate board's objection have paid 85 per cent of their entire 1931 bill, awaiting Judge Jarecki's ruling as to whether they have to pay the other 15 per cent. Other property owners, taking advantage of the litigation, have not paid any of their second installment of taxes, secure in the knowledge that no penalty can be added to their bills. Mr. Hagenauer based his estimate of $25,000,000 in delayed collections on an average of slightly more than $100 for each second instalment bill of nearly 250,000 taxpayers.

Holds Up Employés Pay.

Other county officials pointed out that the delay in tax payments caused by the legal battle is holding up the wages of county employés, who have been paid only up to Nov. 15.

The only important witness called so far in the board's test suit has been Assessor Jacobs. On direct examination the assessor defended the equity of his assessment.

Delays then occurred while the board's attorneys, Daniel S. Wentworth and Robert Holt, presented a list of questions to the assessor on the technical factors in his valuations. The assessor required several days to complete answers to the questions, but before he could be cross-examined the board's attorneys asked for a continuance as one of them was engaged in another case.

Judge Jarecki had informed the attorneys that he wanted the evidence completed before he went on his vacation two weeks ago. Then the case was continued to Feb. 13 because of the death of Edward J. Brundage, Attorney Holt's law partner.

The proposed 15 per cent reduction in the assessments has vexed county officials since March, 1933. At that time the board of tax appeals entered the reduction order. This reduction was sustained by the Illinois Supreme court last June. In October, however, after a rehearing, the Supreme court voided the order. A few weeks later the real estate board raised the issue again, this time before Judge Jarecki, with its test tax objection.

AIR CORPS BUSY ON HANGAR HERE FOR MAIL PLANES

Modernizing Under Way; May Use Guard Ships.

The Army Air corps began preparations to take over the flying of air mail out of Chicago early last week, it was learned yesterday, when it was discovered that an unused army hangar on the west side of Chicago airport, at 63d street and Cicero avenue, is being modernized for use at a cost of $30,000. The work will take sixty days, but meanwhile a large part of the space can be used.

This hangar, according to airport attachés, probably will become the army's air mail headquarters in Chicago, which is the center of the nation's air mail network. The hangar was built four years ago from war surplus material stored at Dayton, O. Since then it has not been used, except recently as a garage for equipment used to repair the airport.

Contract Let Last Week.

The army's contract for modernizing the structure, which is 110 feet wide and 220 feet long, was let last week. The hangar is built of steel, with glass walls. Half of the floor is covered with concrete, and the other half is now being covered. A heating system is being installed so that planes can be stored there all year.

The possibility that the Army Air corps may take over a number of its planes now assigned to National Guard squadrons in nineteen states for use in carrying the mail was learned from Maj. Merrill D. Mann, commander of the 33d division aviation, Illinois National Guard, which is located at Chicago airport. The Illinois guard unit has seven observation planes, each capable of carrying 600 pounds of air mail.

The nineteen guard units throughout the country have a total of about 125 observation planes, said Maj. Mann. Similar planes located at large cities throughout the country for training of reserve officers will bring the total to about 150 planes available to the air corps, he said. In addition, the air corps has a large number of its own observation equipment.

Radio Equipment Available.

Each National Guard unit has five radio receivers for its planes and three radio transmitters. These would also be of great aid to the air corps in flying the mail. Commercial air mail contractors, who carry passengers and express as well, have developed two-way radio communication systems that have proved of great aid, and the army is expected to reproduce its own radio facilities wherever possible.

Meanwhile, local postal and air corps officials have received no formal notification of the army's plans to take over the air mail service one week from tomorrow. J. J. Doheny, superintendent of the railway mail service here, has received no information whatever, he said. The air office at Sixth Corps area army headquarters had received no information.

Thirty-five pilots who fly the air mail for contractors, who will lose their contracts next Monday, met yesterday afternoon at the office of the Air Line Pilots' association, 3145 63d street, to discuss their position in the changing air mail situation. Seventy per cent of the 750 mail pilots in the country are army air corps reserve officers, it was revealed. The great majority are lieutenants, a few captains and three or four are majors.

Behncke Off for Capital.

Pending more definite information as to the air corps plans for carrying the mail, and further information on which of the commercial air lines will continue to operate after losing their mail contracts, the pilots decided not to take any stand in the matter, according to their president, David L. Behncke, who is going to Washington today to get more definite information. The pilots said they do not favor giving up their present salaries for the pay of army officers of the rank they hold in the reserve corps.

Only one of the ten air lines carrying air mail has announced its intention to continue full operations when its contract is canceled. That is United Air lines, the largest of the ten, which operates a transcontinental line through Chicago and maintains its main offices here. One of the small air lines, Northwest Airways, which operates from Chicago to the northwest, has announced it will cease operations upon losing its contract.

RUSSIAN OPERA HEAD QUITS IN NEW YORK OVER FLAG INCIDENT

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A rift in the Russian Opera company appearing at the Casino theater resulted today in the resignation of Alexander Basy, its general director, and disclosed what resembled a political skirmish between Red and White sympathizers in the cast.

Discord, explained Mr. Basy, followed upon an invitation to the Soviet ambassador for the company's New York premiere Feb. 1. The Casino was festooned in American and Soviet flags according to time honored international courtesy.

Because of pressing engagements in Washington Mr. Troyanovsky declined the invitation and the flags were taken down. A member of the cast notified an anti-Soviet newspaper that the banners had been removed "because some of the performers demanded it and refused to appear otherwise."

This, Mr. Basy denied, and demanded the "false statement" be retracted. The manager said that the board of directors of the company disagreed with him. His resignation followed.

SENATE JAILER ESCAPES FROM MR. MACCRACKEN

Now Federal Officer Is Hiding from Him.

rescued on a writ of habeas corpus. The senators have not explained why they fear to submit their authority to an examination by the courts of the land, but they seem determined not to, anyway.

So there was the dilemma of Mr. Jurney, which was also the enigma of Mr. MacCracken and his smart lawyers. Then, last night, MacCracken presented himself at the door of Mr. Jurney's apartment in the Methodist home, and announced that he was there to surrender.

Mr. Jurney Becomes Host.

Mr. Jurney, his agitation increased by this maneuver, protested he couldn't arrest MacCracken because the senate's warrant was locked up in his safe at the capitol. So the lawyer, sensing that Mr. Jurney was a southern gentleman who would not turn a man away from his door, invited himself to spend the night there, and Mr. Jurney, caught between his duty to the senate and his duty as a host, reluctantly allowed Mr. MacCracken to enter, and he put him up for the night on a cot in his living room. Attorney Hogan sent his lawyer-client a night shirt, a razor, a toothbrush and some other necessities, and the MacCracken-Hogan forces settled back comfortably.

Mr. Hogan went to the home of Justice O'Donoghue and obtained the coveted writ of habeas corpus, which Deputy Marshal John Clarkson immediately took to the home of Mr. Jurney and served. The writ directed Mr. Jurney to produce the "prisoner," Mr. MacCracken, before the court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Protests He's Not Jailer.

But Mr. Jurney protested he was not a jailer at all, but a host. He insisted Mr. MacCracken was not under arrest at all, and on that they all went to sleep.

This morning the hospitable sergeant at arms permitted his prisoner-guest to join him at breakfast, and they had a jolly time over their scrambled eggs and toast and orange marmalade.

But there was a limit to this hospitality, even for such a southern gentleman as Mr. Jurney, and finally he took the matter up with his guest.

"I'm very sorry, Mr. MacCracken," he said, "but I have some business at the capital."

"O, that's all right," replied the lawyer, breezily. "I'll just toddle along with you. I've nothing particular to do."

Mr. Jurney frowned, but his pesky hospitality bothered him overmuch, and sighing heavily, he started on afoot, with Mr. MacCracken stepping along with him in the highest good humor. They got to the capitol, where Mr. Jurney had arranged for Leslie C. Garnett, United States attorney, to confer with him.

Mr. Garnett had agreed, at the request of Senator Black, to represent Mr. Jurney before Justice O'Donoghue tomorrow morning, and wanted to discuss the case with him.

The adhesive prisoner, MacCracken, hung close, though he did agree to stand outside Jurney's private office while they discussed the case. When that conference was finished, Mr. Garnett volunteered to drive Jurney away from the capitol in his car.

"MacCracken Trailing Me."

"But I've got Mr. MacCracken trailing me," the sergeant-at-arms said, uneasily. "What'll we do with him?"

Mr. Garnett is also a southern gentleman, but he doesn't carry it to the fine point that Jurney does.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," he told Jurney. "You come with me to my car, and climb in with me, and if MacCracken tries to come along, I'll just tell him he isn't invited."

Mr. Jurney beamed all over the place. It was the best news he'd heard since his guest-prisoner had wished himself on him.

The two men walked arm in arm out of Jurney's office, and both smiled pleasantly upon MacCracken as he fell into step with them. They made their way out of the capitol building and to the sidewalk, and then to where the district attorney had parked his automobile.

Mr. Garnett Tarries.

Jurney, his hat a bit askew, with his heavy white locks creeping out at places, hustled into the car, but Mr. Garnett tarried, looking at MacCracken significantly.

The would-be prisoner started to climb in after Jurney, but Mr. Garnett laid a gentle hand on his arm.

"I don't like to be inhospitable, Mr. MacCracken," he said, "but I cannot ask you to ride along with us."

"You know, Mr. MacCracken," he said in kindly vein, "I never detained you. I never wanted to arrest you, and I haven't."

"Yes, I know," the lawyer responded. "You've been very hospitable to me and I appreciate it."

Mr. Jurney beamed again, his hurt at being thought an unkind host all healed.

Leave MacCracken Behind.

But while this exchange of polite amenities was going on, Mr. Garnett had climbed into the front seat, got the car started, and without further ado, he put it into gear and drove off.

District Attorney Garnett and Mr. Jurney disappeared for a time and when the former showed up at his office he was alone. Since then Mr. Jurney has been numbered among the missing.

Mr. McCracken can't find him to insist all over again on being arrested, and when tomorrow morning comes around and the habeas corpus hearing is to be held, the senate's policeman will be able to go to court and say quite truthfully that he hasn't got his prisoner in custody at all.

COL. LINDBERGH WIRES PROTEST TO WHITE HOUSE

Sees Air Mail Action Blow to U. S. Aviation.

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight telegraphed President Roosevelt that "the condemnation of commercial aviation by cancellation of all mail contracts and the use of the army on commercial lines will unnecessarily and greatly damage all American aviation."

The telegram added that "your order of cancellation of all air mail contracts condemns the largest portion of our commercial aviation without a just trial," and "your present action does not discriminate between innocence and guilt and places no premium on honest business."

Col. Lindbergh, who is technical adviser to Transcontinental and Western Air, one of the companies whose air mail contract was canceled, was not present.

Text of Telegram.

The text of Col. Lindbergh's telegram follows:

"The President, White House, Washington, D. C.:

"Your action of yesterday affects fundamentally the industry to which I have devoted the last twelve years of my life. Therefore I respectfully present to you the following considerations:

"The personal and business lives of American citizens have been built up around the right of just trial before conviction. Your order of cancellation of all air mail contracts condemns the largest portion of our commercial aviation without just trial.

"The officers of a number of the organizations affected have not been given the opportunity to a hearing and improper acts by many companies affected have not been established.

"No one can rightfully object to drastic action being taken provided the guilt implied is first established, but it is the right of any American individual or organization to receive fair trial.

"Your present action does not discriminate between innocence and guilt and places no premium on honest business.

"Finest Air Lines."

"Americans have set their lives in building in this country the finest commercial air lines in the world. The United States today are in the lead in almost every branch of commercial aviation.

"In America we have commercial aircraft, engines, equipment, and air lines superior to those of any other country. The greatest part of this progress has been brought about through the air mail. Certainly most individuals in the industry believe that this development has been carried on in coöperation with the existing government and according to law.

"If this is not the case, it seems the right of the industry and in keeping with American tradition that facts to the contrary be definitly established. Unless these facts leave no alternative, condemnation of commercial aviation by cancellation of all mail contracts and the use of the army on commercial air lines will unnecessarily and greatly damage all American aviation.

"CHARLES A. LINDBERGH."

SERVICES FOR AUTO VICTIM.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Things are beginning to perk up a bit for that dapper, witty, charming ex-Brooklynite, Attorney Frank J. Hogan.

Since the days when he defended Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny in the oil frauds, convinced a jury of the innocence of certain gentlemen who profited under wartime contracts, and succeeded in absolving Col. Robert W. Stewart when that former Standard Oil magnate was brought to the bar of justice, things have not been so exciting for Hogan.

For some years there has been a lack of enthusiasm for a public disclosure of the human frailties when public funds were involved. But the New Deal is on, and Hogan is wearing a happy smile. He is now masterminding the defense of William P. MacCracken Jr., the Hoover subordinate and former Sunday school superintendent.

There May Be Others.

And there undoubtedly will be several other important gentlemen who will need eminent counsel most urgently and hurriedly when Roosevelt has finished his investigation into war department contracts and Ickes of the department of interior and Harry Hopkins of federal relief have put final touches on their charges.

Mr. Hogan displays glee when he plays a judicial prank on the august senate—as he did Saturday when he sent MacCracken clothes and told him to sleep under the roof of Senate Sergeant at Arms Chesley Jurney, who had a senate warrant for MacCracken's arrest.

"Jurney's end in lovers' meeting," remarked Hogan.

Pleads for Doheny.

"You've been looking for Bill MacCracken, I understand. Now you boys have a pleasant evening."

It was the same Hogan who had the Doheny jury actually sniffling [even the blue eyed Doheny cried a bit himself] when Mr. Hogan, his voice breaking, told of the long intense friendship that bound Doheny to his fellow prospector of decades earlier, Albert H. Fall. The sobbing jury wasted little time in bringing in an acquittal and stamping an O. K. on the episode of the little black bag and the part it played in turning the navy's oil reserves over to private profit.

But the volatile Hogan has more than laughter, tears and law in his makeup. A year ago Tom Blanton, Texas congressman, cut loose at Hogan during a house hearing. Hogan immediately announced that the Texan was "no gentleman."

"All I want is a chance to deal with you as a Texan deals with a man," roared Blanton.

Again, a few years ago, Hogan drove Congressman John A. Rankin of Mississippi into rage when he flashed Rankin's brief war record on the spokesmen for the "veterans." Rankin hurled an inkwell at Hogan.

UNIONISM BRINGS SUCCESS TO COAL MINE COMPANY

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Josephine Roche's Rocky Mountain Fuel company mined coal five years under a distinctly successful agreement with the United Mine Workers, Miss Mary Van Kleeck declared in a Russell Sage foundation report tonight.

"The experience of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company, in contrast with that of coal producers having company unions," Miss Van Kleeck says, "is particularly significant now because of the widespread revival of the company union idea in an effort to circumvent the NRA's guarantee to workers of the right of collective bargaining."

During these five years, the report says the company "actually enlarged its share of the Colorado coal market, even during the period of declining business."

The agreement, she explains, gave the men a greater share in management than coal miners have ever enjoyed anywhere else in this country. They lent half their wages to the company in an emergency, and even helped sell the coal they mined.

Police of Lima, Peru, Shoot Hoodlum Sought Months

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Eduardo Arnao, notorious gangster who had been the object of a manhunt for months, was shot to death last night by police and secret service men after a spectacular chase. Arnao was riding in a taxi when police spotted him. They pursued him for several blocks to the square of San Marcos university, where the bandit emptied his pistol, wounding a policeman critically, and a bystander, before he fell.

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Evidence of a surprise maneuver was seen today as the state planned to bring to a speedy conclusion its testimony in the murder trial of Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, charged with mixing a poison whisky highball which caused the death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy.

Although District Attorney Arthur Jordan, youthful prosecutor, declined to show his hand, it was understood the trial would enter its third week tomorrow with the state seeking to introduce as evidence all hospital records and charts involving the last illness and death of Dr. Kennedy last Aug. 6.

With this move executed, state's attorneys were reported ready to present the last of their witnesses, closing their case during the week.

Two Slain in Kansas City Night Club; Owner Held

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Two men were shot and killed in a night club here shortly after noon today and police arrested the owner, Edward Nettles, for questioning. John Curtin, said by police to have operated a dice game in the club, and John Norris, a former part owner of the place, were killed. Both were shot in the head.

WHY PAY DOUBLE FOR THE SAME HOUSEFUL OF HEAT?

"Drop a dime, please." If the operator said that to you for a local 'phone call, what would you say? Probably couldn't be printed.

It is far more important to avoid being charged almost double for your houseful of heat. Heating with substitute fuels costs twice as much as coal or coke.

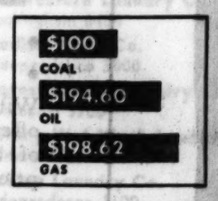

Chart figured on a home that burns 10 tons of coal at $10 a ton

Are they worth it? Solid fuels never get out of order. They are safest, quietest, most dependable. They can be burned automatically. Stokers cost no more than oil or gas burning equipment.

So stick to coal or coke. For honest weight and grading, buy from a member of this Association.

NEW LINEUP IN BALKANS BARED BY PEACE PACT

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Feb. 11.—The Balkan nonaggression pact, which was signed Friday by Greece, Rumania, Turkey and Jugo-Slavia, is intended primarily, it was learned today, to protect the northern Greek frontiers and the Aegean coastline from a Bulgarian and Jugo-Slavian combine. Such an alliance would have eventually forced the creation of another "Polish corridor" in the Balkans, it is generally believed.

Bulgaria, unable to obtain an outlet to the Aegean through Greek territory, had begun to look to Jugo-Slavia for assistance. In some high quarters in Greece the scheme was credited with having as its goal the union of the two countries under a single crown. Jugo-Slavia, instead of being a union of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, as it is officially, would thus add the words "and Bulgarians."

Would Weigh on Greece.

This would put a topheavy weight on the head of Greece, which it would not be able to support, so the bilateral pacts already existing with Turkey, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania were consolidated into a single instrument, to be effective for ten years.

The Greeks interpret the recent visit which King Boris III. of Bulgaria paid to King Alexander I. of Jugo-Slavia at Belgrade as a move to balk the impending negotiations between the four countries.

To sweeten the air, slightly soured by the eleventh hour projection of British objection to the treaty, a dinner honoring representatives of the contracting nations was given tonight at the British legation.

British Too Late.

The British had pressed, but too late, for a two year delay before the Balkan pact should be signed, during which it was hoped Bulgaria could be induced to adhere to the document. The British proposal, however, will probably result in renewed efforts to induce Bulgaria to join in the pact.

Before the dinner Nicholas Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister, issued a statement hailing the treaty as a "most powerful peace instrument." He asserted that the document is solely aimed at peace and directed against no country. He declared that all Balkan nations are cordially invited to participate.

What the real heart of the pact is still is unrevealed, however. Probably it will remain so with a secret annex embodying the minutes of the previous meetings.

ARMY OFFICER IN U. S. COURT TODAY ON RAPE CHARGE

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Attorneys for Lieut. John H. Murrel, former West Point football star, announced today they were ready to proceed in federal court here tomorrow with his trial on a charge of raping Blanche Ralls, 28 year old Birmingham, Ala., divorcee.

"No continuance will be asked," said Louis Schlesinger, chief of defense, "unless some of the witnesses are not here or some of the depositions of out of town witnesses have not come in."

Miss Ralls, who has been out of the city, returned today to testify to circumstances of the rape, which she charged was perpetrated on the Fort Sam Houston military reservation after a party in celebration of a Texas Centenary football game here the night of last Oct. 22.

She was visiting in San Antonio with a sister, Margaret Ralls, at the time. She charged Lieut. Murrel assaulted her on a drive after offering to take her home, and threatened to beat her head "to a pulp" if she screamed.

Ice on Lake Saves Ex-Ohio Governor's Home in Fire

Russells Point, O., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Ice on Indian lake saved the residence of former Gov. Vic Donahey from destruction by fire early today. The fire was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wylie, who occupy the home while the Donaheys are in Columbus. Wylie called firemen from Russells Point and Lake View and they hurried by short cut across the ice in time to check the flames.

CWA WILL PLAY 'PIED PIPER' TO RATS OF N. YORK

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The CWA soon will put to shame the pied piper of Hamelin.

Save for the fact there is to be no piping to disturb the slumber of the jolly burghers of Manhattan, an exodus of rats, the like of which has never been seen before, is predicted to take place soon before an army of CWA workers.

About 1,800 men are to be employed to search out and trap rats in New York City in a continuation of the research on typhus control, started two years ago by the United States health service.

LITVINOV PAYS HONOR TO JAPAN AT MOSCOW FETE

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Despite bold conversation about war rampant in both countries, Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov and Mrs. Litvinov attended tonight a gala reception given by Tamakichi Ota, Japanese minister to Russia, honoring the anniversary of the founding of the empire.

Among the 350 guests paying honor to the Japanese occasion were Gen. Semion M. Budenny, noted cavalry officer, and other uniformed members of the Red army's general staff, who mingled freely with the uniformed staff o fthe Japanese military attaché.

NURSE SLAYS HER SUITOR, SELF ON EVE OF WEDDING

Shot to Death in Auto on Denver Street.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The love affair that Miss Anna E. Wendelin, pretty blonde nurse, had hoped would result in her marriage today was ended instead, police said, by her suicide after she shot and killed her intended mate, Willis W. Case Jr., wealthy New York and Denver man.

Miss Wendelin drove 20 miles along to Brighton, Colo., through a blinding snowstorm yesterday afternoon to obtain a marriage license for herself and Case.

Six hours later Case was shot to death as he and the nurse drove in his coupé along a crowded downtown street. Then she shot herself three times, the police investigation showed. The unused marriage license was found in the bosom of her dress.

Long Courtship.

Friends said Case had courted the nurse for six or seven years, but that the only places they were seen in public were at movie theaters or in secluded corners of restaurants. She never was with him when he attended gay parties or other social diversions at fashionable Denver homes. She was 35 and he was 53 years old.

Chief of Police Albert T. Clark said he was convinced the shooting was a "case of a killing and a suicide."

Witnesses said Case's coupé had just started across a busy intersection after waiting for a traffic light when a shot was heard. It was closely followed by another. Case, who was driving, stopped the car before he tumbled from the door at his side.

A. J. Dunst had just parked his car at the curb and Case fell into his arms. Dunst dragged him into a nearby market. As he did so, three other shots were heard in the coupé and Miss Wendelin slumped forward. One of the shots had missed Case but three struck Miss Wendelin. The wounds were in her arm, body, and head.

On the way to a hospital in an ambulance Case told Police Surgeon R. M. Campbell "she shot me." Then he lapsed into unconsciousness. Miss Wendelin died without regaining consciousness.

"It's the fifth girl Case has fooled," the aged father said.

THREE CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH IN SHACK; MOTHER AND SONS DIE

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Three children were burned to death in the two room tarpaper shack which was their home at Muskegon Heights this evening while their parents were away. The three older children of the family escaped the flames, which quickly consumed the flimsy structure.

The father, Fred Strong, a Civil Works administration worker, had gone downtown. Later the mother stepped out to visit a neighbor. There was an explosion in the stove, which had been filled with coal, although it was intended to burn only wood. Margaret, 10; Dorothy, 8, and Fred Jr., 7 years old, ran out and summoned neighbors.

One neighbor, George Palmer, braved the flames and snatched Jack, 5 months old, out of his baby carriage, but the infant died soon afterward. William, 4 years old, and Betty, 2, were trapped beyond hope of rescue.

Mother and Three Die.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Three brothers were burned to death in their home at McBain, a village north of here, early this morning. Their mother died this afternoon of burns received at the same time.

Worried Boy Begs to Seek Mother; Finds Her Dead

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Worried because his mother failed to visit him yesterday as promised, Frank Nassberg, 15 years old, inmate of the Hebrew Orphan asylum, pleaded with the elders today for permission to investigate. The boy found his mother in her tenement dead from illuminating gas poisoning.

SEEK TO PUBLISH NAMES ON VETS' PENSION ROLLS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A resolution asking the listing in local postoffices of the names of all local veterans receiving compensation from the government, together with the amount of their compensation, was adopted today by the second annual conference of the American Veterans' association.

The principle of this resolution was advocated at a luncheon of the conference today by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator for veterans affairs.

"I think we should list this honor roll, as I like to call it," Gen. Hines said. "Then if there were men on it who did not belong there we would soon know about it."

HENRY FORD POINTS THE WAY.

In pursuance of the campaign for wider markets for American products, Arthur Evans of THE TRIBUNE staff interviewed Henry Ford at Detroit a few days ago. It was a heartening interview. Mr. Ford, speaking with the authority of his own rich experience as a manufacturer, looked ahead to a genuine recovery based upon the soundest of all foundations: better products at lower prices.

Find out, says Mr. Ford, what the people want and make it for them at a price which they can afford. The depression has provided a breathing spell for the development of superior products and superior manufacturing methods. It has opened new vistas. Today's houses, for example, are far less comfortable and far less convenient than houses should be. They can be made more cheaply of better materials, and they can be air conditioned for comfort in summer and winter. Families are no longer tied to the cities. They can move out into the villages where they can have all the comforts of city life at far less cost and the additional advantage of easy and rapid access to the cities through improved transportation.

"People," said Mr. Ford, "are in the world to get the best out of it, and the industry which strives to give them the best and most up-to-date thing without increased costs finds a market. New and improved products stimulate people to buy, which means markets and the road to recovery. The reason this country hasn't found a market before this is that we have been trying to come out of the depression with the same old style of goods we took into it."

This doctrine cannot be unfamiliar to readers of THE TRIBUNE. Invention, enterprise and improvement must provide the base upon which prosperity will be built. Nothing else will bring the desired results as speedily or as surely.

It is encouraging to find how widely this philosophy is finding acceptance in the central states. Letters continue to come in from manufacturers and dealers in a diversity of businesses, commending THE TRIBUNE for its campaign and asking advice regarding foreign markets. The Illinois Central railroad has enlisted by placing its foreign organization at the service of American exporters.

A particularly troublesome problem, as several inquiries reveal, is presented by the blocked exchange accounts in foreign countries. Exporters are finding it difficult to get full payment in dollars for goods shipped. The difficulties are great in view of the widespread restrictions on trade and the movement of funds across frontiers, but a way must be found out of this tangle if foreign trade is to continue to show improvement.

In this connection it is significant that Philip Kinsley of THE TRIBUNE staff has found Mexican business men and officials distinctly friendly toward some kind of reciprocal trade treaty with the United States. There are numerous theoretical objections to organizing foreign trade on the basis of an even exchange of goods with each country, but the proposals have at least the merit of offering a basis for a partial revival of our commerce abroad. Our state department appears to be in sympathy with the reciprocity proposals and should be encouraged to explore the field thoroughly.

EMOTIONS IN POLITICS.

Present day political movements of mass proportions, being composed in considerable part of emotion, tend quickly to take on religious elements. The first mad ecstasies of the Marxian proletariat in Russia, although they turned savagely against established and organized religious creeds and sought to destroy the church, were themselves essentially of religious psychology. The devotees and zealots denounced the supernatural as destructive superstition but their enthusiasms were those of persons in the extreme of fanaticism that any Mohammedan zealot would have envied and no dervish could have bettered.

Mussolini had some difficulty for a time in reconciling himself to the undesirability and impracticability of a struggle with the Vatican and in restraining himself from attempting to supersede the church in the training of the young. He did ultimately control himself and, moreover, it is the tendency of such acute political turnovers as his and also the Russian to moderate their zeal, modify their ambitions and settle down to a greater sedateness. One cannot be screaming at top voice all the time or forever running to a fire.

Hitler's Nazis appear to be now in the full bound of the early ecstasy stage. Their struggle with the churches in Germany is an uncertain one as yet, although the stoutness of church resistance in spots may in the end temper the totalitarians and save some fragments, at least, of church independence in creed, preaching and practice. The outcome is in doubt; the independent clergymen are suffering and the Nazis bullying and determined. The time has not yet arrived when Hitler and his associates are willing to settle down.

Here in the United States the sanity expected of the people long accustomed to tolerance and self-control and self-government has generally prevailed, but signs are not wholly lacking that in some quarters there is an inclination to make the New Deal a sacred cause. Some of these signs are to be found in the objection to such criticism and opposing opinion as are proper and natural to political action. No one would really fear that the great mass of American people will be completely swept off their feet by emotions, but when people have been hard pressed and more frightened than usual they may be inclined to throw all caution to the winds and grant all sanctions to government plans if they commit themselves without reservation to such programs.

NOTE ON GOVERNMENTAL CORRUPTION.

Corruption in municipal government in this country is an old and shameful story which needs no retelling. As a matter of fact there is some evidence that the quality of city government in the United States is on the upgrade. Certainly Chicago and New York have seen far worse governments than they have today. Any one who picks up Lincoln Steffens' "Shame of the Cities" cannot fail to be impressed with the improvement, limited though it may be, of the last thirty years.

There is reason to wonder if as much can be said of federal government. The financial scandals of the war administration have been followed by the shocking revelations regarding Teapot Dome. The allegations regarding the air mail contracts in the last administration have in their turn been followed by the accusation of fraud in the purchase of war department supplies in recent months. There is no need to speak of the misuse of the CWA money as in any sense unproved; the men who are administering the fund have themselves been outspoken in condemnation.

Americans, who from habit think of the federal government as uncorrupted and incorruptible except for isolated betrayals of trust, are shocked at these revelations.

FREEDOM OF THE ROADS.

Mr. Harry D. Fenske, appearing before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce in opposition to the truck regulation bill, said it all when he testified: "It appears to me that the state commissioners, represented by their national organization, in proposing this federal legislation are merely trying to have enacted some laws not for the purpose of public interest in obtaining the benefit of a most economical and efficient transportation service, but merely to have something enacted that will make their job easier and more powerful in having every one conform to their strait-jacket methods of regulating all forms of transportation."

After an exhaustive study the interstate commerce commission found that there was no public demand for regulation of motor vehicles. The National Industrial Traffic league canvassed its membership and reached the same conclusion.

Motorized traffic on our highways is a protest against standardized railway practices. Its popularity with the shippers and public should be sufficient evidence of the unpopularity of canned schedules. Yet its development must be curbed in order to satisfy burocracy's craving for power.

AN ALL-GERMAN RELIGION.

It would be premature to conclude from the church confusion in Germany that the Hitlerites are stumped, but their religious requirements are the hardest to fill. They are trying to build their house of stone and bricks but not upon the doctrine that church and state won't mix. They sing the other tune. It might be easier if the totalitarians, the more inspired and enthusiastic of them, did not want a wholly Teutonic religion. They require that Brunhilde find a Nordic Moses on the banks of the Rhine and that he, ascending a German mountain, come down with German tablets.

These are stiff requirements even for the Hitlerites, unless they will accept the old mythology, reestablishing a naturalistic neopaganism and finding their scriptures in the legends of the gods and heroes. Some of the stouter souls among them have been willing to go the whole Teutonic road; but the program falters for some reason or other.

The Leninites in Russia had no such troubles. It is easier to make irreligion a religion and to destroy old churches without building new ones than it is to implant an entirely new religion in a religious people by edict. Herr Hitler may know that wise revolutionaries do not undertake such impositions. The Cromwellians were not wise. The chief of the Nazi may apprehend that although he may not get much new religion he may get much enduring trouble out of trying a new one.

Editorial of the Day

LOOKING FORWARD.

[By a Correspondent of the London Economist.]

Your income tax paying Englishman is amazed to find that, in most American minds, which look with favor today upon enormous federal loans for public works, there is no notion that these loans will have to be met one day out of taxation. When you prophesy to the American public works enthusiasts that they will live to see the American income tax stand, like the British income tax today, at 25 per cent, the shaft glances painlessly off their hides. To their American minds an income tax at five shillings in the pound is still just one of the plagues of picturesque and distressful Europe, and not a thing that could happen in real life to real people of flesh and blood in the land of hope and glory. So they are all for these public works to be financed by federal borrowing, and if they are Kentuckians it is the Yankee who will pay, and if they are Iowans it is the Californian.

Then, again, they have little conception that if the NRA, with the new industrial codes, is to become a permanent institution in American life, this will need a trained and experienced and strongly manned civil service to administer it. "O, the business men will administer the codes themselves," is the usual response of people who, almost in the same breath, are denouncing the financial capitalists. They do not understand that, in proposing to hand over the codes to the business men, they are placing their own necks in the yoke of an incomparably more oppressive industrialist domination.

Another thing which seems to escape the attention of many Americans—though there are some people on Wall street who are maliciously pointing it out—is that the NRA ultimately tends to favor big business against the small fry, because the small business is apt to be broken by the additional charge which is placed upon all business by the shortening of hours and the enlargement of the labor force, whereas the big business can still adjust itself to making a profit under the new conditions.

Is NRA, in combination with the devaluing of the dollar, simply going to put down the mighty banker from his seat in order to exalt the mighty industrialist and merchant in his place? That is not what the great American public wants and not what it believes to be happening. But, then, who can say what strange and unintended consequences this American voyage of social discovery may bring about?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AT GETTYSBURG.

These quiet fields, where play the mocking birds;
These lavish orchards, boon to days of peace;
These happy valleys—was it here the words
Of weary Lincoln bade the battles cease?
And was it here the tides of conflict rolled
Through fearful days of devastating death,
While countless millions worn with warfare old
Endured and prayed and hoped, with bated breath?
O Lincoln, master, speak to us again;
Lift up our hearts, subdue our stubborn souls;
Here, once again, on this embattled plain,
Call us to peace, speed us to worthy goals;
Bind up the broken spirits, bid war die
In every heart, and under every sky!

AND MAYBE THE ARMY FLYERS in their bombing planes could drop our mail right down on the roof of our flat just as they would a bomb. And even if they miss the roof and let it go kerplunk into the lake we wouldn't mind. Right now it's mostly spring opening announcements and blended whisky ads. With here and there a bill from the groceryman, the butcher, and the tailor.

THE FOURTEEN AND A HALF degree below zero weather last week in New York had no effect on Tammany Hall. Tammany has been frozen stiff since the last election for mayor.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL of Wall street and the stock market would give me the first real hope I've had in years. Because if they put all the CWA and the CCC workers to digging they might go deep enough to uncover the stock I bought in 1929. But they'd have to go down for miles and miles.

THROUGH THIS WINDOW.

Through this window,
Tiny one,
See what fairy
Hands have done!

On the grass a
Carpet spread
For the finest
Kings to tread;

Branches that were
Brown and bare
Now have fleecy
Robes to wear;

How they fall
Gently with no
Sound at all.

There are roofs
Beyond, my dear,
Roofs you cannot

Roofs that cover
Human pain,
Hearts that may not
Dream again.

You will find them
All some day;
Growing up must
Be that way.

But however
Dark and dull
There is something Beautiful;

Something that, like
Can transform the

THE ISLAND.

They mowed the meadow down below
Our house the other day,
But left a grassy island where
We still can go and play.

Right in the middle of the field
It rises green and high;
Bees swing on the clover there,
And butterflies blow by.

It seems a very far off place,
With oceans all around;
The only thing to see is sky,

FROSTBITE.

A CORRESPONDENT wants an article on chilblains. The nature of the inquiry indicates that he is especially interested in the after-effects of exposure to cold rather than in frostbite. I hope he will not mind if the answer is divided between his problem and an allied one in which there is a present seasonal interest.

The immediate effect is frostbite or, in rare instances, freezing of the tissues. A sensitization to cold may result. This sensitization, when mild, causes itching or burning of the feet and, if worse, blisters result. If there be a second severe exposure there may be frostbite, blister formation, or gangrene more severe than the exposure warranted.

In chilblains there is a disturbance of the combination of nerves and small blood vessels which keep the blood supply to the feet just equal to the needs. It is somewhat akin to Raynaud's disease. In neither do we know which is most at fault, the vasomotor nerves or the muscle walls of the smaller blood vessels.

In frostbite and frozen foot the foot is very cold, the skin is white, and there is little or no sensation. Not only is there no pain but ordinary senses of touch and temperature are lost. In many instances one first recognizes that his feet have been frostbitten by the tingling and pain which are felt as the tissues warm up and the blood begins to flow readily through the capillaries. Following the period of tingling and pain comes that of swelling, after which there is either gangrene or scaling of the injured skin.

Remove the shoes and stockings. Put the nipped feet in a pan of cold water. Chafe them gently. If some very clean, nongranular snow is available it is permissible to rub with it, but if it is used care must be taken not to scratch or otherwise irritate the skin. Rubbing with dirty snow may wound the skin and if so disastrous infection may follow.

The feet must not be held close to a radiator or exposed to a warm fire. Rapid warming greatly increases the pain and adds to the damage done the tissues by the freezing. During the process the feet must be thoroughly cleaned.

The after care depends on whether there is gangrene or not, or the amount of swelling if there is no gangrene. Home treatment is not enough if there is gangrene or evident tendency in that direction.

If, by reason of freezing or nipping with cold, the feet are sensitized to great changes in temperature there may be chilblains, tingling, itching, swelling of the feet, or cold feet.

As to just the minute changes in the tissues which cause this disorder physiologists are not agreed, but that is unimportant.

A common home treatment for chilblains is to lave the feet with kerosene. That treatment is as good as any. Painting with a mixture of 2 parts tannic acid and 100 parts of camphor is all right. Another combination is 5 parts formaldehyde, 1 part salicylic acid, 2 parts gum camphor, and alcohol enough to make 100 parts.

To harden the feet against cold, daily cold foot baths are used. At first the water should be only moderately cold and the exposures should be very brief. At last ice water foot baths alternating with warm ones are serviceable.

LITHIA TABLET.

M. Z. A. writes: Let me suggest that J. C. dissolve a lithia tablet in a full glass of water and drink it five minutes before eating. One tablet three times a day generally suffices. Six a day may be necessary. The result is a smoothing out of the waves of existence so that one day becomes much like another. It is particularly applicable to those persons whose nervous reactions are excessive in amount and speed, and to those who are subject to explosive attacks going by such names as sick headache, migraine, biliousness, and torpid liver.

MYXEDEMA.

A. K. writes:

1. May myxedema exist with or without an enlarged thyroid gland?
2. May defective thyroid secretion cause puff sacks to form under the eyes and puffing of the eyelids?
3. May myxedema cause hardness of hearing and numbness of the extremities?
4. May it also cause mild mental disturbances in a person normally sensible and intelligent?
5. Are women over 50 susceptible to this ailment?
6. Does it yield to treatment by mouth or without operation?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Yes.
3. Possibly.
4. Yes.
5. Yes.
6. Yes.

Myxedema is due to thyroid deficiency. It is a disorder of adults. The corresponding disorder in children is called cretinism. Mild myxedema is far from being rare. While the symptoms are relieved by taking preparations of the thyroid gland, the disease is not cured in a proper sense.

MAKING A HABIT.

K. R. writes: Every morning before breakfast I take a half teaspoonful of sodium bicarbonate in a glass of hot water. I do this to relieve constipation.

1. Is it harmful?
2. Some one said it would eat the lining of the stomach. Is this true?
3. Just what good or harm does it do?
4. My sister suffers from a severe case of urticaria. What can she do to relieve it?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. No.
3. It is a purgative and, like other purgatives, taking it begets the constipation habit. It causes excessive secretion of stomach acid and disturbs the balance between alkali and acid in the digestive tract and in the body generally.
4. Urticaria is called nettlerash. It is caused by eating certain foods or by exposure of the skin to certain substances that poison it. It is best treated by finding the cause and avoiding it.

LEGALITY OF WILL.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it a fact that only a disinterested person can be a witness to a will? 2. Would a brother-in-law of the testator be a disinterested person? The sister was bequeathed one-third of estate. 3. Would the above be cause to have will set aside? 4. Will has been filed. Would I have to secure a lawyer to have will set aside? 5. Could the heirs get together and agree on a settlement? 6. Please advise just what to do. I have no money to pay lawyer's fee. A. L. S.

1. It is a fact that a beneficiary is incapacitated as a witness.
2. We advise against this.
3. If the assets are such that the witness is a beneficiary then the gift to him would be set aside and the will would stand.
4. We advise you to go over all the facts in a personal interview with a lawyer.
5. Yes.
6. See preceding answers.

CUSTODY OF CHILDREN.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can you tell me how long it takes for child abandonment? 2. My ex-husband was to appear in court on back alimony charges in February, 1933, but did not appear and is held in contempt of court. He has not been heard of since, and as there are two children involved I wonder if I can obtain full control of them and how long it takes for such proceedings. M. A. Z.

1. Depends on how the question arises.
2. The awarding of custody as between the father and mother would, no matter how long an abandonment has continued, be discretionary with the judge before whom the matter was heard. The apparent best interest of the child would be the controling element. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOISY TRUCKS.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—Across the street from our home is a trucking company. When they pull out in the morning about 4 or 5 a. m. they race their motors and the vibration jars the people from their sleep. Other mornings they start the trucks and leave them standing outside and the noise prevents us from sleeping. They do this any time of day or night. What can be done to have this stopped? J. S.

An officer was detailed to visit the trucking concern and he reports that he notified the drivers to discontinue the noise nuisance of allowing their motors to run and other unnecessary noises. Several visits were made to this place to see that the order was complied with. JAMES P. ALLMAN, Commissioner of Police.

From Across the Sea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—That there is a large increase in the number of divorces in Britain is shown by the the fact that more than 1,000 cases now await trial in the divorce court. It will require some rapid work for the judges to clear off the arrears that accumulated last term. The divorce division, however, usually performs its work with dispatch. In four days during the Trinity term last year 350 cases were disposed of by three judges. The president himself granted 42 decrees in the course of four or five hours.

Seventy per cent of the divorce cases are undefended, and the total number of annulments and dissolutions is close upon 4,000 a year. That is at the rate of one for every 75 marriages.

In recent years the proportion has been increasing with the additional facilities for divorce and cheapening of law costs. Before the war, which was productive of many divorces, the rate was about one in 500.

This rapid increase in petitions for divorce is attributed to people anxious to escape from unhappy marriages, especially when there are no children. In two cases out of five the divorced couples are childless, and in one out of three there is only one child.

London has more than 8,000 divorced people in its population, one-fourth of the total number of divorced men and women in England and Wales. From an analysis of the figures it becomes evident that many divorced persons, especially women, move to London after the dissolution of their marriage and settle here.

The largest group of divorced people live in the fashionable Kensington district of London, where there are 816 divorced persons. In Westminister there are 726, in Paddington 675 and in Marylebone, 549. In the suburbs of London, Hampstead has 368, Chelsea 216 and Stoke Newington only 79.

SAVING THE ORCHESTRA.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—We are again in the midst of a campaign of saving the Chicago Symphony orchestra! At the risk of being misunderstood, may I say that many of the patrons of the orchestra are no longer interested in such a campaign, if by saving the organization is meant the mere raising of a deficit and thus enabling the orchestra to launch another season's program. Many of the most ardent friends of music in Chicago feel that the way to save the orchestra is to work at the beginning of a season and prevent a deficit rather than at the end of a season by digging down in their pockets to pay off a deficit.

What is needed, I suggest, is to save Chicago's musical reputation by putting initiative, imagination, and if need be, some new blood into the orchestra's management. Too long have we been patinet with an anemic, unimaginative and stereotyped method of publicity for the orchestra. The management has apparently gone on the principle of "take it or leave it" in its dealing with the music loving public. The policy has resulted in a steady decimation of attendance at the programs.

Col. A. A. Sprague's description of the situation is undoubtedly accurate so far as finances are concerned, but back of that there is something else to be said. What is needed is to fill those vacant seats and empty boxes. A full house to greet Mr. Stock would make him a new man and would put new life into the players who follow his conductorship. There is no use in scolding the public. There is no fairness in blaming Chicago as deficient in love of music. Chicago is not deficient nor is the orchestra or its great leader deficient. The deficiency comes in the management, which allows season after season to pass with never a sign of a new idea or policy in getting the orchestra winsomely and intriguingly before the public.

The time was when the more formal and conventional type of publicity was appropriate and sufficient. But in this day of colorful and sparkling appeal of so many interests, artistic and otherwise, the drab, stiff and "take it or leave it" presentation of the orchestra does not get hold of the public's imagination.

If one-tenth of the ingenuity, force and color exhibited by the promoters of the recent successful season of grand opera were directed toward the orchestra's welfare we would do more than annually "save the orchestra"; we would brighten the countenance of its conductor as he makes his appearance at each rendition; we would put verve and tang into the players; the audience would listen as if on a tiptoe of expectancy, and if there were a deficit—as there might be—it would be provided for with willing and grateful hearts.

One thing is certain, the orchestra cannot function as a great public celebration of the master music of the world with no other publicity than a conventional announcement in advance and critical reviews in the press afterward. I am not suggesting any resort to bizarre methods, but there are colorful methods and devices for capturing public interest which are fully appropriate and as dignified as the orchestra program itself. These should be discovered by the management, or the orchestra should discover a new management.

MISS SEARS.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—In this morning's TRIBUNE I was surprised to read that the Democrats in selecting the persons to be nominated for the important office of commissioner of Cook county had omitted the name of Miss Amelia Sears. Personally I feel that this is a grave error on the part of those who control our political destiny.

According to the reports of the activities of the county commissioners as I have followed them in THE TRIBUNE, Miss Sears has always made a stand for those things which I, as a citizen, regard as right and fair. I think that there can be no question as to her integrity and fairness. She has shown an unusual interest in the welfare of the common people and an anxiety to safeguard the tax money which has been alloted to the commission to spend.

I am persuaded that a careful study of her career as a county commissioner by THE TRIBUNE would convince them that she should have the support of this paper, which in so large a measure has been fighting the battles of the common people for these many years. Regardless of political affinity, there certainly must be some merit in having been a faithful servant. E. W. JOHNSTON.

POSTAL SERVICE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—We noticed with interest the recent article having to do with the length of time necessary for delivery of mail in and around Chicago.

In this respect we have had no end of trouble ourselves, but the condition apparently applies more particularly to mail deposited in the loop to be delivered to us at 1301 Winnemac avenue, and also our own outgoing mail, destined for other points in Chicago. Although we have complained to the postmaster and investigations have been carried on, no corrective measures apparently were applied, as the condition still exists. It seems rather useless to register further complaints.

One instance in particular that we have on file is on the 4th of October, last year, when a piece of mail was deposited in the Ravenswood postoffice shortly before 6 p. m. and was delivered at destination, 1 North La Salle street, at 11 a. m. the morning of Oct. 6. On the other hand there are times when what appears to us exceptional service is rendered only in so far as mail coming to us from the loop is concerned.

We sincerely hope your tests will develop some action on the part of the postmaster to eliminate what are at times unfortunate delays.

W. F. DONALDSON.

PARADOX.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The cheap money men of this country are a puzzle to me. For about fifty-five years they have told the people that the demonetization of silver and the destruction of the purchasing power of millions is the most brutal thing the international bankers ever did. I don't want to discuss the merits of that statement now; but the only effect that demonetizing silver could have in silver money countries would be to make cheap money in those countries. Cheap money is just what these men advocate for this country in the same breath.

In other words, cheap money in China is bad for the Chinese but cheap money in the United States is good for us.

NEW FAST TRAIN TO BE SHOWN AT PREVIEW TODAY

Union Pacific's No. 123 at Pullman Shops.

A preview of the Union Pacific railroad's streamlined, articulated train, No. 123, will be held today at the shops of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation at Pullman.

The $200,000 train, capable of developing 110 miles an hour, will have its first test run within a few weeks, according to officials of Pullman, Inc., its builders. No. 123 is regarded in railroad circles as the forerunner of an impending revolution in railroad transportation, as rolling stock of this type is expected to help the roads compete successfully with their high speed competitors, the air lines, and their low cost competition, the buses.

Seats 160 Passengers.

No. 123 is constructed of duralumin, the copper-aluminum alloy so much lighter than steel that the three assembled units of the train weigh no more than a standard sleeping car. There is a mail compartment, baggage compartment, and seats for 160 passengers, with a buffet in the rear.

The train is powered by a 12 cylinder Winton engine, burning a low priced, low volatile fuel called distillate. This engine, mounted at the extreme front of the train, drives a generator which, in turn, transmits electric power to motors mounted directly on the forward axles.

No. 123 is completely air conditioned, its windows sealed against soot and noise. The exterior is finished in canary yellow with brown trim, and the interior in blue with aluminum trim. Indirect lighting may be brightened, or dimmed, as desired.

Other Trains Being Built.

The Union Pacific train is one of three streamlined trains to be placed in service this year. The Burlington route has one shortly to be completed by the Budd Manufacturing corporation at Philadelphia, the construction being of steel alloys instead of duralumin. The Pullman company has plans ready for a third to contain sleeping accommodations.

Transportation engineers see in the advent of these trains a possible industrial revolution. If the trains perform as expected, they say, another ten years will mark the retirement from passenger service of the steam locomotives which have furnished railroad motive power since the beginning. Coal will be out as a railroad fuel, they believe, and petroleum products will be in.

Steam locomotive builders do not propose to accept defeat without a struggle, it is believed. Both the American Locomotive company and the Baldwin Locomotive works are now laying designs for streamlined steam locomotives.

'GOOD BEER HILL' IS MERELY 'BEER' TO GEOGRAPHERS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—In the good old days that hill near Warwarsing town, Ulster county, New York, was called "Good Beer hill," but now, despite repeal and advances in the fine art of brewing, it is merely "Beer hill."

The highest mountain in Idaho, Hyndman peak [12,655 feet], is now officially "Borah peak," in honor of Senator William Edgar Borah.

A creek in Tulare county, California, is Horse creek and not Cow creek.

Those are just a few of the 25,000 decisions giving the correct names, spellings, locations, pronunciations, and the origin and meaning of many of the place names appearing on the world's maps and included in the sixth report of the United States geographic board made public today.

Since 1890 a federal interdepartmental board has been serving as the national arbiter in all matters relating to geographic names and the report issued today brings official decisions on many debated names in controversies that have in some instances existed since the original discovery, founding or naming.

The present trend in adopting new names, the report said, is to choose those which are short, euphonious, and in keeping with the character and traditions of the region.

NAB 2 SUSPECTS, ONE WOUNDED, IN ROADSIDE MURDER

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Two men were arrested late tonight at St. Joseph as suspects in the slaying of a well dressed man whose body was found on a roadside near Baldwin, 50 miles north of there, earlier in the night.

The pair, who gave the names of Orley Kother and Ben Hill, both youthful, were seized by St. Joseph police when, getting out of the automobile they were driving, Kother was wounded in the leg as a gun which fell from Hill's pocket to the sidewalk discharged. The men told police that they had driven from Howard City, which is in the vicinity of Baldwin.

The victim in the Baldwin slaying had been shot in the left shoulder and the right cheek and also was beaten on the head. He was between 38 and 42 years old, police believed, and was 5 feet 11 inches tall and well built. A box of medical pills in his pocket bore the name of Dr. Clarence H. Schultz, La Grange, Ind. Dr. Schultze said he knew of no one answering the description of the murdered man.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Parting

FIND 200 PLANTS VIOLATING SMOKE ABATEMENT LAW

2,000 Investigated in City-wide Survey.

More than 2,000 plants have been examined and 500 violations of the city smoke ordinance discovered in the first month of a campaign for cleaner air in Chicago. The campaign was made possible by civil works administration funds and it has been conducted under CWA auspices. The survey was started Jan. 10 under the general guidance of the city department of smoke inspection and abatement, headed by Frank A. Chambers.

The primary object of the campaign is educational and corrective rather than punitive, according to Howard W. Evans, secretary of the city smoke abatement engineering advisory board. Action is threatened, however, against all persistent violators who do not take steps to eliminate unsatisfactory conditions.

All Plants to Be Inspected.

Every plant in the city eventually will be inspected in the course of the campaign, which is expected to continue at least two more months. Systematic examinations to date have been restricted to a central district bounded by Chicago avenue, Halsted street, Cermak road, and Lake Michigan.

The work of investigators is scientific and thorough, Mr. Evans explained. Data on the equipment in each plant are assembled and recorded. This is expected to be of vast practical value to the city department.

Six engineers direct the operation of an engineering field corps of 133 men in every ward in the city. These men are charged with discovering violations, examining equipment, and calling in plant owners for consultation and advice, and also must be competent to show operators how properly to fire furnaces, and educate owners in the science of combustion.

Instruct Engineers Today.

Six hundred public school engineers and firemen are to be instructed in methods of smoke abatement in a meeting at McKinley High school today. Robert H. Kuss is in charge of educational work.

Owners of violating plants are called before a board of examiners, consisting of Irving Brooke, John Small, and Ernest Lippey. Definite recommendations are given for correcting defective equipment and for new machinery, which, it is said, will pay for itself in fuel savings.

"From the technological standpoint," said Mr. Evans, "there is no valid excuse for the existence of a single smoking chimney. Once taught how to operate furnaces, the responsibility for smokeless operation rests on the plant owners and operators. Not only that, but it is to their advantage."

PIECE OF COWL LIGHT CLEW TO HIT-RUN DRIVER

Struck by a hit-and-run motorist, the body of Andrew Long, 62 years old, 2232 Logan boulevard, was found yesterday morning beside the road in the 6600 block on Milwaukee avenue in Niles. Police found a piece of a cowl light and bracket near the body, while the victim's hat was 25 feet away.

Funeral services for Long, who was employed by a Niles florist, will be held Wednesday from St. Hedwig's Catholic church at 2226 North Hoyne avenue. A son of Long, the Rev. Leonard Long, is a priest at the church.

Another automobile struck and seriously injured an unidentified man in front of 3435 Sheffield avenue yesterday morning. The victim, who was well dressed, was taken to the county hospital.

Husbands O.K. Wives' Going Into Business

One Sends Flowers When She Starts Career.

This is the third of a series of articles dealing with society women who have entered business.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Among the society women who recently have gone into business ventures are a number of older matrons whose husbands, according to the women, take an indulgent view of their wives' activities.

Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball of 1325 Astor street, whose husband is Dr. Ball, publisher of the Modern Hospital and the Nation's Schools, with offices at 919 North Michigan avenue, was interviewed at 671 North Michigan avenue, where she is managing a ground floor shop dealing in antiques and art objects.

Mrs. Ball was showing some customers candelabra and antique chairs when first approached for an interview. After they had departed she sat down and exclaimed with enthusiasm:

"This is the greatest fun. I didn't think I'd be able to sell anything, but it seems I'm a pretty good salesman. It's really awfully amusing."

Mrs. Ball said with a smile of pleasure that Dr. Ball was totally surprised when she told him she had suddenly accepted an offer to manage the shop, and pointed out as proof of his approval the fact that on the morning she began her duties he had sent her a dozen roses and a note wishing her good luck.

"I think he feels quite proud of me," she said. "I don't think men like women to be helpless these days. They feel that no one knows what may happen in the next few years, and if their wives or daughters can be prepared to do something, why, all the better."

Mrs. Ball admittedly has not entered business because she needs money, but she thought it would be "just a lot of fun, just terribly exciting."

"They wanted to give the place a dignified social tone," she explained. "I'm planning to give a series of teas and have some of the young girls come in to serve.

"I never have done anything in my life," she said laughingly. She is the former Leonora M. Clague of St. Louis, daughter of Col. J. J. Clague, U. S. A. "I've always been sheltered, so to speak, and whenever I've gone anywhere I've been driven around in cars, and all that sort of thing.

"To tell the truth, I'm sick of teas, and I don't play bridge. I have a good staff of servants and my house runs automatically."

Another older society matron who recently made her first venture into the business world is Mrs. John D. Black, whose husband is president of the Chicago Bar association and a partner of Silas H. Strawn. She was interviewed in her spacious apartment overlooking the lake at 229 Lake Shore drive. Her daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. John N. Lee, the former Lydia Beckwith of 1240 North Sheridan road, Lake Forest, also is in business, as an interior decorator in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Black has adopted the original idea of making cold creams, skin foods, and perfumes in a little laboratory off her kitchen. She sells them to agents, preferring women who will work from their homes, and to small shops, she says. Her perfumes, she explained, are copies of French and other foreign perfumes.

"I'm doing it because I think it is perfectly thrilling, and to make some money," said Mrs. Black. "Mr. Black is a very well known attorney. But attorneys are not being paid much these days. And every one's investments have shrunk in value so.

"While Mr. Black is quite a cave man in some ways, and would be simply furious if any one intimated that his wife had gone into business because she wanted to help him out or to support herself, nevertheless he does think it fine for women to have outside interests."

One of her main reasons for entering the business field is that she did not want to dismiss any of her four servants in the apartment, or the chauffeur, she said.

"I feel that it's every one's duty in this depression to employ as many persons as he can," she said with decision. "So I've put the four servants in the house to work helping me bottle my products during rush times.

Not all husbands feel so amenable to their wives taking jobs or going into business, however, it was learned. A reporter called at the interior decorating establishment at 115 East Delaware place, and asked for Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, who is on the staff of interior decorators there. Mrs. Rodman was called at her Lake Forest home, where it was said she was lunching with her mother, Mrs. Stanley Field.

When Mrs. Rodman was reached, it was found that her husband would not permit her to give an interview relating to her new job. A reporter called him at Shields & Co., where he is a partner. A switchboard girl put his secretary on the wire. The secretary said it was impossible to speak to Mr. Rodman. She was asked to ask him if he objected to his wife's being interviewed.

Later she said she had spoken both to Mrs. Rodman and Mr. Rodman about it, and that Mr. Rodman disapproved defiantly, "first, of his wife's going into business at all, and secondly, of her being interviewed about it."

It was Rodman, whose marirage to the former Katherine Field was an important social event of 1922, who the following year received considerable publicity when he knocked a cameraman to the floor and smashed his camera on the occasion of Mr. Field's successful divorce suit against Mrs. Field.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

ONE of the little colony of Chicagoans who have purchased land and built cabins west of Highland Park on the Des Plaines has grown beautiful irises in a swampy spot near by. Now it seems that a Civil Works administration worker has built a dam that drained the swamp where the irises grew. Moreover, he plowed up the iris bed. The iris grower is thinking of suing the President.

Shan-Kar—
Town Talk—

* *

THEN there was the broadtape report stockbrokers smiled over the other day. A letter "s" appearing by mistake, the report said: "Stocks swindled today . . ."

UDAY SHAN-KAR, the Hindu dancer who enraptured an audience the other night with his finished, beautiful and subtle dances of the Far East, entertained a small group of friends after the dance recital by telling English stories in his Oxonian English. Mlle. Simkie, of the lithe arms and body and pink-stained palms, was there, also Ruth Page and Harald Kreutzberg, who, when greeted by Shan-Kar with his Hindu salute—a little embarrassed by the deferential greeting, and probably feeling any ordinary greeting was out of place—suddenly gave the Hitler salute.

Shan-Kar, sitting in a hotel dining room in his long double breasted black coat, his glossy hair flowing to his shoulders, the red roses sent him by a beautiful Chicago girl adorning the table, told many English stories. One of them concerned the little boy who was given to gross exaggeration. He was told that the next time he was guilty of this he would be severely punished. At a party the following day he tried to remember to stick to the truth, but finally began to tell a story about a beautiful garden.

"It was a wonderful garden filled with roses, and the garden was two miles long . . ." he began.

At this point a companion gave him a violent kick under the table to remind him that he was giving way to his weakness.

WELL, we might gossip about things. . . . The Octavio Prochets of Paris, who have been visiting in Chicago, sent a huge box of calla lilies to every one who entertained them. Which was something of a precedent to set. . . . We remember the thank-you of flowers from a foreign visitor to Chicago that probably set an all-time high—the box of fifty orchids received by a Chicago hostess who had entertained the late Mr. Kreuger of Sweden. . . . Ellen Root, who has been in Mallorca, Paris, and Spain the last two years, is arriving in town Wednesday and most of her old friends will greet her at the cocktail party the Paget Cadys are giving for her next Saturday. . . . Aside from the importance of saving the Symphony orchestra, we cannot help but commend the taste shown in the committee selected to help save it, for where would you find four more admirable gentlemen than Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Barney Goodspeed, Arthur Cable and Chauncey McCormick? We hope, as Chicagoans, you're proud of that committee as well as of the Symphony. . . . A letter just came in from a woman who lives in Princeton avenue and she has a Triangle telephone exchange. . . . Practically everybody we saw Saturday was buying clothes to go sunwards, except Janet Fairbank and Emily Owings, who were getting out mittens and woolens to spend Sunday skating and skiing near Burlington, Wis. . . . Truism from a favorite friend who called up to tell us a "thrilling secret" and added: "Now, don't tell a soul. You see, darling, I always like to tell everybody my secrets myself." . . . Probably the nicest costume we've seen in the last week was the one Mrs. Walter Brewster wore the other night . . . classic pale gray gown, jeweled sandals and the great circlet of gray onyx set with a huge ruby she wore on her right hand. . . . One of the exotic birds in her aviary died the other night—a beautiful blue one. . . . She's going to have him on a hat. Her costume and the lion lazily watching a butterfly in the big game movies A. Watson Armour III. and Jack Simpson showed at the Casino at the last buffet supper there were high points of the evening.

Society Events Pay Tribute to Lincoln Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

PROUDEST of all persons today are the select few who can say with pleasant reminiscence, "I knew Lincoln." On the 125th anniversary of the birth of the emancipator all gatherings, intimate and large, are flavored with his spirit and accomplishment.

Offhand we think of four well known Chicagoans whose childhoods were distinguished by an introduction to the great American. Frank J. Loesch met Lincoln between trains in the Buffalo railroad station. Granville W. Browning had tea with President and Mrs. Lincoln at the White House. And so did Mrs. William J. Chalmers and Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt.

Miss Lunt, appropriately known as Evanston's "first lady" by virtue of her own mature years [she is soon to be 91], because of her inimitable personality and because of her father's enterprising spirit, which was responsible in large part for the founding of Evanston back in 1850, is going to recall her experiences for a number of her neighbors and friends at a tea this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Amos C. Miller in Evanston.

Guild to Give Three Other Teas Today.

The tea is one of four the University guild, Evanston's town and gown organization, is having this afternoon for the sake of hospitality and to raise funds for its Carnegie collection, a gift to Northwestern university. In the teas there is a pleasant reminder of the old fashioned "at homes" that characterized Victorian society.

Besides Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Burt J. Denman, Mrs. Albert E. Cross, and Mrs. Henry H. Windsor are opening their spacious homes, all of which are within a short radius in the northern section of Evanston.

For years the teas have been a tradition with the guild. In the presidency of Mrs. James A. Patten the officers suggested the idea of an "at home" day to found and perpetuate the Carnegie gift. It met with such hearty response that the teas have been continued all these years.

The Carnegie gift comprises 170 volumes, 1,800 reproductions, 50 original etchings and engravings, and 30 mounted textiles, some of them of great antiquity. Together they form a comprehensive and authentic history of art to which artist, student, or layman may have access.

Lincoln's Favorite Song to Be Sung.

Since Miss Lunt, the guild's first president, is to be a guest at Mrs. Miller's home, all of those planning to attend the teas will be sure to drop in there sometime during the afternoon. Before Miss Lunt speaks May Barron, a former star of the Metropolitan Opera company, is to sing a group of songs, accompanied by Mrs. William H. Barnes. Among Miss Barron's selections will be Lincoln's favorite song, "O, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?"

At the handsome lake shore home of Mrs. Denman, Miss Beatrice Borland and her sister, Harriet, will give their much acclaimed illustrated travel talk, "Passports for Asia." This will be especially interesting now since it has been revealed that "Plim" of the story is Miss Beatrice's fiancé, Barton Plimpton of Boston.

Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland is going out to Evanston today to hear her daughters and to be the luncheon guest with them before the tea of Mrs. Charles Betts at the Georgian hotel.

Mrs. Cross and Mrs. Windsor are each providing bridge for the entertainment of their guests as well as short talks in mid-afternoon by Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes—undoubtedly Mrs. Dawes will have some interesting reports about Chicago's 1934 Fair—and by Miss Georgene Faulkner, who has promised to appear in a gown worn to a reception for Lincoln at the old Tremont house.

Mrs. Robert Elliott, the guild president this year, will try to stop in at each one of the teas. Other guild members will assist each of the hostesses.

Winnetka Group to Hear Sandburg on Lincoln.

There is quite a flurry of excitement in Winnetka over the prospect of entertaining and hearing Carl Sandburg, the author of "Abraham Lincoln—The Prairie Years" tonight on the occasion of the emancipator's 125th birthday. The Winnetka Woman's club is sponsoring the lecture, which will take place at 8:30 o'clock in Jane Kuppenheimer hall, but as it has invited the other local organizations to

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

That lavender and old lace angle being absolutely out of the valentine picture nowadays and even a couple of orchids or a box of imported chocolates considered a bit on the stereotyped side, we're asking the men who've some shopping to do or the gulleful women who've some shopping to do, "What about perfume?"

If we're any judge at all, the relation of romantic fragrances to romance itself makes perfume just about perfect as a valentine. The lady love who could resist it is undoubtedly the wrong target for valentines of any sort, to say nothing of affections.

Of course, with perfumes it's often safest for the valentine shopping male to stick to a girl's favorite scent if he knows what it is or can bribe her small sister with a dime to find out. If that can't be worked, he must do some perfume shopping on his own, a prospect that shouldn't be at all terrifying these days, with our Chicago shops giving him such a wide selection and such expert salesgirls.

First there is the matter of type—a pretty general classification, but a fairly safe one. The sweet young thing gets a sweet young scent, not a slash bang blend of musk and myrrh. The sophisticate gets a subtle blend, and only to the femme fatale goes the languorous, deliciously deadly type of fragrance.

Bearing these rules in mind, your own sniffing powers of appreciation are not to be overlooked. At Chicago's now famous perfume bar and in other shops you can do some judicious sniffing before the momentous selection.

The names of scents, particularly those with which to besiege your weakness on Wednesday, aren't without significance. We know of one, and a grand fragrance it is, too, that practically says, "You're my valentine," with the name it bears—and there are others, with messages even more romantic, if it's romance you want—as who doesn't, at least on Feb. 14?

Good Morning!

It varies from the average in its stressing of the methods employed by police operatives in the up to date analyses of crime.

A murder is committed. The usual number of people are suspected. The machinery of the law swings into action—and the observer sees the wheels revolve. One learns what goes on in the laboratory; the various ruses employed to wring the truth from complete liars. Interesting!

Slip up, though! WHY do they let the man who has just evinced such remarkable concern re finger prints he has left on a polished surface walk away without even detailing a "shadow" to follow him? It is slackness in regard to details such as this that irritate the observer and rob an otherwise carefully assembled photoplay of credibility.

Well, anyhow, the murderer's caught and true love triumphs.

The acting is uniformly good, and the dialog commendable. The set up is intriguing, with eccentric gun collector as the murderee, pretty showgirl as chief suspect and a young headquarters detective as the Romeo. Margaret Lindsay and George Brent in the latter rôles make a nice team. The murderer? Ah, that would be telling!

See you tomorrow!

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce. Barbara introduces him to her father as a casual acquaintance. Her father suspects Barbara's interest in Rance. He won't have him in the house again. Then relents, fearing she will meet him outside. Barbara tells her father she is going to marry Gregory. Brawne grants Gregory an interview in his New York office.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

PROVOKING ANGER.

"I have known my daughter twenty-two years and I must say that I do not recognize the description, Mr. Rance. Isn't this the customary sentimental deifications?"

"No. I am rather a realist, sir."

"Did it ever occur to you," said Brawne, caging his fingers, "that this picture you have of Barbara may be the result of an unusual gift of self-dramatization on her part? There is a strongly feminine instinct to appear to the man she desires, what he would wish her to be."

"The one does not preclude the other. What you refer to is true of any woman. It is a mental superiority we do not possess."

"And that far from being the modern disenfranchised rebel you believe her to be," continued Mr. Brawne, as though he had not heard Rance's reply, "she is in reality a thoroughly traditional type, ingrained in her conservatism, but with a dangerous susceptibility and a transitory leaning toward the romantic."

"How little he knows her. But I can't tell him that," thought Rance. He answered. "Probably a third person would give us an entirely different description."

Mr. Brawne frowned. Feeling that he was getting nowhere with these philosophic generalities, he said sharply, "You are in love and therefore obstinate. Barbara has told you, I suppose, of her previous engagement?"

"Yes, indeed."

"I mention it to show you that my judgment of her as impulsive and romantic has real basis, and that you may understand that in this present case, where in upbringing, tradition, outlook on life, there is such evident divergence, that I have the right to be thoroughly convinced."

"Yes, that's it," thought Rance instantly. "He is not going to oppose us immediately—nothing flatfooted. He will appear to be reasonable in order to demand a reasonable postponement. Time to work on her feelings."

"That's why I have requested this interview," he said out loud.

"You are aware that there is a large fortune involved?"

Rance stiffened, and for a moment was on the point of a sharp retort. But the growing conviction that at every point the lawyer had been seeking to provoke him to an angry termination restrained him. He drew from his pocket his last two contracts, glanced into them meditatively and said:

"Times have changed, sir, since writers could be regarded as irresponsible Bohemians. We are now respectable capitalists—God save us from destruction by that!" He placed the contracts on the table. "I made over eighty thousand last year, from the magazines, book rights and the moving pictures. The future is quite safe, I assure you. If you care to look at those contracts——"

Mr. Brawne, who was entirely ignorant of the emoluments of successful authorship, gazed at him stupefied a moment. His hand went out incredulously towards the contracts, but he checked the movement in time and, putting the papers from him, said: "Quite unnecessary."

"As for the fortune Barbara will inherit," said Rance dryly as he pocketed the contracts, "the only danger is that it will be a burden to both of us. If you could found a univeristy or a library with it I should be grateful." (Rather bombastic, but he deserved it.)

Mr. Brawne recovered slowly. "What is your attitude towards marriage itself?" he began again. "Were the views you expressed at my table——"

"They are my beliefs—yes, sir."

"Just how serious and permanent is your attitude towards marriage then?"

"I see. Because I believe in divorce rather than marital unhappiness, you fear that I am considering this as a temporary union. I can assure you that if I thought there was any reasonable danger that we were unsuited to each other. I should not consider it for a moment."

"Are you marrying to have children?"

"I shall expect children, yes. But, primarily, no, I am marrying because life with your daughter will mean more to me than living alone. (That sounds horribly stiff, but what the devil can I show to this old automaton.) I am thirty-two, I have had a varied and eventful life. If you are afraid of the wanderlust, I can only say that there are phases in life, and I have reached that point in my career where the one thing above all I wish to do is to produce, and for that I want a home, stability and the comradeship of some one who is stimulating and sympathetic. This is rather a dry way of expressing it."

"In modern marriages the bond that holds a man and wife together," said Brawne, averting his eyes, "is the duration of the passionate attraction. Am I right?"

"Generally speaking."

"How long do you think any passion can last?"

"Damn his cross-examination! This is getting ridiculous!" thought Rance. He was quiet a moment.

"Mr. Brawne, when I came here I expected to discuss our marriage with you. If you will excuse my pointing out to you, we are now rather on theoretic grounds, and what we are discussing is whether any marriage can be successful."

"I'll be more precise then. If after five, seven years—that is a long time—the physical attraction between you has died down, what is going to guarantee the permanence of your marriage?"

"What would you have answered, sir, if that question had been put to you?"

"I should have answered that marriage with me was a continuation of a family tradition, that under no circumstances would I have admitted the possibility of a divorce. Furthermore, let me point out the difference between us. I am a conventional type, leading a conventional life, bound by conventional standards. You are an artist. Your nature is imaginative and emotional. It is a part, a necessary part of your profession. A calm companionship will never hold you. When you cease to love one woman, you will love another. Well, Mr. Rance?" Very well satisfied with the effect this had on the young man, who looked at him gloomily, he added, "You realize, I hope, why it is only natural that I should desire that there may be a reasonable test of time. Shall we say a year?"

"That is the answer you give when you are opposed to a marriage and wish to break it up," said Rance irritably. "After what you have said, I haven't the slightest belief that a year or ten will change your estimate of me."

"I am always just, Mr. Rance."

Rance thought: "No. You have jockeyed me into saying the things you want to hear to convince your own conscience. What a shock I could give him, if I told him the whole truth, how everything really came about. But I can't—I can't tell him."

"You will consider my very reasonable request?" took up Mr. Brawne in a conciliatory tone. "At the present moment you are a stranger to me. I know absolutely nothing beyond the fact that in your chosen profession you have been successful."

"I came here to answer questions. There are no entangling relations, I have no mistress and I am in excellent health," he said curtly. "I believe that is the customary declaration."

Mothers Should Give Their Sons a Social Shove

In Teens They Need Parties as Much as Girls.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Thank goodness," sighed a mother to me the other day. "My child's a boy and I'll never have to worry over his social life when he grows up. Now if I had a daughter I suppose when she got to be twelve or thirteen I'd begin to give parties and see that she met boys and pray that she'd be popular. That's not on my calendar, thank goodness."

But she needn't feel so secure. Lots of parents of boys entertain for them as much as parents of girls do. Perhaps partly because in this new age of equal rights [or almost!] the social initiative can be shared. But mostly they do because it helps their boys to become acquainted or sociable or accustomer, or to get over shyness.

One mother wrote that her boy was so shy he couldn't seem to make friends with girls in the natural, frank way that his other boy friends did. The difficulty was overcome by a few small and informal parties made up of girls and boys. She was clever enough to know that in one's own house a shy boy or girl is more at ease and surer of himself. And she was also clever enough to plan something definite for them—waffle making, and so forth, so that the environment was conductive to friendliness.

Another mother worried for a while because her boy was uninterested in girls—or so she thought. Being a good psychologist she found out he was interested, but no near girl neighbors and no other ways to meet them kept him from easy friendship. As she said to herself, "He isn't going to say, 'Mother, I'm terribly interested in girls. I'd like to play with them, but I don't know a darn girl.' So it's up to me to see that he meets some." So, by being friendly to the mothers of young girls his own age and sometimes by frankly telling them that her son knew few of the so-called gentler [!] sex, she managed to wangle some young girls for twosome or foursome parties at home or at the movies.

If your young son lives in a neighborhood that is bristling with both boy and girl contemporaries, or if his school or Sunday school supplies them, you are fortunate, for the informal outdoor and indoor play that this makes possible is the best kind of social life. But if he hasn't, as he comes into his teens, the companionship of girls, it is up to you to see that he gets it.

So, young mothers of boys, don't look forward to a life without social obligations for your sons, for it may be that you will find yourselves some day poring over lists of girls' names, calling up eligible daughters' mothers, planning games, and looking up Sunday supper recipes, as your brow grows creased and your hair gets little white threads in it!

Thank You, Mae Tinee

The glowing praise which greeted Miss Sten's Chicago and New York premieres, together with the enthusiasm and overwhelming response of theater-goers, fully compensates me for the two years' time and effort that I have given to this star and her production.

You will never know the great joy I experienced when I read in your column that "Miss Sten sweeps on to heights in her first picture;" that "she is better than all promises." I wish with you that I, too, could "enjoy again that delight of seeing and hearing Miss Sten for the first time."

"Baking the Perfect Cake," a 56 page booklet containing directions and recipes for 48 cakes, frostings, and fillings along with causes and remedies for cake failures, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 20 cents. By mail, 23 cents, stamps or coin. Address requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Two days from now everybody will be joyously breaking hearts—that is, if Mme. Hostess will supply the hearts and the occasion. If we're 14 and it's a party we'll be storming in at supper time, all agog to see what mother has planned that is clever, delicious, and exciting. If we're 40 and mothers ourselves, we'll be keeping dark secrets from the family until the last breathless minute—and then springing dinner upon them in a flurry of heart shaped foods and decorations which should leave them positively speechless with admiration.

So whoever we are let's start thinking in terms of this gay and lovely celebration, in which we can forget all about sophistication and grew frilly and cupidishly sentimental to our hearts' content.

And don't try to modernize the color scheme. Red and white always have been and always will be the one satisfactory answer. Whether it's a party or merely a family gayety the possibilities are much the same. A white, glossy tablecloth is a perfect background. Or why not get frilly and try one of the open work lace or lacey, paper ones laid down over a square of red paper or cloth. Anything for the color. Paper napkins with hearts and darts seem even more festive, if less formal, than something crisp and linen.

So what are the most inviting reds in foods? Beets, cherries, currant or strawberry jelly, tomatoes, cranberries, pimiento, red caviar, red cabbage, cinnamon hearts, and red vegetable coloring—won't these supply all the ruby sparkle for which Valentine's day could long?

As a contrast snowy whites bow from white bread, cottage and cream cheeses, whipped potatoes, piles of rice, whipped cream, and endless other good things. And in matters not of foods a jaunt through a department store or simply a spree with paper and snips will supply you with darts, cupids, hearts, or an amazing assortment of frilly valentines for use as favors or as gayly scattered decorations over the cloth.

But more about foods in the heart shapes. You think fresh, crinkly spinach would be great with hard cooked egg atop? Then dedicate it to the saint of hearts by chopping that cooked spinach finely, seasoning, and packing it into a heart shaped mold. Reheat it in the oven, then turn it out onto a round serving plate. Now another heart, this one made on top and within the spinach one, outlined with strips of hard cooked egg white with grated egg yolk covering the center. Neatly "pierce" the heart with a red pimiento arrow and serve very hot.

And be sure you have yourself a set of the small heart shaped molds—little enough for jellies. Clear cranberry jelly, molded in these, gives a most flamboyant touch to any main course.

And cooky possibilities are endless and absorbing. There are plain heart cutters and fluted ones. There are cupid cutters and even arrow shaped affairs. Any roll dough is the starter. And if you've never grown playful with an assortment of these little cakey crystals which come in slim cellophane bags or in jars and in all sorts of colors, then this is the day and the hour. Sprinkle them atop the cookies and bake.

Next, your smallest heart shaped cutters make canapes, thin hearts of white bread, spread with lemon butter, and an inner heart outlined with sparkly red caviar. These wee favor cutters at the stores likewise make hearts scarcely half an inch across. Cut these from pimiento and use them to decorate white canapes or other dishes.

Those same heart molds that formed the cranberry jelly can also do things most shapely to cake. Bake small chocolate or fudge cakes in them, frost them with chocolate frosting, and while it's still soft print a smaller heart on the top of each with a wee cutter. When the frosting is firm fill in that inner heart with green pistachio frosting or with a pale pink one.

Timbale irons are more good friends of the heart hunter. Thin, deep-fat-fried timbale cases open the way for scores of simple foods to "go Valentine," creamed dishes and buttered vegetables leading the way.

But these are just starters—menus and recipes for all sorts of Feb. 14 meals are what you may be hungering for. And we have them for you in our newest booklet, "Heart Shaped Parties for Valentine's Day." By mail it's 3 cents. Address Mary Meade, Tribune Tower, Chicago, or collect it yourself for 2 cents at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

THE ONE NO-TRUMP OPENING BID.

ONE of the sacred fetishes of my system is the opening one no-trump. Kindly treated, it is a tremendous asset, but, once abused, it will turn viciously upon its master, with sometimes fatal results.

P. HAL SIMS.

Properly treated, an original one no-trump bid is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." It should encourage your partner in direct proportion to the discouragement it gives your opponents. Before you bid your partner was probably gazing pessimistically at a high card collection of two kings and a queen, gloomily planning a defense against an adverse slam. Now all is changed! His hand fairly reeks with power. You and he are going to bid and make three no-trump. The sun is shining brightly, the birds are warbling sweetly, and all nature is at peace.

For the good of your partner and your reputation, keep your opening one no-trump bids strong. Announce in a firm, loud tone of voice, "Partner, I have at least three and a half primary tricks, and probably some secondary values, just to round out the hand. I feel I ought to play the hand, unless you have some long suit. I haven't forgotten the six no-trump contract you played doubled and made by a double squeeze in combination with an end play on the fifth trick. I'll even admit that you play no-trump contracts better than I do. But I'll lay you dollars to dougnuts that I can make more at no-trump with this hand than you could. Do you want to know why? Very well, it's because I have 'declared' type of hand. I have a couple of ace queens over here, a king small, and some minor tenaces. I don't want any uncharitable opponent leading through my strength."

Suppose your partner replies "That's all very fine, but I have six hearts over here to the king jack. Whether you like it or not, I'm going to play the hand in hearts. How do I know that you'll have any trump support for me? It would embarrass me terribly to lose three tricks in my trump suit."

Simply look at him reproachfully and say, "Partner, you should know me better than that. I don't bid original no-trumps unless I have as good as queens small in every suit. No singletons, no worthless doubletons, no gaps in the hand. Of course, there might be an occasion where I'd have only three small trumps for you, but to compensate for this disappointment the rest of my hand would be superlative—absolutely superlative. Now, what did you say you had?"

"Two kings and a queen, remember?"

"Why, that's marvelous—even more than I need. Why are you babbling on about suits? Listen, just give me cards that are likely to provide two re-entries to your hand and I'll guarantee you a play for three no-trump."

You say all this when you bid one no-trump. There is no doubt, no equivocation, no need for any subsequent confirmation of your bid. Your one no-trump bid is a gilt-edged bond, which should pay you dividends for the remainder of a long and prosperous life. No matter where you sit—first hand, second hand, third hand, or fourth hand—this bid has the same meaning. Its requirements should never be shaded. You may bid psychics first hand, conceal your real suit, fool around with overcalls, do almost anything at the one level, in fact; but please make a vow to keep your no-trump bids untainted. There should be one bid which is definitely strength showing at all times, and this is it.

Society Events Pay Tribute to Lincoln Today

Mrs. Walter T. Fisher, chairman of the committee arranging for Mr. Sandburg's lecture, will be his hostess. She is giving a dinner party before the lecture, and if Mr. Sandburg remains in the village over night he will be the Fishers' house guest. Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, president of the Woman's club, will be among Mrs. Fisher's dinner guests. Other dinner hostesses will be Mrs. Dwight P. Green and Mrs. George Parker.

In keeping with the spirit of the day the Lake Shore League of Women Voters is having Walter F. Dodd to discuss "The Constitution" at its round table luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Arts club. Mr. Dodd is an authority on constitutional law and has made an extensive study of government. With Mrs. Dodd he has written a book entitled "Government in Illinois."

At 4:30 this afternoon and 8:30 this evening International house and the Renaissance society at the University of Chicago are showing D. W. Griffith's motion picture, "Abraham Lincoln," which tells the story of the Emancipator from his boyhood to his death. The picture is to be shown in the little theater at International house.

Several lucky Chicagoans will be enjoying the special events planned in celebration of Lincoln's birthday today at Lake Placid. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas have been there for several weeks and now they have been joined by Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart and their son, R. Douglas Stuart Jr. Although Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart and her son, Arthur Barnhart, have been thinking for some weeks about a Lake Placid vacation, they will not be leaving before late February.

Another patriotic note concerns the Alliance Française, which is to be presented with a historic American flag by Mrs. Ferdinand Peck on Washington's birthday. The meeting is to be held in the library of the alliance in the Fine Arts building. The flag is one that was used in the Paris exposition in 1900, at which the late Mr. Peck headed the American commission.

Junior League to Give Fifth Show Saturday.

The Junior Leaguers couldn't find a stronger recommendation for their play, "Peter Pan," than the fact that they have to give a fifth performance next Saturday morning at the Studebaker theater. When they opened their children's theater Jan. 20 they conservatively agreed to give four performances, thinking they would be lucky if they filled the theater so many times.

To their pleasant surprise, however, they have had to turn away so many persons each Saturday and so many friends have written in asking for another day that the members of the cast agreed day before yesterday when they were wiping off grease back stage that they'd oblige with a "repeater" this coming Saturday at 10:30.

"I do wish I could be in Illinois the 15th," writes Mrs. Harold L. Ickes rather wistfully from Washington to her friend, Mrs. Everett D. Graf. The point is that the North Shore Mortar Boards of the University of Chicago are having their annual assembly that day at the Winnetka home of Mrs. Graf. Mrs. E. V. T. Brown is to give her interpretation of "Ah, Wilderness."

Other well known North Shore Mortar Board members are Mrs. Willough by Walling, Mrs. George Lytton, Mrs. James Cathcart, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, Mrs. Luther Hall Barber, and Mrs. Edward P. Farwell.

Since the subscribers to the Girl Scouts' series of Monday night concerts have been given seats at the second concert of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra on Wednesday night a good many of the ticket holders have purchased block of seats and turned them over to music students, thereby benefiting two causes at the same time. Among those who have purchased tickets for the students are Mrs. George Rasmussen, who is giving 100 seats, and Mrs. James A. Patten, who has secured several blocks of seats for the Evanston Township High School band.

The junior James B. Forgans, who had planned to sail Saturday for Bermuda, postponed their trip because of the illness of Mrs. Forgan's brother, Lawrence A. Meeker, who has pneumonia, although not very severely. He is at home with his mother, Mrs. George W. Meeker, on State parkway. As soon as he is well on the way to recovery the former Margaret Meeker and Mr. Forgan will again make plans for a fortnight in Bermuda.

There is a possibility that the junior John S. Coonleys will make their home permanently in San Francisco, where they are living now. Mr. Coonley went west about seven weeks ago, and his wife joined him recently.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Claude A. Swanson and her son, Douglas Hall, were entertained at a buffet luncheon today at the National Woman's Country club by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fairfax of Virginia, who had a large company to meet them.

Mrs. Harold L. Ickes of Chicago, wife of the secretary of the interior, left this afternoon for her home in Chicago, to be absent for a short time. Mrs. Ickes held her last "at home" for the season, at least until Easter, last Wednesday.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Miriam Hopkins, the gifted actress whose current vogue in the cinema has a background of fine achievements on the stage, may be seen in her real person at the Chicago theater this week. She appears in a one act play called "The Affairs of Anatol," which is, to be exact, the Mimi or chorus girl episode from Arthur Schnitzler's full length comedy of that title.

Miss Hopkins receives expert support from two leading men of excellent standing in the theater—Walter Abel [the Anatol], who will be remembered from "When Ladies Meet" and "Mourning Becomes Electra," and Austin Fairman, who played the amorous doctor in "Dinner at Eight" through its Chicago run last summer. This episode out of Schnitzler's "Anatol," therefore, receives first rate interpretation. It is, in fact, the best dramatic sketch, both in substance and in acting, that I have discovered in the four-a-day theaters since I have taken to pursuing the disappearing drama into those spacious and always crowded auditoriums.

"Anatol" is a play of a certain vintage, but it does not betray its age. It was regarded as "advanced" drama when its first American staging took place, some 25 years ago, in this city. Maurice Browne's Little theater, on an upper floor of the Fine Arts building—the ancestor of all the little theaters now in the world—was the scene of that event. Now "Anatol" is offered to the populace as a supplement to a cinema program and stands up well as a vaudeville sketch.

The Abbey Theater company of Dublin will return to the United States next October for the longest tour in the history of its American pilgrimages. An announcement to this effect has just been issued by Alber & Wickes, the firm of impresarios which handled the notable Abbey tour of the season of 1932-'33. The players will travel from coast to coast, visiting many cities in which they have never been seen. The engagements in New York and Chicago will be limited to three weeks each.

The repertory will include new plays as well as the old favorites. The tour was arranged in conferences between Lennox Robinson, managing director of the Abbey, and Elbert A. Wickes with the understanding that it would probably be the company's last American visit for several years.

Maria Jeritza, the opera singer, will make her debut as a star of the legitimate stage in the Boston Opera house on March 5. Her vehicle will be "Teresa," an operetta with score by Rudolph Friml.

Stock Directs a Short Work by Schoenberg

"Kammer Symphonie" Is Heard at Arts Club.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One of yesterday's important musical events was the first performance in this part of the country of Arnold Schoenberg's "Kammer Symphonie," opus 9. It was played at the Arts club last night by a small orchestra directed by Frederick Stock and in the presence of the composer, preceded by speeches by Mr. Stock in English and by Mr. Schoenberg in German and the reading of many telegrams from other conductors from other cities, and followed by an explanation by Felix Borowski and further demonstration of the piece by Mr. Stock and the orchestra.

This is a work written by Schoenberg in 1906, just about the time that he was evolving his ideas about modernism in music. The work is brief, about twenty-two minutes in playing time, and it is constructed in a way that makes use of his first and original themes throughout the course of the piece. There are several themes in use. They combine here and there, not exactly at haphazard, but with a feeling that they have been bound together with a cord rather than fitted into each other. It means that one must follow them for their own sakes and not for their combined harmony. In other words, this is atonalism, which was what Schoenberg was after. He was not entirely atonal, however; occasionally they fit into a simple harmony. And at all times they are interesting, sometimes exciting.

Winifred Christie, who plays upon the double keyboard piano invented by her husband, the late Emanuel Moor, appeared in a recital at the Studebaker yesterday afternoon. The second keyboard, directly above the first, plays an octave above the first and can be coupled with the first. Consequently a handful of notes in a chord may be made to sound like a double handful; a simple trill or a scale may become a trill or scale in octaves.

The device is capable of great embellishment. Miss Christie, however, is a pianist, a good one, first and a demonstrator of a trick device later. She uses the coupler extremely discreetly. Once in a while, in Bach, in the Handel-Brahms Variations, one could detect the amplifying device. Generally her effects were those of the intelligent pianist. She depends upon musicianship rather than showmanship, which, after all, is good for the new invention.

Madeleine Mounier, a brilliant and fervent cellist, was the soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra at the Congress hotel yesterday. Her first number was the Haydn Concerto in D, which all cellists play; her second the Ibert work with woodwind accompaniment, which she was the first to play and in which other cellists have followed her. She has tone, technic, and personality, all in a high degree.

Conductor Ebba Sundstrom presented the Handel "Water Music," not in familiar Harty transcription but in an earlier version by Max Seiffert. Another number was the Haydn-Brahms Variations, played to the memory of Miss Helen Sears, who worked conscientiously and to great effect in the interests of the orchestra. Both were excellent performances.

Marjorie Livingston, Chicago soprano, has been chosen as the result of a contest to sing the rôle of the unseen priestess in the People's Opera company's performance of "Aida" at the Stadium next Saturday night, thereby adding her name to the roster including Anna Roselle, Carmela Ponselle, Pasquale Ferrara, John Charles Thomas, and Norman Cordon. Anna Ludmila, another Chicago girl, and Edward Caton will lead the ballet.

Parents of Girls Tell Their Views on Marriage vs. Career

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Would you prefer to see your daughter married at an early age, or have her choose a career?

The above was a recent Inquiring Reporter question addressed to a number of parents. A question you, as a parent, also might ask yourself.

The parents interviewed, in almost every instance, expressed the wish for both career and marriage. Or, otherwise, financial stability guaranteed with the early marriage. However, a career without marriage appears, from the answers, to be a wholly unwelcome thought.

The influence of the late depression is seen in some of the answers stipulating both career and marriage. As one parent said: "I would like my daughter to go to college and get every advantage usually given a man. She should have a career. The depression has taught us that. When she is old enough to know her own mind, and is successful, I would like to see her marry."

A couple of years, four, six, or eight as a wage earner, do not constitute a career. It is simply employing time, marking it, in many instances, until marriage is offered. And none shall argue down the advisibility of a not-too-long wage earning experience. If, for no other reason, the wage earning experience teaches just how far a dollar will go, and beyond what point it cannot be stretched, valuable training for domestic management. Also, this wage earning venture often is the means of contracting future husbands.

The New Knits Have Style of Cloth Dresses

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Don't sniff at knits . . . at least, these new beauties that are ready for use under your winter coats. They are knockouts . . . with fascinating colors, divinely slim silhouettes [something a knit hasn't had for seasons] and the smart new tricks of necklines.

And the other decorative trimmings are legion. For instance, a lovely yellow one piece affair has a romantic ruffled jabot streaking down the center of the chest and it is anchored there with crystal buttons. Remove it from the buttoned anchorage and presto! you have a long sleeved model, tailored and trim and quite different from any other tailored knit you have ever seen.

It must keep some enterprising inventor of new stitches busy from dawn till dusk creating these new fancy stitches, the lacy effects that are invariably used for the blouse tops—either knit in one piece with the rest of the stitches or as a slip-on blouse. Some of the best looking lacy knits achieve a double effect worn with the plain knit skirts and when a butterfly collar or jabot is added you have a dress that is a dress, the fashion runner-up of any of your most intricately cut and designed silk frocks.

All the plaid fanciers can shop with glee . . . for the newest knits are as gayly plaided as any Anderson gingham . . . some of them fairly dazzle the eyes—think of clear yellow, crossed and double crossed with giddy green, bright blue and a solemn brown, as well as a fine line of scarlet—and remember they are knitted and then gasp.

Stripes have shricked their way into the knitted weaves, too, with the same spectacular splendor as they have invaded the silks and cottons. One stunning blue striped model will make you part with your money in record time . . . it is made of soft, fuzzy rabbit's wool material and knit with the stripes in V formations, and will do everything for your drooping spirits on a dark and dismal day.

General Gain in Weight Is Aid for Knuckle Thinness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Florette asks if anything can be done to reduce the size of the knuckles. The elbow bones, she complains, "stick out" too. Her arms are so thin.

Hand knuckles which have been warped out of shape, in the early days, by work or by habits of pulling and snapping them, are difficult to reshape once grown. Parents should be watchful of this habit of pulling knuckles, which is a fairly common one in children. Also, if parents are looking ahead to a day when the girl child will be an ornament, there are certain kinds of hard labor that they should be spared.

But, where the knuckles protrude because of underweight, as in Florette's case, the trick is to put on weight as quickly as possible. The hands benefit, as well as the arms, from a general weight addition. When one gets painfully thin, the hands show it first with the disappearance of fatty tissue, and resultant prominent knuckles.

So, Florette, you'll have to go in for a course of weight-gaining. See a physician first, to be sure that it is not some constitutional disorder which is keeping you thin. The doctor will recommend a course of weight-gaining suitable to your needs, should you prove a real patient. But, if there is nothing constitutionally wrong with you, you'll have to begin to eat better—not more, perhaps, but better foods.

BY WILFRID. SMITH.

The fight is on. More than 400 amateur boxers from Chicago's west side tonight will start the three day tournament which will determine those who will compete later this month in the world's greatest boxing tournament at the Chicago Stadium.

This west side field—the largest ever assembled in the seven years of Golden Gloves tournaments—has been selected from hundreds of entries. Each entrant passed his physical examinations; has trained for the tests, and tonight begins his campaign for highest honors. On Wednesday night, when the tumult of shouting has died away at the 132d Regiment armory, sixteen boys will be ready to face the invasion of the champions of thirty-five cities from eight states in the Tournament of Champions.

Eight of them will continue in the struggle for the Novice titles, which will be decided at the Stadium and from which group of 32 will come 8 boys who will accompany the intercity squad to New York for the championship battles in Madison Square Garden.

Big Chance for Fans.

The boxers are ready. So are the men who are responsible for the conduct of this mammoth show. And best of all, this tournament also offers an exceptional show for the patrons. No other boxing show, amateur or professional, offers the same number of bouts for the same price. Admission is only 60 cents, plus tax, for each night, and for this nominal sum there will be more than 100 bouts.

There are no reserved seats. The armory doors will be opened at 6:15 p. m. and the first comers will occupy the ringside seats. The armory undoubtedly is the finest location obtainable on the west side. There are more than 5,000 seats and the banked bleachers on the sides of the two rings and the balconies, which surround on three sides, present advantageous sites for the spectators.

West Section First.

The west section boxers pry open the hostilities in Chicago. But on Wednesday night, when the qualifiers for the Tournament of Champions are determined at the 132d Regiment armory, the near south side tournament

Wiffy Cox's 283 Takes Texas Open

WIFFY COX.

Cox won the rich Agua Caliente open one week ago. His first round was a subpar 70. His next three were even par figures. At the start of the final 18 holes he was two strokes behind Byron Nelson of Texarkana, who had paced the field since the first day.

Many galleryites believed Cox had washed his opportunity away when he slipped to a 39 on the front nine, but the Brooklyn shotmaker fired an eagle three into the cup at the 520 yard 13th and slipped in a birdie three at the 385 yard 15th to get level with par.

He needed a par three on the final hole to win. His iron shot sailed on the green and he played safe with two putts. His 32 on the back nine netted him the championship and first prize money of $750.

Second place money went to Byron Nelson, the 22 year old Texarkana professional, and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., each shooting a card of 284.

Gus Moreland of Dallas, a member of the United State Walker cup team, was the low amateur with 141—72—72—285. Moreland finished in a tie for fourth place with Tom Creavy, former national P. G. A. champion of Albany, N. Y., Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., and Dick Metz of Deal, N. J.

Horton Smith stepped into one of the larger of the 15 prize purses when he shot the lowest round of the day, a 34—33—67. But on the final trek he slipped to a 73.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., was coasting along on the final round under par with a splendid chance of winning until he sent three tee shots into the river along the 7th fairway. He finished with 142—71—74—287 to tie with Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, who had to shoot a hole in one at the par three 10th to get among the top notchers.

Harry Cooper, who was in third place at the start of the third round today, had a miserable day and finished with 140—74—74—288.

COCHRAN RUNS 13 TO BEAT REISELT; BOZEMAN IN LEAD

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Establishing a new tournament high run record of 13, Welker Cochran, former balk line star from San Francisco, remained in the thick of the battle in defense of his world's three cushion billiard title tonight as he defeated Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia veteran, 50 to 26, for his third victory in four games.

Cochran's record run came in the 13th inning when, while leading, 11 to 4, he mixed balk line shots with his knowledge of three cushions, to run 13 points, many of them from difficult positions.

Bozeman in First Place.

Just when it appeared he was going to beat J. N. Bozeman Jr.'s short game record of 34 innings, Cochran went into a slump. He snapped out of it in the 22d, however, and put together a cluster of nine for a lead of 36 to 11. With the exception of the 28th, when he connected with three caroms, the 1925 balk line champion scored his points singly until the 39th inning, when he completed the game with an unfinished run of five.

Bozeman, 27 year old Vallejo, Cal., wizard, kept one game in front of the titleholder, defeating Alfredo De Oro, 71 year old Cuban, 50 to 22, in 50 innings. The victory was the west coast youngster's fourth straight triumph and sent him into undisputed possession of first place.

Kieckhefer, Thurnblad Win.

Augie Kieckhefer and Arthur Thurnblad, a pair of former title holders from Chicago, turned in two sparkling exhibitions as each won his second triumph in the tournament this afternoon.

Kieckhefer, who has lost four games, turned back Len Kenney, also of Chicago, 50 to 24 in 45 innings, while Thurnblad took only 39 innings, the second shortest game of the tournament to beat Tiff Denton, Kansas City, 50 to 31. The triumph left Thurnblad with a record of two victories and three defeats. Standings:

Tilden Beats Vines; Leads Series, 9 to 8

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Bill Tilden's powerful service clicked tonight, and without extending himself he defeated Ellsworth Vines in the 17th meeting of their tennis tour. Tilden won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1. With tonight's victory Tilden went into the lead by one match, the series now standing 9 to 8. The contest attracted 3,000 persons to the Municipal auditorium.

DROP PENALTY ON INCOMPLETE FORWARD PASS

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The national football rules committee today held out a helping hand to the offense, altering three portions of its code to give more strength to the attacking team.

The cry last fall that the defense had all the better of the game was heard by the committee to the extent that it lifted the touchback penalty on the first incomplete forward pass thrown over the goal line and removed the five yard setback inflicted after a second successive incompleted forward pass.

The third change was the rewording of the definition of a punt to allow a teammate to hold the ball until the kicker has made contact.

Expect More Open Game.

These changes will be a great help to the offensive team and should result in a more open game next fall, Chairman Walter Okeson and Secretary W. S. Langford said at the conclusion of the committee's annual meeting.

The first incomplete forward pass over the goal line—except on fourth down—henceforth will result only in the use of a down and not in loss of possession of the ball.

Under last fall's rules, when a team failed to complete a forward pass over the goal it lost possession and the ball was given to its opponent on the 20 yard line.

The change in the rule on passes over the goal line applies only to the first incomplete throw. The old touchback penalty remains in effect for the second or third incomplete pass or an incomplete fourth down forward pass over the goal line.

They'll Try More Passes.

For passes on the field, however, there is no penalty for failures regardless of the number of throws tried in the same succession of downs.

The removal of any penalty for successive incompleted forward passes takes away the quarter back's fear of the customary five yard forfeiture for a second unsuccessful pass, and likely will also lead to a more open game.

The change in the definition of a punt allows a player to hold the ball in his hands for a teammate to kick. Under the old definition the ball had to be dropped from the hands before it was booted. The new definition is considered by coaches and officials as a boon to the quick kick. Under it, it was explained, a quarter back may now fake a spinner into the line or a pass, for instance, and let the kicker punt the ball right out of his hands.

The widely publicized proposals for rule changes, such as the increasing of the side line zone from 10 to 15 yards and permission of forward pass anywhere behind the scrimmage line, failed to muster support of the committee.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The Chicago Bears, National Professional Football league champions, concluded a five weeks barnstorming tour of California today by defeating a team of Pacific coast all-stars, 7 to 0, before 10,000 in Kezar stadium. It was the Chicagoan's fifth consecutive victory on the coast.

RED GRANGE.

A third period drive, in which Red Grange played a leading part, gave the Bears their margin of victory. Gene Ronzani, former Marquette university star, scored the touchdown on a six yard run around end, culminating a 67 yard march down the field.

Grange suffered with the rest of his teammates in the first half, but he finally got under way in the third period, starting the goalward march with a nine yard plunge off tackle. Manders, who kicked the extra point from placement, added five, and Grange then moved the Bears 35 yards down the field with a pass from Ronzani, which put the ball on the six yard line. Ronzani went over on the first play.

The All-Stars, although regaled with opportunity in the first three quarters through fumbles and intercepted passes, made only one serious threat. It came in the fourth period when Johnny Blood, a pro league star, entered the western back field.

One pass, Presnell to Blood, was good for 36 yards and a first down on the Bears' 11 yard line. The All-Stars tried another pass on the first play, Presnell throwing to Blood, but the ball slipped off Blood's outstretched fingers. Bravelli then smashed his way to the Bears' six yard line, but on fourth down Hewitt, the star of the game, threw Presnell for a 10 yard loss.

Gardiner	7 6 8—21

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, the proprietor of the Blackhawks, declared that Lionel Conacher was largely responsible for the success of the Chicagoans in the current National Hocky league race. If there happens to be any doubt about it, Lionel gave convincing proof to the contrary before 14,000 at the Stadium last night by scoring two goals in the Hawks 4 to 1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens.

The big defense man scored the first goal of the evening within less than four minutes of the opening period. He then returned to his post and irritated the Canadien wings while Johnny Gottselig and Lolo Couture were collaborating on the second goal and Wildor Larochelle was counting the only Montreal goal of the game. Then with only 13 seconds of the second period remaining, he scored his second goal of the evening to strengthen his standing as the scoring defense star of the American division of the league.

Hawks Gain on Lead.

The Hawks' victory left them only a single point out of the first place division because of the Americans' victory last night over the Rangers and Detroit's victory at Ottawa, which moved them into a tie with the Rangers for the lead.

The Hawks from force of habit began the game with some high tension skating, banking on the fact that Canadiens had played themselves a game in Toronto Saturday night, not to mention the ensuing sleeper jump therefrom. It appeared as though the two teams might run themselves into the ice until Conacher, skating along in his leisurely way followed Thompson down the ice, and Paul, who had nursed the puck for almost the length of the rink, passed to Lionel, who promptly dispatched it through the Canadiens' defense and by the unsuspecting Chabot.

Plenty of Shooting.

The marksmanship in the remaining portion of the period was exciting, if not accurate, the puck bouncing off the boards back of Chabot's cage with more frequency than it did back of Gardiner, which was proved by the fact that Lorne had 20 stops against

THEY'LL REPRESENT SOUTH BEND IN TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS

These eight boxers won championships in their respective divisi ons in the South Bend News-Times' Golden Gloves tournament at South Bend last week and will meet 36 other champions in each division in The Tribune's Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium, Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

DUBLINSKY WILL TEST PUNCHING ABILITY OF COX

Paired on Dundee-Jeby Card at Stadium.

Tracy Cox, Indianapolis welterweight, and Harry Dublinsky of Chicago will meet for the third time in a 10 round supporting bout on the Vince Dundee-Ben Jeby boxing card at the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Cox, who replaces Bep Van Klaveren, lost the first match with Dublinsky, but won the second.

The Indianapolis fighter is a hard puncher and most of his victories have been scored by knockouts. In his last 37 engagements Cox scored 24 knockouts, won nine decisions, and lost only four. Last Oct. 5 he was awarded the junior welterweight championship of Texas by whipping Willard Brown at Dallas.

Dublinsky Going Strong.

Leo Rodak, south side featherweight, will receive a hard test from Hymie Wiseman of Des Moines, Ia., in an eight round preliminary contest. Rodak, who climaxed a brilliant amateur boxing career by winning THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves featherweight title last year, is undefeated as a professional.

15th Pro Fight.

Rodak will be making his 15th pro appearance against Wiseman. He scored his best victory against Jackie Sharkey at Midway arena Jan. 15 in eight rounds, his first bout at this distance. He whipped Johnny Fitzpatrick on the King Levinsky-Jack Sharkey bill at White Sox park last Sept. 18. This wasn't considered startling until last Friday when Fitzpatrick held Eddie Shea to a 10 round draw at Miami, Fla.

Johnny Phagan, west side, and Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, will clash in the eight round main event tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Stuhley will be Phagan's second middleweight opponent, his first being Solly Dukelsky, whom he whipped at Cicero Jan. 1. Prior to that Phagan defeated Henry Pothier and knocked out Peewee Jarrell. Supporting bouts:

Jackie Ausborn vs. Mickey Laughlin [5], 152.
Joey Borak vs. Art Zimmer [4], 130.
Frank Mirabal vs. Floyd Embry [4], 122.
Steve Roberts vs. Matt Dour [4], 175.
Jack McAdams vs. George Jonasen [wrestling].

Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis featherweight, and Young Geno, La Salle, will meet in the eight round feature event tonight at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. In his latest appearance Geno held Paul Dazzo to a draw.

Tod Kelly and Eddie Smith [4], 135.
Sammy Adams vs. Tommy Rabel [4], 150.
Curtis Mills vs. Chuck Roberts [4], 148.
George Mack vs. John Mason [wrestling].

Barney Ross may defend his junior welterweight title against Tony Herrera at Fort Worth, Tex., in April . . . Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, is training for his professional debut . . . Lou Vine, local lightweight, resumed drills yesterday after a rest of three months in West Virginia . . . Tom Shadden, Omaha, Neb., lightweight, has placed himself under the management of Izzy Kline.

The next boxing show at Cicero is to be offered Feb. 23 . . . The New York athletic commission has given Kid Chocolate until Friday to accept a challenge from Frank Klick or forfeit recognition as featherweight champion in New York.

There will be 10 amateur bouts at the Savoy arena, 4733 South Parkway, tomorrow night. Some of the bouts:

George Johnson vs. Morrie Graff [5], featherweights.
Wes Brown vs. Ed Dvorak [wrestling].
Glen Brown vs. Eddie Klecka [wrestling].

Winning Ping-Pong

BY COLEMAN CLARK.
[National Champion 1932.]

Topspin Drive at the Moment of Contact.

YOU all know Mr. Sockem. He is the breezy gent who swats almost every ball for all he is worth. Occasionally he connects with a winner and the gallery gives him a big hand. But old man Percentage is against him and when the match is over the other fellow takes the prize. Blind slugging will get you nowhere. Controled speed is what you should strive for.

The keynote to effective offensive play is the topspin drive. Why? Because it has speed and therefore places the receiver on the defensive. The smash is another good attacking weapon whenever a high bouncing ball presents itself.

Forcing shots must have a sting to them. The transfer of weight into the stroke is what gives it additional power. Keep on your toes. Dance about if necessary. In attacking resort to any antics that keep the ball to the side of the body, from which position drives can best be made.

opens for a three day stand at the Savoy ballroom, 4733 South Parkway avenue. This tournament also will qualify sixteen open fighters and eight novices for the Stadium bouts. A week from tomorrow the north side boxers get under way at the Loyola university gymnasium and they are followed by the south side boys, who commence battling at White City on Feb. 21.

Among the many teams which begin the drive to qualify for the Stadium bouts is the German American Boxing club. Organized last year, the boys have improved under the tutelage of Karl Steinmetz until they believe they'll be in the money this season. They have been in training for three months. Rated as topnotch fighters are Toney Kosh, heavyweight; Harry Diebrink, light heavyweight; Paul Damenhauer and Ervin Gotsch, middleweights, and Augie Vollmer, lightweight.

This year's Golden Gloves tournament boasts no favorites. With few exceptions, the boys who won places on the Chicago squad which last year defeated New York 10 bouts to 6 and whipped the amateur champions of Ireland, 6 to 2, now are out of competition. These former winners either have joined the professional ranks or have retired.

Last winter all the Open Division Golden Gloves titles were won by Chicago boxers with the exception of the flyweight championship which went to Johnny Baltzer of Davenport, Ia. Baltzer was a member of the 1932 intercity squad and then came back to take the 1933 title from such clever boxers as Lenny Cohen of Chicago, and Walter Matthys of St. Charles, Ill.

On Way to Fame.

It remains to be seen, however, whether Chicago's amateurs can do as well this year. The impression prevails that this is the year for the boxers from Tennessee, Michigan, Nebraska, Indiana, Wisconsin, Ohio, and down state Illinois. It has been only a matter of time until these cities equalled the prowess of the Chicagoans, for each year they have done better.

The west side always has been a fertile field for boxing. In recent years many of Chicago's Golden Gloves champions have risen to fame in that district. Barney Ross first learned to swing punches in Golden Gloves and even as he came unheralded, so many others reach toward fame. The west side tournament will afford a preview of the boys who will defend Chicago's laurels against the best in the land.

Report Tonight.

All contestants in the west section must report at the armory tonight between 4 and 6 p. m. They will be given a second physical examination and will be weighed and classed officially by weights. This includes Open boxers as well as the Novices. Boxers must weigh in only once for the west side tournament. As they qualify for the Tournament of Champions they will be given their instructions and tickets for the Chicago Stadium.

Twenty-four gold medals will be awarded the west side qualifiers and in addition each boy who reports will be presented with the official tournament button.

SONNENBERG TO ASK FOR JUDGES IN SMITH BOUT

Gus Sonnenberg has petitioned Promoter Doc Krone to have two judges and a referee at work Friday night when he meets Jack Smith of Chicago in a two falls out of three wrestling match at the Arcadia Gardens. Krone will present the request to the Illinois athletic commission today.

Charlie Peterson vs. Rudy Hoffman.

North Country Grosbeak Seen in Chicagoland

BY BOB BECKER.

The evening grosbeak, a striking north country bird which is known to Chicago bird fans as an irregular winter visitor, has been reported recently on the north shore. If this handsome traveler is with us this winter, he is well worth a scouting trip to find him, because ordinarily we do not see many around Chicago.

Of all the places that a bird fan might see these grosbeaks during the bleak winter months the sand dunes of Indiana offer the best chances because food and cover are abundant there.

The male evening grosbeak is a beautiful bird. Its forehead is yellow. The upper parts of the bird are olive brown which shades to a dull yellow on the rump. The same color prevails on the under parts. With black and white wings and a black tail this winter visitor will catch your eye very quickly.

Flocks Vary in Size.

The evening grosbeak may travel around in flocks ranging from six or eight birds up to 50 or 60. If a flock comes to your yard you can tell at once that they are "from the country" and unused to contacts with human beings, because they are quite tame.

Buds and fruits of trees make up the food of this interesting northern bird. Therefore they frequent such trees as the maple, box elder, and the mountain ash. The red berries of the mountain ash are especially attractive to them. There are quite a number of these trees in the village where we live and where a small flock of grosbeaks has been reported.

Michigan bird fans in the lower peninsula are reporting quite a number of evening grosbeaks this winter. Of course this species is nothing to get excited about as far as residents in the upper peninsula are concerned. One may expect to see grosbeaks up there during the cold months. In fact, thousands of the birds have been trapped and banded by a bird bander at the Soo.

Lives in Michigan.

Michigan also can claim the evening grosbeak as a permanent resident. Formerly it was thought this species nested above Michigan, but now some of the birds are known to spend the summer in the thick forested areas of the upper peninsula.

In Chicagoland the evening grosbeak has some distinguished company in the group of birds known as "irregular winter visitants." For example, there are winters when we get snowy owls from the far north. These hardy predators always are of interest to bird fans.

Other irregular visitants are the crossbill, pine grosbeak and the Bohemian waxwing. There is no counting on these birds to show up during our winters. Sometimes they come into Illinois and then again they stay farther north.

SINGER, NOTED U.S. HORSE OWNER, DIES IN ENGLAND

TORQUAY, England, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Washington Singer, an American who inherited a fortune from the sale of sewing machines and well known owner of race horses, died here today. He was 68 years old.

For years a resident of England, Singer was one of the first Americans ever elected to the exclusive English Jockey club. His horses often raced in the Grand National, and his Kwannon in 1924 captured the Great Metropolitan stakes.

MARMION BEATS ST. MICHAELS.

GARY ALUMNI OF INDIANA SUPPORT KYLE FOR COACH

Alumni in the steel district yesterday petitioned the board of trustees and athletic authorities at Indiana university to select John Kyle, former Crimson full back and now head coach at Froebel High school in Gary, as a successor to E. C. Hayes, who retired Saturday as coach of the university eleven.

Members of the trustees assured the alumni committee that nothing definite had been done about hiring a successor, despite reports that Don Peden, coach at Ohio university, is expected in Bloomington, Ind., today to sign a three year contract. They told the committee, however, that the selection of a coach had been left up to Z. G. Clevenger, director of athletics, and William Bryan, president of the university.

Clevenger and Bryan intimated they were dubious about Kyle's ability to compete with the experienced coaches in the Big Ten, his career as an instructor having been centered in the Gary high schools. They also said nothing definite had been done about a successor for Hayes.

The northern Indiana alumni are pressing Kyle's selection on the basis of his remarkable success as coach at Froebel and met Clevenger's arguments on high school coaches with the cases of Bob Zuppke, Glen Thistlethwaite, and George Veenker. The latter went up to big time collegiate circles from a Gary high school.

GAMES TONIGHT:
Iowa at Northwestern.
Purdue at Michigan.
Ohio State at Wisconsin.

Iowa's Hawkeyes jumped back into the race for the Western conference championship Saturday night by whipping the Purdue Boilermakers, 38 to 36, on the West Lafayette floor. While Purdue had been beaten by Notre Dame early in the season, it had run up four consecutive victories in the Big Ten before losing to Iowa.

Although Iowa now has lost to Minnesota, 39 to 38, and to Indiana, 34 to 25, the Hawks may tie for the leadership if they can beat Purdue Saturday night at Iowa City. In the meantime, of course, an important item of business is the Iowa-Northwestern game tonight at Patten gymnasium, not forgetting that Purdue also must dispose of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The chances are that the capacity crowd of 13,000 at Iowa City Saturday will see a title battle, although Northwestern may ruin the prospect. Stranger things have happened and one of them was Indiana's victory over Iowa a week ago.

Just how Indiana could whip Iowa when the Hoosiers had succumbed to Purdue, 47 to 13, is one of the vagaries of basketball, but these are recorded in the record book.

Northwestern is definitely out of the race for the title, for Chicago squelched what faint hope may have lingered when it downed the Wildcats Saturday night, 36 to 34, with Bill Haarlow setting the pace with 21 points. But Northwestern would like nothing better than to slip over the knockout punch on the unsuspecting Hawks.

Minnesota's ambitions also were thrown for a loss when Wisconsin won Saturday, 31 to 30, and now the Gophers must come through in their remaining games if they finish high in the second division. The other game Saturday resulted in a 28 to 25 victory for Illinois over Indiana.

Norman Tops Scorers.

Norman, Minneapolis center, leads the Big Ten individual scoring race with 81 points. His record has been compiled in nine games. Haarlow of Chicago has a better average per game, for in six contests he has run up 59 points. Moffitt of Iowa, playing in six games, disputes that honor with 57 points, and Cottom of Purdue, in five games, has scored 51 points for the best average of any of the leaders.

Wonderbolts, Sparta Win Tuneup Games

The Welboldt Wonderbolts and the Sparta Leaders yesterday won their final practice games before meeting in the national soccer cup semi-finals next Sunday. The Spartas defeated an all-star amateur team, 4 to 0, while the Wonderbolts had a little more trouble whipping the Ravenswood Scots, 3 to 1.

Wolf scored three of the Sparta eleven's four goals, making the first on a kick from Trimmell. Sack of the All-Stars scored the second goal for Sparta by turning the ball through his own goal. Wolf netted again late in the first period and followed it with his third goal in the second half.

Waldrom scored first for the Wonderbolts after 11 minutes, driving in a rebound off Raudek, the Scot's goalie. Cuthburt beat Raudek a few minutes later for the second score, but after that Ravenswood tightened up and through the first part of the second period gave Hjulian several shots to handle, although they could not get the ball past him. Lilly scored the final goal for Wieboldt and a few minutes later Murray shot the Scots' score from a breakaway. Lineups:

PITTSBURGH BEATS CLEVELAND

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Fists flew in the national challenge cup soccer match today, in which the Currys of Pittsburgh defeated the Cleveland Slavias, 2 to 0.

Police and spectators surged on the field after Ralph Caraffi of Cleveland, former local star, aimed a volley of blows at Fred Donnelli as the pair collided near the Curry goal. Caraffi was benched. At another time fans rushed across the field, stalling the game.

INVITE CATHOLIC PREP CHAMPIONS TO DEFEND TITLE

Cathedral High school of Indianapolis, winner of last year's national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament, yesterday was invited to participate in the 1934 meet, which is to be held at Loyola university, March 21-25.

The Hoosier quintet breezed through the tournament last year with one of the best teams ever seen on the Loyola floor. Charless Shipp, all tournament center of the Indianapolis team, was voted as the best performer in the tournament.

Cathedral, which has indicated that it will defend its title, is the first Indiana team to win the national Catholic title, although Hoosier teams have reached the semi-finals in almost all of the ten tournaments held. Most of them have been eliminated at that point, but Jasper went into the final game in 1930 and 1931, only to be beaten.

Interest in the tournament appears to be high this year. Inquiries have been received from every part of the country from teams seeking one of the 32 invitations.

Hawks Defeat Canadiens, 4-1, Before 14,000

The Canadiens still were of a mind to play plenty of hocky at the opening of the second period and for three minutes pestered Gardiner with almost no interruption. Gottselig and Couture then informed Chabot that they were able to do business with him and after two profitless attempts, Johnny finally slammed the puck home on an assist from Lolo. The time was 5:40.

Gottselig continued to keep the French goalie off his base almost single handed, but the Canadiens had other ideas, Larochelle and Lepine in particular. They kept sweeping in on Gardiner until Larochelle took a pass from Lepine and hammered it past Chuck. Morens then came on and did his share of pestering Gardiner with solo rushes, but in so doing left Conacher with the makings of his second goal. Lionel took the puck down the ice with the announcer having already said "One minute to play," escorted it by Chabot to make the score 3 to 1. Fore some unknown reason, Gottselig was credited with an assist on the play, although it seemed that it was an obvious solo.

Customer Hurls Potato.

Gottselig, however, demonstrated in the third period that he may have been entitled to another point by the manner in which he skated. Georges Mantha came up against the end boards with a resounding thud, his skates almost dangling over the rim of them and it looked as though he might be out until he rose. Referee Dagneault revealed the source of the spill by sending Trudel to the penalty box for tripping.

Th customers in the upper reaches were in an uproar when March came down of a sudden after a brief clash with Morenz, and although Howie wasn't sentenced, one of the gallery people dispatched a potato at Referee Cleghorn. The Canadiens continued their ferocious efforts to catch up, but couldn't connect.

SHORT WHEAT CROP SEEN FOR CURRENT YEAR

Carryover Prevents Supply Alarm.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Uncertainty over Washington developments is resulting in extremely sharp and erratic grain price fluctuations. These probably will be witnessed, especially in wheat, until the outlook for the new winter crop becomes a major market influence.

While it is still early in the season for accurate estimates on the probable wheat crop of the United States, especially as the spring grain is not yet in the ground, comparison of moisture and other conditions which have a direct bearing on production leads many to believe that a large harvest in 1934 is not to be expected.

The bureau of agricultural economics looks for a winter and spring grain yield of somewhere around 650,000,000 bushels for 1934. This would compare with 527,000,000 bushels in 1933, when it was the smallest since 1894, and about 125,000,000 bushels below the average normal domestic disappearance.

See 20 Per Cent Acreage Cut.

With normal weather conditions the analysis suggests 20 per cent of the 41,002,000 acres of winter wheat seeded will be abandoned, and a further reduction is expected owing to the fact many farmers seeded more acreage than their allotment under the wheat production control program. This excess acreage must either be cut for hay or otherwise destroyed as far as producing grain is concerned.

Many believe the figures are somewhat high, as the total crop is based on the presumption the spring wheat yield may be about normal. Recent reports indicate there is a pronounced lack of subsoil moisture in the American northwest, and under such conditions normal yields are almost impossible.

Regardless of the size of the 1934 harvest, barring a crop disaster which dwarfs that of 1933, there is no reason for any alarm regarding supplies of wheat for the 1934-'35 season in this country. An official report indicated that on Jan. 1 there was a total of around 305,000,000 bushels of wheat available for export during the last six months of the current season or for carryover into the new crop.

? Million Bushels Available.

After allowing for exports from the north Pacific coast with the assistance of the government subsidy and for other extra uses the total remaining on June 30, 1934, may be reduced to 250,000,000 bushels. The latter amount plus a possible new crop of 650,000,000 bushels would give a total available supply for the season of 900,000,000 bushels, or 27,000,000 bushels under that in sight for 1933-'34.

Speculative trading in grains is light in all of the major world markets. This is due to government regulations and so far with the exception of countries where fixed minimum prices prevail there has been relatively little improvement in the world price figured in terms of gold. Actual quotations in Liverpool at the present time are within a few pence of the lowest level known in several hundred years.

Wheat Lower for Week.

Scattered liquidation developed in the wheat market last week and net losses of 1⅛ to 1¼ cents were recorded, with May closing Saturday at 90⅜ to 90¾ cents, July 88⅞ to 89 cents, and September at 89⅞ to 90 cents. Range of prices follows:

Corn futures have held within a range of 3¾ cents per bushel so far this year, the May delivery selling between 50¼ and 54 cents since Jan. 1. Unusual developments are needed to get it out of the rut.

New Incentive Needed.

Limited sales of cash corn by producers who are taking government loans on cribbed grain have been offset entirely by the large visible supply, and some new incentive is regarded as necessary if the market is to get very far in either direction.

Despite the sharp break in corn late in the week net losses Saturday were only ⅝ to ⅞ cent, compared with the preceding week. May finished at 51⅝ to 51¾ cents, July 53⅝ to 53¾ cents, and September at 55⅝ cents. Range of prices follows:

Liquidation in Oats.

Failure of the extremely short crop of oats harvested in 1933 to be reflected in a keen demand for the cash grain started liquidation by holders of futures last week and the close Saturday was 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents lower. Annual Report Is Issued by Peoples Gas

The annual report of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for 1933, which was made public last night by James Simpson, chairman, and George A. Ranney, vice chairman, confirmed earnings figures contained in the preliminary report and disclosed a number of adjustments made in the capital structure during the year.

It was explained that the adjustments were made following a survey and study of the fixed capital, surplus and other accounts partly to conform with the provisions of the Illinois business corporation act of 1933 and the 1933 amendment to the Illinois public utilities act. As a result of the study, the board of directors approved the following transactions:

1. An income reserve covering the Peoples Gas building retirement fund has been discontinued because of another reserve set up on the company's books and the sum of $236,183 was transferred to the surplus account.

Other Charges Listed.

2. Various charges which it is explained might properly have been made against the reserve for contingencies instead of the surplus account were adjusted so that $1,844,995 was transferred to the surplus account.

3. The sum of $3,000,000 credited to the reserve of the service annuity trust was returned to surplus.

4. Additional reserve provisions of $300,000 and $500,000, respectively, against further possible impairment of the value of the investments of Peoples Gas and of Peoples Gas Subsidiary corporation were charged against surplus.

5. It was explained that because of limited information with respect to the character of the surplus existing as of Aug. 2, 1897, the date of the merger of certain companies with Peoples Gas, and with respect to certain cash credits subsequently made "the board of directors decided to follow a conservative policy and therefore allocated to capital surplus the sum of $6,427,125. To this was added the item on the balance sheet of Dec. 31, 1932, designated paid-in surplus, making the present consolidation capital surplus of the company at Dec. 31, 1933, $6,573,297."

Summary of Reserve.

A summary of the consolidated investment reserve disclosed that to the balance of $11,000,000 as of Dec. 31, 1932, there was added during 1933 $500,000 additional provision and $634,669 reserve for unearned income previously deducted directly from investments. From the $12,134,669 total there was deducted $1,000,999 as book value of investments written off as of Dec. 31, 1933. The balance at the end of the year was $11,133,670.

As previously stated the net earning of the company and its subsidiaries for 1933 was $1,960,973, or $2.90 a share.

Bank at Beason, Ill., to Pay 85 Per Cent Dividend

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—George W. Ohmes, receiver for the First National bank of Beason, Ill., announced that he will pay a first dividend of $5 per cent to depositors. This will amount to approximately $65,000 and will be paid out within the next few weeks. The bank closed during the moratorium, March 4, and reopened on a restricted basis. Ohmes became receiver when the bank again closed last September.

PWA TO START SALE OF GENERAL STATE AND CITY OBLIGATIONS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The public works administration today started the machinery to pour more dollars into government coffers through sale of general obligation and revenue bonds of states, cities and other political subdivisions purchased in financing non-federal projects.

The money realized will be turned back to the treasury. In accordance with provisions of the national industrial recovery act, it will be used, officials explained, to meet obligations incurred to meet the cost of carrying out that act. The public works administration received its original $3,300,000,000 through the measure.

While the public works organization said in a statement that ultimately it expected to have $500,000,000 worth of the securities, it would offer "only certain bonds for sale from time to time when marketing conditions appear favorable to the government."

The decision to offer the security holdings was described as an innovation but "in keeping with the government's policy of financing public works." The federal government never before has sold paper of states, counties, and municipalities.

Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, directed that public notice be given calling for sealed bids for the purchase of some of the bonds, acquired under bond purchase contracts. Ickes said all the bonds obtained by the administration had been approved by recognized bond counsel.

DEMAND LOWER RATES EVEN IF ROADS GO BROKE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—The interstate commerce commission was told that if prevailing economic conditions force some railroads out of existence it will be unfortunate, but it is not the consideration of the commission in determining rates.

John Benton of Washington, representing all railroad and utility commissions of western United States in the reopened grain rate case, urged the commission to base its rate determination only upon considerations of reasonableness, fairness, and value of service performed.

"Maybe the capital structure of some roads will have to be revised," Benton said, "but that is not a question for the commission to decide. If reorganizations are necessary it is better that they should take place now rather than that the commission should have to stave off reorganization by imposing unjust and unreasonable burdens on the rate paying public."

Benton opened arguments for western grain producing states who contest the railroads' plea for a continuation of present grain rates. The case was reopened for argument after the Supreme court vacated a 1930 reduction order of the commission and instructed a rehearing.

U. S. OBLIGATIONS SOON TO MATURE OVER 5 BILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—Obligations of the United States government that will mature within the next twelve months amount to $5,055,761,700. They consist of treasury certificates of indebtedness, notes, and noninterest bearing discount bills.

Of the $6,268,094,150 of fourth Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds outstanding approximately $1,900,000,000 has been called for redemption on April 15, 1934, with the offer of exchange for new 3¼ per cent bonds, due in twelve years, callable in ten. The new bonds will bear 4¼ per cent until Oct. 15, 1934. The subscription books have been closed and tabulations thus far indicate exchanges of about $900,000,000, leaving $1,000,000,000 to be paid in cash.

The first Liberty 4¼s are not callable until June 15, 1934, and then only if notice is given by March 15. This issue is outstanding in the amount of $535,982,600. The Liberty 3½s, outstanding in the amount of $1,392,227,350, are likewise callable on June 15 next if notice is given by March 15.

Bituminous Coal Output Shows 4.8 Pct. Advance

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Production of bituminous coal during the week ended Feb. 3 increased 4.8 per cent over the preceding week. The bureau of mines today estimated the week's total output at 7,495,000 net tons, a gain of 345,000 tons. Production during the corresponding week in 1933 amounted to 5,830,000 tons. Illinois production for the week ended Jan. 27 [illegible] week for which individual state figures are available, increased from 922,000 to 924,000 tons.

Steel Activity Highest Since October: 39%

Under the stimulus of augmenting automotive and general manufacturing demand, steel works operations have attained their highest rate since October, gaining 3 points last week to 39 per cent of capacity, reports the magazine Steel.

Activity is expected to exceed 40 per cent this week and grow in intensity during the rest of the month as seasonal construction requirements reach the mills.

An expansion of 6 points to 37 per cent occurred in Chicago plants. In five other producing centers appreciable gains were made, and in three operations were maintained steady. It was only in eastern Pennsylvania that the rate declined—one point to 24½ per cent.

Tin Mills Rise Sharply.

The activity of tin plate mills at Pittsburgh has risen 25 points to 60 per cent because of an influx of orders from canmakers a month and a half before the usual period of buying.

Improvement in national output is an acceleration of expansion already begun in January. The daily average output of steel ingots for last month was 73,969 gross tons, or 1.6 per cent more than in December. Futhermore, the average was 86 per cent in excess of that in January, 1933, and 31 per cent above that in January, 1932. The aggregate for last month was 1,996,897 tons.

Analyzing the current upturn, the journal says:

"Unfilled orders for automobiles, estimated to exceed all that makers can produce in the first half of the year, apprehension over a shortage in material, and the possibility of labor difficulties have resulted in a wave of buying.

New Bookings Heavy.

"Leading sheet and strip mills are booked up through March, output in important districts has been lifted to capacity, and some eastern interests are contemplating adding to their facilities for wide automotive sheets."

The Van Sweringen lines will probably make their first specifications this week on 170,000 tons of rolled steel and 110,000 tons of other iron and steel products for rolling stock recently awarded. The Atlantic Coast line, the Illinois Central, and Milwaukee, are also preparing to realize car-building plans.

As for rails, the Southern Pacific has allotted 40,000 tons among three producers, and the Chicago & North Western and Chicago & Eastern Illinois have completed arrangements for loans financing purchases of rails.

Pennsy to Distribute Orders.

The Pennsylvania will soon distribute its orders for 23,000 tons of plates, shapes, and bars, 18,000 wheels, and 3,000 axles, or one-third of the requirements for its car building program. A Pittsburgh manufacturer has booked 7,000 airbrakes for this carrier.

Structural steel awards last week were about average at 13,899 tons. Pig iron, scrap, and foundry coke have all become more active. The movement of pig iron has improved 25 per cent over that last month, and shipments of foundry coke 45 per cent. Scrap has been strengthened by the United States Steel corporation's purchase of 20,000 tons.

COST OF LIVING REPORT IN RISE DURING JANUARY

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The National industrial conference board announced that the cost of living of industrial wage earners increased 0.3 per cent in January over December, bringing it to a 5.2 per cent higher level than in January, 1933.

Food prices rose 0.4 per cent in January over December, to a level 10.2 per cent higher than January, 1933, while rents declined 0.2 per cent, which made them 5.6 per cent lower than in the same month last year.

Liquid Carbonic Corp. Sales Rise and Loss Is Reduced

Net sales of Liquid Carbonic corporation for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1933, gained 56.6 per cent to $1,546,879 from $987,799 in the corresponding period of 1932. As a result the company's operating loss was cut to $1,480, compared with $252,744 in 1932. The net loss for the quarter was $130,932, against $384,198 in the like quarter of 1932.

COL. ALLAN POPE EXPLAINS NEW BANKING CODE

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Study of a code of fair practice designed to slow down the tempo of the investment banking business in the United States occupied the attention yesterday of a group of 82 investment bankers from all the financial centers of the country at a meeting at the Chicago club. The code, which supplements the basic investment banking code now in effect, was drafted by a committee of twenty-one members appointed by the Investment Bankers' association and the National Recovery administration.

Col. Allan M. Pope, chairman of the committee, and Frank L. Scheffey, vice chairman, both of New York City, and E. C. Wampler of Chicago, reported on the deliberations which are expected to be concluded tonight. The conferees are going over the draft of the code point by point to whip it in shape so that copies may be sent to the five or six thousand investment bankers in time for regional meetings to open on Feb. 19 in 26 cities.

Sees a New Day.

Col. Pope discussed the progress reached so far in the deliberations and expressed the belief that when it is completed the code will signalize a new day in investment banking practice in the United States.

"Our code of fair practice has been under consideration by bankers, public accountants, and a number of important investors from all parts of the country," Col. Pope explained. "There has not been a point discussed in which some one did not raise the question 'How will the public be best served.'

"We in the investment banking business have long realized that there were many practices which were not to the best interest of both ourselves and the investing public. The Investment Bankers' association has never had police powers to compel reform. This situation will be righted as a result of the authority that will be vested in the group which will be given the power to enforce the code under the provisions of the NRA.

Will Aid All Parties.

"Operation of the code should act to slow down the tempo of the investment banking industry. By this I mean that decisions will not be taken as hurriedly as fast moving American business has demanded in the past. This process of slowing down will be of material advantage to the investors, the houses marketing or underwriting securities and to the corporations issuing them."

Col. Pope discussed two provisions of the code of fair practice which he said should prove of great advantage to the investor. Both are expected to be adopted when a final poll of all the investment bankers is taken on the code.

One is a provision which requires that companies issuing securities must issue current reports on their financial position. The frequency of such reports is left to the contract agreed upon between the corporation issuing the securities and the investment banker. However, there must be at least one report in a year.

Exacting Requirements.

The requirements contained in these reports consume three pages of explanation in the code. The details were agreed upon in conference with leading public accountants. Col. Pope said that they will be in such form as to make it possible for the investor to have knowledge of the financial position of a company and it will then be up to him to make his own decision as to whether he feels that the security he owns is satisfactory. These reports are to be made available to the owner of any security by the investment banker. Further, the reports are to be released to the newspapers.

The second important provision discussed by Col. Pope deals with the registration of security dealers. Registration, he pointed out, will enable the investment banking fraternity to throw out members guilty of improper acts. Minor breaches may be punished by fines, etc. Such action is in addition to the authority vested in the group administering the code by the NRA. Col. Pope said that it will permit of much speedier action than will be possible under the regular code authority which must proceed through the courts.

An investment banker will not necessarily have to be a member of the association, but if he is not certain privileges with respect to participation in syndicates, dealers' commissions, etc., will be denied to him. Even if he is ousted from the association an investment banker may continue in business, Col. Pope said. This does not mean that the regular state and federal authorities may not proceed against a house for improper conduct and take away his license under blue sky laws.

PACKER PROFIT RATIO SMALL, SURVEY SHOWS

Far Under Other Lines, Institute Reports.

Packers' profits in ratio to the volume of sales are modest compared with the rates of return to other industries, a statement issued yesterday by the Institute of American Meat Packers declares. The comparison is based on a preliminary analysis of financial statements so far made public.

"Although profits from all sources of the packing industry during the last year showed a substantial improvement, they represented only a small fraction of a cent per pound of product," the institute reports.

"If divided among all consumers of meat and lard in the United States they would have amounted to only about 25 cents per capita per year on an average annual consumption per capita of about 157 pounds.

Would Not Help Producers.

"If added to the price of the live stock bought by the industry they would have increased the price to the producer by only about one-seventh of a cent per pound."

Packers' profits for last year only sufficed to offset the losses of 1932 and 1931, declares the institute.

"The average profit of all manufacturing industries during the ten-year period ended in 1931, as shown by statistics of income tax returns, was nearly 5 cents per dollar of sales as compared with an average profit of less than one cent per dollar of sales for the meat packing industry," the statement continues.

"The packers' profit was equivalent to less than a quarter of a cent on each pound of product sold."

Better Rate on Investment.

On capital investment the industry made a slightly better rate of profit, according to the institute. During the ten-year period the rate was nevertheless only about half as large as that of all manufacturing industries.

"In no year since 1924 have the earnings of companies slaughtering live stock averaged as much as 6 per cent on the investment of their shareholders," the study says. "For the eight years from 1925 to 1932 several hundred companies conducting slaughtering operations earned, according to the figures of the United States department of agriculture, an average of less than 4 per cent on their investment. The rate earned in 1933 was about 4 per cent."

PACIFIC COAST BUSINESS SHOWS JANUARY GAIN

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gains in retailing were general on the Pacific coast in January. They ranged from 5 per cent to 40 per cent above January, 1933. Facts from which these high lights gleamed were gathered by the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco in its monthly survey, covering 114 stores. All but six of these stores showed increases.

The mountain region, including Utah and southern Idaho, held to its lead in the retail recovery, with cash registers chiming more loudly by 24.1 per cent. The southwest was 19 per cent ahead of last year's buying and Pacific northwest retailers took in 15 per cent more than a year ago.

The gain for the 114 stores aggregated 18.7 per cent. This was for department, specialty, apparel, and furniture stores. Eliminating furniture stores, the gain was just 18 per cent, on a level with the national average as shown by surveys of other reserve banks.

Establishment of farm credit headquarters in the city was credited by observers there for giving a big boost to conditions. Besides the advances made in large amounts to farmers, the credit step up brought 800 families with good salaries into the market for merchandise.

General Steel Castings to Reopen Illinois Plant

Granite City, Ill., Feb. 11.—The Commonwealth division of the General Steel Castings company will reopen about April 1, employing about 1,000 men, it was announced here today. The plant has been shut since September, 1931. Officers said the force of 1,000 would be increased as production increases. The firm makes locomotives and box car frames.

ARGENTINE FOREIGN TRADE SHOWS SHARP ADVANCE IN JANUARY

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 11.—The general price improvement was reflected in Argentina's export trade in January, which increased 2 per cent in volume and 47 per cent in value, according to the National Statistical bureau's report published today.

Exports were valued at 150,696,000 paper pesos, or $50,232,000, which is 48,000,000 pesos, or $16,000,000 more than in January of last year. The volume amounted to 1,567,000 tons, a gain of 371,000 tons over January, 1933. The increased value was due principally to a notable price increase in virtually all animal products, especially wool and hides. Grain prices, which are under government control, did not improve as much as the prices of animal products, which are not controled.

The most notable increase was in wool, which rose 29 per cent in volume and 189 per cent in value. The month's wool exports amounted to 24,200 tons, valued at 28,032,000 pesos, or $9,344,000. Export of hides increased 33 per cent in volume and 98¾ per cent in value. Meat exports increased 3½ per cent in volume and 31 per cent in value. Corn shipments increased 287,000 tons in volume, and 13,119,000 pesos, or $4,373,000, in value. The report shows shipments of all animal products increased 11 per cent in volume and 8 per cent in value, while agricultural products increased 21½ per cent in volume and 28 per cent in value.

Both tonnage and value of exports in January were larger than in any month last year.

LOSSES ERASE EARLY ADVANCES IN CURB TRADING

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The curb market met heavy selling last week after starting firmly. Profit taking which appeared in volume on Wednesday was followed by additional selling inspired by nervousness over federal regulation of the stock and commodity exchanges.

Utilities and a number of specialties moved on to higher ground in the first couple of sessions accompanied by heavy volume. However, gains were erased and sharp losses substituted in many of the leaders. Alcohols and oils followed a narrower range but losses predominated.

Heavy losses in the industrial section included Aluminum Company of America, Singer Manufacturing, General Tire and Rubber, and Pan American Airways. Hiram Walker was heavy among the liquor shares. Distillers Corporation-Seagrams and Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" held to a fairly close range. Among petroleum shares Gulf Oil encountered substantial offerings.

Many preferred utility shares displayed initial bouyancy but much of the advantage was lost. Advances of 1 to 4 points were reduced or canceled by Columbian Gas and Electric preferred, Electric Bond and Share common and preferred, American Gas and Electric, and United Light and Power convertible preferred.

KENOSHA NOTES 30 PER CENT GAIN IN EMPLOYMENT

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—An increase of 30 per cent in factory employment over 1933 was reported by the Kenosha Manufacturers' association in January. The number of operatives is still 1,000 short of the average of 9,000 for the last three months of 1933, however.

Kenosha's industrial peace is marred by only one major outbreak. The 185 employés of the Vincent-McCall company, makers of bedsprings, are on strike and are picketing the plant daily. A week ago they walked out, demanding an increase in pay from 34 cents an hour, claimed as their present wage scale, to 50 and 60 cents an hour.

The dispute has been referred to the national labor advisory board in Chicago.

International Harvester to Hold Dividend Meeting

Dividend meetings are scheduled for this week by the boards of these companies, among others: Armour of Delaware [preferred stock], International Harvester, Laclede Gas, Penick & Ford, Seaboard Oil, Texas Gulf Sulphur, and United corporation [preferred stock].

WORLD EVENTS HALT ADVANCE IN STOCK MART

Markets Take Holiday

Security and commodity markets in the leading financial centers, as well as banks, will be closed today in observance of the usual Lincoln's birthday holiday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—Speculation for the much touted spring rise in stocks has been halted, for the time being at least, by the week's major developments at Paris and Washington.

The uprising in the French capital on Tuesday was followed by a flood of selling orders which set the "averages" back 2½ points on Wednesday and the market had hardly steadied itself from that shock when along came President Roosevelt's message, urging drastic regulation of stock and commodity exchanges followed by the presidential order canceling all domestic air mail contracts.

This sent prices tumbling about two points further. The net effect was to cancel from a third to a half of the gains rolled up in the so-called "early spring" advance which got under way about the middle of January and carried through until last Monday night. Industrial shares were robbed of at least 50 per cent of their improvement.

Airplane Shares Sell.

Selling continued in order throughout most of Saturday's abbreviated session, particularly in the airplane and allied shares, and the week-end commission house letters indicated a widespread belief that further "correction" of the list may be in order before the bull element can hope to see the advance resumed on any far reaching scale. Lightening of holdings on any bulge that might develop and postponement of new commitments until some of the uncertainties of the situation are dispelled was generally counseled.

The "street" is deeply troubled over the regulatory move, no mistaking, much as the development had been anticipated and its probable effects discounted. Some of the more pessimistic commentators are saying indeed that if the Fletcher-Rayburn bill should pass in anything like its present drastic form it would mean the end of speculative stock markets, such as the exchanges here, at Chicago, and elsewhere have known in the past.

Short Sale Action.

The sections relating to speculation and short sales by corporation officers, directors, and large stockholders, and the provision for 60 per cent margins would by common consent rob the market of much of its present character if they should become a law. The bulk of trading in some of the more active shares of the list comes from officers or big shareholders of corporations acting in concert with some member of the exchange or other professional.

Diehard optimists of the community are affecting to extract comfort from the fact that President Roosevelt has not specifically indorsed the bill and that "friends of the market" in both houses of congress are sharpening their weapons for a determined attack on some of its more radical provisions when the ring is cleared for action. Against this more or less sanguine view, however, it is pointed out that the President summoned Messrs. Fletcher and Rayburn as well as Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the so-called Fletcher committee investigating the stock exchange, to the White House, and talked over his exchange regulation plan with them before sending his message to congress.

This means, to many, that the bill is substantially in the form the President wants it. It means, moreover—to the same interpretative element—that the measure will go through pretty much "as is."

Regardless of the attitude of the lawmakers, however, the bill cannot become a law before Oct. 1 and the interim will provide plenty of time for one final old fashioned market.

Chicago Flexible Shaft Doubles Profit in 1933

Chicago Flexible Shaft company in 1933 earned $189,515 after charges and taxes and loss of $53,729 by foreign subsidiaries, equal to $1.05 a share. In 1932 the net was $92,759, equal to 51 cents a share. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 reveals current assets of $1,141,233, including cash of $361,711 and current liabilities of $200,071.

FRANCE FACES DIFFICULTIES IN TREASURY CREDIT

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 11.—With the franc showing strength against other currencies the authorities are turning their attention to the serious condition of the treasury. Once again the treasury is depleted and, what is even more serious, holders of maturing short term treasury bonds and national defense bonds are refusing to renew them and demanding cash.

For nearly two weeks there has been virtually no market for unmatured treasury bonds. There was one case ten days ago of a big bank's seeking to provide a few million francs in cash quickly and finding no one willing to buy its treasury bonds.

This is proving a boomerang for the treasury because it discourages renewals upon maturity, but it is felt it is more important at present because large amounts of francs are becoming available for conversion into gold to join the rush to the United States.

Balanced Budget Would Aid.

The formation of the Doumergue government and particularly any steps it may take speedily to balance the budget will help that situation. All banks ordinarily keep an important part of their liquid assets in short term treasury bonds, and if they begin to feel reassured they will again come into the market, thus easing the treasury's situation, but inquiries at certain large banks indicate they will act cautiously until they feel safe.

Financial circles see Premier Gaston Doumergue faced with the necessity of deflating government expenses, involving salary reductions, with consequent lower standards of living and eventual reduced costs of production. These measures may cause social and commercial troubles, perhaps grave ones, it is said. The alternative is inflation, which all governments thus far have resolutely opposed.

Would Reduce Purchases.

What the authorities hope and expect is that M. Doumergue's government will restore confidence inducing renewals and purchases of treasury bonds and that at the same time a loan will be floated here or in London to tide the treasury over this period of low tax returns.

The French are noting with satisfaction the gradual drift of the dollar toward parity. When the gold point is reached it is believed the gold flight ought then to be confined to meeting the favorable American commercial balance, the transfer of capital for investment in Wall street and continued repatriation of American capital. The short account should be largely liquidated by them.

That the exodus of gold is still in full swing, however, is shown by the fact that the liner Europa took on 200,000,000 gold francs yesterday at Cherbourg.

As the week ended the French felt much more cheerful about the franc. They have seen their currency easily weather the dangerous storm of rioting and they have seen the dollar premium greatly reduced while the Bank of France, in raising the rediscount rate, has strengthened its position. There is still a large speculative movement against the franc, but the French are confident of defeating it.

K. C. SOUTHERN'S NEW WAGE SETUP EFFECTIVE MAR. 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—The Kansas City Southern railway's new wage schedule for conductors, trainmen, engineers, and firemen, embodying revolutionary changes in working rules, will become operative on March 1, President C. E. Johnston announced.

The Kansas City Southern's plan has been studied in recent months by other roads in preparation for negotiating with labor on a new contract to replace the present agreement expiring in June. Notice of intention to change may be filed after next Thursday.

The Kansas City Southern plan preserves many of the old rules for seniority rights of employés, but breaks down many of the rules for arbitrary payments, punitive overtime, special compensation for service outside a restricted field, and similar conditions that were held to be burdensome and uneconomical.

The railroad says the plan will reduce strife and misunderstanding and provide fairer distribution among individuals of the earnings of conductors and engineers as a class.

Milwaukee and Southern Roads' Losses Are Lower

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad yesterday reported loss of $14,412,141 for 1933 compared with deficit of $23,269,678 in 1932. Excluding cumulative adjustment bond interest, which is not being currently paid, last year's loss was approximately $5,000,000. In a preliminary report for last year the Southern railway shows net loss of $734,800, against deficit of $11,218,507 in 1932.

TRADE SHOW BOLSTERS BUSINESS ACTIVITY IN CHICAGO LAST WEEK

Business placed by 12,000 out-of-town retailers attending the semi-annual meeting of the Interstate Merchants council gave local trade a vigorous impulse last week, reports the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Wholesalers said that orders from the visitors surpassed six million dollars. One prominent jobber reported the largest attendance of buyers in his showrooms in the last eight years.

Every line of the garment industry was in demand, with house dresses, ready-to-wear, millinery, and hosiery particularly well bought. Gift goods, dry goods, and household utensil classes also sold well.

EXHIBIT TELLS STORY OF FIELD ROLE IN NATION

Chicago Firm's Activity Covers World.

An exhibition now in progress on the fourth floor of the retail store of Marshall Field & Co. graphically illustrates the part this Chicago company plays in the manufacturing and business life of the country. The exhibit, which is to continue through the summer for the benefit of visitors to the Century of Progress, tells the story of the many manufacturing activities of the company.

The show is dominated by a huge "talking map" in which lights flash at the various points throughout the world where there is a Marshall Field owned factory, buying center, wholesale house, etc. Lights flash at many cities on the map in the United States, in Europe, the orient and even in Australia. A touch of a button and a voice is heard telling listeners about the exhibit—its purpose and details of the company's producing activities.

Close by are clanking looms. On one silk fabric is being produced. On another towels are being made.

A Silk Exhibit.

The silk exhibit is especially interesting. First, there is a silk warping machine in which thousands of tiny silk threads are drawn onto a beam before being transferred to the loom. Adjoining is a loom, with a shuttle flying back and forth to complete the job of making silk yardage. If one of the thousands of silk strands breaks, it means that the manufacturing process must be stopped for a repair.

Sitting at a wall close to the loom is a woman designer who interprets on a drawing board style suggestions received from Paris by cable. She draws and colors a design which is to be stamped on the finished silk fabric. Examination of an original drawing at the side of a finished fabric disclosed the exactness of the work done by the artisans.

At another part of the exposition hall, which has been newly decorated, is a loom weaving Turkish towels. This is said to be the first time that such a loom has been shown in Chicago.

Both looms well illustrate what power has done for the convenience of man. It was explained that were the silk shown to have been woven by hand it would have cost upward of $20 a yard instead of around $1.

Other Processes Shown.

Elsewhere in the exposition, a cobbler shows how a pair of shoes is made; a suit of man's clothing is shown ripped apart to demonstrate how it is made; a machine for mixing is in operation, etc.

A story of cotton and of wool is told in picture and in material from along side walls. Dozens of large photographs illustrate various processes in the manufacture of various goods. One shows the town of Fieldale, Virginia, where an entire town was constructed to house the employés of towel and hosiery mills.

The Chicago company has factories and plants in twelve American cities and towns, including 17 in Chicago. Others are located in Spray, Leaksville, Drapers, and Highpoint, N. C.; Fieldale and Roanoke, Va.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Manistee, Mich.; Monticello, Ind.; Pawtucket, R. I., and Zion, Ill. Abroad there are factories at Shatow, China, and Manila, Philippine Islands.

The names of 429 brands of merchandise which are manufactured by Field plants are listed on the wall.

CREDIT SITUATION IN LATIN AMERICA MUCH IMPROVED

Credit conditions in Latin American countries during the last quarter of 1933 distinctly improved in comparison with those of the corresponding period of 1932, according to the foreign credit interchange bureau of the National Association of Credit Men. The survey is based on reports from the member firms of the bureau engaged in trade with Latin America.

"In the credit survey for 1932 the trend was definitely downward, with only three countries showing a slight improvement," said W. S. Swingle, head of the association's foreign department. "In the current survey, the trend during the last quarter of the year is revealed as definitely upward. Fifteen countries show an improvement and declines are indicated in only 4 of the 21 markets covered."

Credit conditions in Porto Rico, Mexico, Venezuela, and Argentina are rated as "fairly good"; Panama, Brazil and Guatemala and "fair"; Costa Rica, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Colombia, Salvador, and Peru as "poor."

LIVING EXPENSES RISE 0.3% AFTER 2 MONTH DROP

The index for January was three-tenths of one per cent above that of December and 5.2 per cent above that of January, 1933, but was still 22.4 per cent below that of the corresponding month of 1929, according to the National Industrial Conference board.

On the basis of 1923 as 100, purchasing power of the wage earner's dollar was 129.0 in January, 1934, against 129.4 in December and 139.9 last April. Prices of food rose four-tenths of one per cent in January over those of December, men's clothing six-tenths of one per cent, and sundries four-tenths of one per cent.

The cost of gas and electricity declined 1.4 per cent in the period July, 1933, to January, 1934, according to the board.

21 Rails Reverse 10 Year Passenger Traffic Trend

The ten year decline in railroad passenger traffic has been reversed by 21 lines thus far in 1934. Roads showing gains over 1933 include the Missouri Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Norfolk and Western, Great Northern, Atlantic Coast Line, Kansas City Southern, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and the Texas and Pacific.

INDUSTRY SHOWS NEW GAINS, LED BY AUTO MAKERS

Increase Textile Output for Spring Trade.

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Industry, led by the automobile makers, began to catch up with the rise in retail and wholesale distribution during the last week.

Retail trade was given a further fillip by extremely cold weather in many parts of the country. Many of the wholesale markets were reported as extremely active in preparation for an active Easter trade.

It was in industrial operations that the most striking gains were noted last week. Many manufacturers of textiles, shoes, and clothing reported capacity operations in preparation for Easter and spring trade.

Auto Production Speeded.

With automobile production now going into high gear, Cram estimates first quarter production at 735,000 units, nearly double the first three months of 1933, and the largest for any first quarter since 1930. Cram's reports indicated a production for the last week of 65,143 units, the largest for the same week in any year since 1930, 8,450 over the previous week, and more than double the 27,063 reported for the same week of last year.

In estimating first quarter output, Cram says "the achievement will be made despite the production difficulties which still handicap operations of many companies and which will not have been eliminated entirely until well into March."

Capital Goods Drag.

The capital goods lines continue to drag relatively and it is chiefly owing to the low rates of activities in these lines that several million workers fail to find normal employment. Building and construction, and renovation of railway equipment, under the spur of government spending and government lending, however, are moving forward more rapidly."

The dollar devaluation, widely interpreted as banishing the bogey of greenback inflation, was widely commented upon in the week's business surveys as inspiring renewed confidence. "Factual devaluation of the dollar," said Standard Statistics company in its weekly business survey, "caps a series of government achievements which has given the business world the signal to prepare for broad expansion on all fronts."

Pennsylvania's Small Lot Freight Shipments Rise

New York, Feb. 11.—The number of way bills for less-than-carload lots of freight issued by the Pennsylvania railroad increased from 278,000 in December when door service became effective to 359,000 in January. Twenty-one per cent of the way bills specified the new service in January.

25 Chain and Mail Store Sales Higher in January

New York, Feb. 11.—Sales of twenty-three chain stores and two mail order companies aggregated $195,727,615 in January compared with $169,687,195 in the same month last year, according to a compilation made by Berrill, Lynch & Co.

Ward Baking.

Investors' Guide: Will you give me information on Ward Baking stocks? —G. H. T.

Answer: Ward Baking company is one of the four major American bakers. It produces bread and cake in about 21 plants in the eastern and middle western sections of the United States. A substantial portion of its business is with large scale purchasers, such as chain retail stores, restaurants, etc.

Net earnings have declined steadily since 1926. Earnings in 1933 were the lowest in the company history. The five year record of earnings follows:

	Net income.	Inc. per pfd. shr.	Inc. per "A" shr.
1933	†$ 397,000	$ 1.52	*$17.23
1932	§ 658,000	2.52	* 14.51
1931	1,989,000	7.33	.61
1930	2,059,000	7.39	.28
1929	3,124,000	10.41	11.32

During 1933 bread sales increased 17½ per cent [28,000,000 pounds] over 1932, about one-third of which was from higher prices, while cake sales decreased 10 per cent. Although the drop in cake sales had its effect on profits, the major factor in the falling off of net income in 1933 was the high cost of materials, especially those subject to processing tax, and higher cost of labor.

At the close of 1933 current assets, including cash assets of $2,938,000, totaled $4,905,000, against current liabilities of $1,005,000. Funded debt, due June 15, 1937, amounted to $3,959,000. There are outstanding 261,008 shares of 7 per cent preferred, 82,975 shares of class A, which is entitled to $3 per share per annum, participating share for share with the class B on further dividends, and 500,000 class B common shares.

Dividends on the $100 par preferred are currently being paid at 50 cents a quarter. Unpaid accumulated dividends totaled $8.25 per share on Jan. 2, 1934. Nothing has been paid on the class A since Jan. 1, 1929. The preferred and the class A are speculative. The class B is purely speculative.

COLOMBIA COULD PAY INTEREST WITH NEW GOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—The republic of Colombia, if it chooses to do so, can resume the full interest on all of its external debts through the sale of newly mined gold to the United States treasury at $35 an ounce, as provided for under the gold reserve act of 1934, according to a statement issued today by the independent bondholders' committee for Colombia.

It is pointed out that in 1933 Colombia produced approximately 380,000 ounces of gold, equivalent to $13,300,000 at $35 an ounce, whereas the interest requirements are but $12,850,000.

Interest Requirements.

"The interest requirements on all of the Colombia national external debt requires approximately $4,250,000 annually," the statement points out. "The departmental bonds require $4,202,500, municipal bonds, $1,433,700, and the mortgage bank debt, both public and private, $2,725,000, including bonds outstanding in London.

"The corresponding debt is estimated now to be outstanding to the extent of $51,250,000 of 6 per cent bonds of the national government held by American investors; $16,951,050 in short term notes held by American and British bankers; and approximately $5,500,000 of sterling bonds outstanding in London. The departmental debt is $59,904,000 in bonds, and the municipal debt, $20,463,000 due in the United States. Mortgage bank bonds outstanding in the United States have been reduced to about $25,000,000, and those outstanding in London to about $8,400,000.

Most of Debt Held in U. S.

The statement draws attention to the fact that aside from the advantage to Colombia which has been occasioned by the increased price of gold in New York, the devaluation of the dollar to 59.06 cents has automatically increased the price of Colombian coffee here. It is pointed out that in view of the gain of a cent a pound which has already occurred, the value of Colombian coffee exports to the United States have been increased by $4,500,000 annually, based on the shipments of 3,000,000 bags in 1933 thus increasing Colombia favorable trade balance.
